CHURCH SEEKS NATIONAL VOTE ON MEXICAN RELIGIOUS LAW

Proposal of Plebiscite and Alleged Plot to Murder Calles Mark First Priestless Sunday.

GOVERNMENT OUSTS DISLOYAL EMPLOYES

President Reviews Union Parade in Capital — 11 Casualties Reported in Clash at Guadalajara.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2.—An announcement that the Catholic episcopate is willing to enter upon a truce with the Mexican Government until the Mexican people are able to express themselves by plebiscite on the religious controversy, and the discovery of a plot to assassinate President Calles, were the outstanding features of Mexico's first priestless Sunday.

Notwithstanding the great parade of the Regional Confederation of Labor, which required two hours to pass the palace, the day was as peaceful as the capital ever has been.

While the marchers passed the palace, where President Calles, surrounded by his Ministers, stood waving his handkerchief in answer to the cheering, members of the faithful were kneeling in prayer in many churches, beseeching an intervention of the situation brought about by the Government trying to force its religious regulations.

In the Catholic churches, with priests at the altars, were open prayer except the great cathedral and several of the downtown places of worship, past which the parade made its way. The doors of these were closed in the fear that some untoward event might occur.

Dispatches from all parts of the republic indicate that tranquility prevailed Sunday everywhere. Although there was tense feeling at some places, no actual trouble developed. The Government had made strong military preparations in advance promptly to suppress disorder.

Church Offer of Truce.

The episcopate asked the Government to suspened the religious persecutions and the "anti-religious constitutions" during a 'truce.'

"On its part," says the statement, "the Episcopate is willing to give a solution to the conflict which may save public liberties and at the same time not be unbecoming to the Government."

The statement declares some of the American diplomatists and high Government officials have offered their good offices to settle.

"The Episcopate," it continues, "in its slight hopes for a successful outcome of this offer, has not only accepted it, but without success as yet. However, we are confident, and we desire that President Calles may not be absolutely deaf to the voice of the people.

"The present religious conflict is a useless duel. It is a ruinous affair from an economic point of view, as the blockade gives promise of being effective."

Alleged Assassination Plot.

The alleged conspiracy to kill President Calles is said to have been headed by Miss Dolores Leon, a young stenographer who has a position in the City Hall, and overlooks the presidential palace. Miss Lemus and several other women and men have been arrested by the police.

Some of the secret service operatives asserts that he was present at meetings held by the alleged conspirators and once heard Senora Obregon, wife of a soap manufacturer, and one of those arrested, say: "It is better for one man to die than to shed the blood of many."

The police say all those held are members of the Catholic Defense Society.

In the capital, the bull fight drew its usual crowd of spectators, as was the case with the moving pictures and other theaters. Restaurants and cafes had their usual patronage.

The economic boycott of the League for Defense of Religious Liberty has taken effect at various places, but its extent has not become apparent. The Government has commenced dismissal of employes who are not supporting the religious policy. Two department heads at the City Hall Showers have occurred in the northern Rocky Mountain regions, North Dakota, Missouri and in most of the country east of the Mississippi River. They were mostly light but at a few widely scattered stations they were quite heavy. An area of high atmospheric pressure stretches from Kansas northeastward to Lake Superior. Northerly winds prevail throughout the central part of the country.

July Second Dryest Month Here.

July was the second dryest month in the history of the St. Louis station of the Weather Bureau. The rainfall was only .54 of an inch. The least amount of rainfall in any July here was in 1890, when .37 of an inch fell. July also was the warmest July since 1921—2.3 degrees warmer each day than the normal mean of 78.7 degrees.

U. S. WILL STAY DRY, LADY ASTOR PREDICTS

First Woman M. P. Arrives in Boston to Show America to Her Children.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Lady Astor, first woman member of the British Parliament, arrived on the steamship Samaria today with the announced intention of showing America to four of her children. Her eldest son is on military duty and cannot leave England and her second son, now with his father in California, will join the party in Maine.

She was met at the dock by Charles Dana Gibson, her brother-in-law, at whose summer home at Dark Harbor, Me., she is to stay for three weeks. Lady Astor said she intended to show her children historic Boston before taking the boat tonight for Rockland, Me.

She said she had left politics behind her in seeking rest in Maine and Virginia, where she had spent her honeymoon and her childhood, but did make a few comments on the war debts and world peace.

English criticism of America's position on war debts, she declared, had been stirred up only by newspapers and had been quickly suppressed as contrary to the opinion of both public and statesmen.

"Of course debts of any kind never make for good will," Lady Astor said, "particularly when they are war debts. England has made up her mind to pay and she will pay. It would be contrary to the English nature to do otherwise. It seems a pity that England should have been discriminated against in the terms of settlement, but in the end she will not lose by it.

"Several members of Parliament with whom I discussed the recent attacks on the American attitude as started a fortnight ago by the Daily Mail, expressed themselves as thoroughly ashamed of such condemnation."

Expects Prohibition to Stick.

The visit of Gen. Andrews to London to obtain greater co-operation with England in the prevention of liquor smuggling is not an issue which bulks large in the English mind, she said. "The coal crisis overshadows all else but all right-minded people favor assisting in all possible ways the enforcement of prohibition as a step in the right direction. I am certain that America will never go back. I question whether prohibition has had an evil effect on youth in this country and I am certain when the next generation comes along the question will be forgotten.

"If young girls have been misbehaving and grown too fond of cocktails, I blame the mothers and not prohibition. I was one of eight in Virginia and I have six children myself. I can't imagine how any girl could carry on as some are reported to do. Catch my daughter doing it!

Pressed for further views on European affairs she said: "I'm no Arkansas traveler, you know."

CITY FIRE TRUCKS RACE 45 MILES TO BLAZE AT DE SOTO

Two St. Louis Companies Make Run in 90 Minutes —Flames Supposedly of Incendiary Origin.

HOTEL GUESTS FLEE IN NIGHT CLOTHING

Two Explosions Precede Discovery of Fire in General Store at 3 A. M. — Loss Put at $115,000.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DE SOTO, Mo., Aug. 2.—Fire, believed to be of incendiary origin, early today destroyed two buildings on Main street and for a time threatened to spread through the entire block, which includes the Commercial Hotel.

Damage to buildings and stock was estimated at $115,000.

The fire was confined to two buildings through the combined efforts of the De Soto and Festus fire departments and two fire companies from St. Louis which made the 45-mile run to De Soto in 90 minutes.

It was said this morning that the St. Louis companies with their experienced fire fighters and powerful apparatus, were the greatest factors in confining the fire to two buildings. Their high capacity pumpers were connected with the city plugs and within half an hour after they had arrived the fire was under control.

The fire was discovered at 3 a. m. in the general store of Samuel R. Lousch at 213 South Main street, two doors north of the Commercial Hotel. It was preceded by two explosions which aroused the 40 guests of the hotel and sent them to the street in their night clothing.

Missouri Pacific fast mail train No. 7 had just pulled into De Soto as the fire broke out and the engineer blew his whistle for several minutes to arouse the town while a night policemen fired his pistol in the air and asked several motorists to sound their sirens.

The fire spread within a few minutes through the two-story brick and frame building housing the Lousch store and attacked the adjoining structure at 214 South Main street, housing the E. A. Chackes clothing store and the Union Electric Light & Power Co. office.

Damage to the Lousch building, owned by William J. Knorpp, was estimated at $30,000. Chackes said the building housing his store, owned by I. F. Silberstein, a resident of California, was worth $15,000. Lousch estimated loss to his stock at $15,000.

The Commercial Hotel was damaged $10,000 by water, Knorpp said, while damage to fixtures was estimated at $7000 by its manager, W. B. Beyington. Chackes said his stock was damaged $30,000 and his fixtures $5000. The Union Electric equipment, all destroyed, was valued at $3000.

One of the buildings housed the office of County Surveyor J. N. Agnew, who had the surveying records of Iron, Jefferson and Washington counties there. They were destroyed in the fire.

NINE DIE AT GRADE CROSSINGS

Five Girls Meet Death When Train Strikes Automobile.

By the Associated Press.

GASTONIA, N. C., Aug. 2.—Five girls were killed and one seriously injured at a grade crossing between Gastonia and Bessemer City, when the small truck in which they were riding was struck by a Southern Railway passenger train.

The dead are: Bertha Wright, 16 years old; her sister, Laura Wright, 20; Inez and Willard Jenkins, sisters, and Annie Gertrude Cloniger. Ida Bess is in the hospital with both legs broken and other injuries. All the girls were from Bessemer City. Miss Cloniger was driving her father's grocery delivery truck.

By the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 2.—Four persons were killed when a southbound train on the Pennsylvania Railroad struck their automobile at a grade crossing, a mile south of Blackbird station, near here. The dead: Guerney Smith, 25 years old; Marjorie Smith, 19; his sister; J. R. Hill, 28, and Anna Morris, 19, all of Centerville, Del.

Half Way Across in Channel Swim

MISS CLARABELLE BARRETT.

American Woman Tries To Swim the Channel

Miss Clarabelle Barrett of New York Going Strong After First Twelve Miles.

By the Associated Press.

DOVER, England, Aug. 2. — At 1 p. m. today, five hours after entering the water, Miss Clarabelle Barrett of New York was 12 miles out, on a straight line between Dover and Calais, in her attempt to swim the English Channel.

She thus had made half the distance in almost record time and was still going strong. Weather conditions were favorable and her chance of success seemed good. If she succeeds, she will be the first woman to swim the channel.

Miss Barrett began with an overhand stroke and a crawl kick and was more than a mile out at the end of half an hour. A launch accompanied her. A crowd of early bathers gave the American an enthusiastic send-off as she took the plunge.

Miss Barrett, 6 feet tall, is a thoroughly experienced swimmer, perfectly at home in the water and full of confidence. Experts who saw her start conceded that she had a chance to win.

Dr. George Brewster of London also made the attempt today. He entered the water at 11 a. m. and by 2 p. m. was five miles off Dover, on a line off Folkstone.

Miss Barrett Swimming Teacher; Made Remarkable Swim Last Year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Necessity of earning a living for herself and a widowed mother seven years ago prompted Miss Clarabelle Barrett to become a professional swimming teacher and acquire the ability which sent her on a quest to conquer the English channel. Miss Barrett is 32 years old and is swimming teacher in the new James Monroe high school in the Bronx.

Although virtually unknown in swimming circles she attracted attention by her unusual speed and stamina in the water last June when she swam approximately 11 miles from the New Rochelle breakwater across Long Island Sound to Sea Cliff, in 10½ hours.

Miss Barrett's father was Nathan Franklin Barrett, nationally known as a landscape artist.

ANOTHER ADVANCE OF 12 POINTS IN GENERAL MOTORS

Record High Price of $201.50 for Present Shares of Stock of Firm Reached.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Leading another vigorous upturn in the stock market, General Motors today crossed $200 a share, establishing a record high price for the present shares. The tremendous buying movement in the stock which has been underway for a week or more gathered fresh speed today, lifting the price more than 12 points above last week's closing figure.

Dupont kept pace with the rise and many other motor issues were heavily bought.

Excited bidding for the stock threw the stock exchange into an uproar in the final hour of trading. Fully half the brokers on the floor milled around the trading post. Before the close the shares attained a new peak of 201½, a net gain of 12 points for the day.

Speculative enthusiasm for General Motors, aroused by the company's record half year earnings, was stirred up still further today by publication of a statement credited to one of the partners of J. P. Morgan & Co., in which it was said, on the basis of present earning power, General motor should sell much higher.

TOURISTS IN GLACIER PARK FLEE BEFORE FOREST FIRES

Western Entrance Closed; Flames Continue Out of Control in Montana and Idaho.

By the Associated Press.

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 2.—Forest fires continue to sweep beyond control lines in Northern Idaho and Montana today, forcing visitors to flee from western Glacier National Park resorts as volunteer fighters are recruited in an effort to cope with the blazes.

The Fortine fire in the Blackfoot Forest, in the park district, which Saturday destroyed 50 buildings at Stryker, is reported still out of control. The only casualty reported was the death of Nels Nelson, railroad section foreman, caught in flames near Turah.

Glacier Park officials yesterday closed the western entrance when flames consumed two cottages at Apgar, at the foot of Lake McDonald. High winds last night sent the flames into new timber stands. Blazes are also raging on the Kaniksu, Blackfoot, Pen d'Oreille, East Selway, Flathead and Coeur d'Alene forests.

A fire near Seattle early today entered a tract of 1640 acres of virgin timber, and one near Eatonville, Wash., south of Tacoma, is menacing logging property and timber.

ASSAILS DRY LAW IN CHURCH

Congressman Says She Is First for an Enforceable Act.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Representative Florence P. Kahn, who ardently advocates modification of the Volstead Act, voiced her opposition to the prohibition law in a church here yesterday. The injection of prohibition into the Congresswoman's address occurred when Mrs. Minera Swain, presiding at the First Congregational Church, asked Mrs. Kahn for her attitude on the issue.

"I am for law enforcement," she declared, "but before we can have that we must have an enforceable law." Applause greeted her statement that Government regulation was probably the best answer to the problem of national temperance. A heckler in the rear of the church, who asked whether her campaign was financed by bootleggers, was told by Mrs. Kahn that she did not know a bootlegger, "although I have accepted wine at dinners in the homes of my friends."

800,000 Telephones in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—The fiftieth year of the telephone in Chicago was marked yesterday with the installation of the 800,000th phone here. The instrument was installed in the office of B. E. Sunny, who installed the first four telephones in Chicago in 1887.

FATHER AND SON ARE KILLED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Bridge Contractors, Living in County, in Car That Skids in Dust Near West Frankfort, Ill.

YOUNGER MAN'S NECK BROKEN

T. M. Peterson, 47, Injured Internally, Removed to Hospital but Succumbs Within an Hour.

James Peter Peterson, 24 years old, of 8826 Manchester avenue, Brentwood, was killed and his father, Thomas M. Peterson, 47, suffered fatal injuries yesterday afternoon when an automobile in which they were riding skidded in the dust and overturned near West Frankfort, Ill.

The younger Peterson's neck was broken and his chest crushed. T. M. Peterson died of internal injuries, an hour later, at a West Frankfort hospital.

He and his son were contractors working on bridge construction for the State near Thompsonville, Ill. Yesterday morning they set out from Thompsonville to explode a charge of dynamite placed Saturday night at the scene of construction work. They accomplished their mission and were returning to Thompsonville when the accident happened.

Girl Killed, Five Persons Injured as Auto Crashes Into Sign Post.

A cloud of dust which obscured a sharp curve on the Antire road, a mile west of Eureka, St. Louis County, caused a fatal automobile accident late Saturday night in which Miss Edna Strawbridge, 20 years old, of 6055 Harney avenue, was killed and five other persons slightly injured.

Edward Shiffiett of Meramec Highlands said he was driving west behind two other machines which raised the dust cloud. When he realized he was at a curve he turned quickly, he related, and crashed into a sign post at the roadside. The machine rolled over several times down an embankment.

Miss Strawbridge, who was in the rear seat, was thrown clear of the machine and killed when her head struck a stone.

Miss Eleanor and Miss Gertrude Carney, 20 and 23, respectively, of 7277A Manchester avenue, were taken to their home suffering with cuts and bruises and nervous shock. Three men in the party, Shiffiett, Roy Shimos and Logan Jones, all of Meramec Highlands, were cut and bruised. The machine was virtually demolished.

Miss Strawbridge's body was taken to Kirkwood where an inquest will be held. Funeral services will be Wednesday afternoon from an undertaker's chapel at 4245 Lindell boulevard, with burial in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Former Belleville Police Chief Dead in Auto Accident.

Joseph Rodenmeyer, 56 years old, assistant chief guard at the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Chester, and formerly police chief of Belleville, was killed last night in an automobile accident at Ruma, Ill., north of Chester.

Rodenmeyer's home was at 217 South Fourteenth street, Belleville. He is survived by a widow and two daughters.

Rodenmeyer visited his family yesterday, arriving in an automobile driven by Ferd Engler, 29, a guard at the penitentiary. On the way, they had stopped at Millstadt, Ill., where Engler visited his relatives.

Returning to Chester, the automobile skidded on a wet and muddy highway at Ruma, at 11 o'clock last night, and struck an embankment. Rodenmeyer was crushed to death, and Engler was cut and bruised.

The inquest will be at Chester today, after which Rodenmeyer's body will be taken to Belleville for burial.

Family of Six Escapes After Auto Turns Over Into Ditch.

A family of six escaped without injury when an automobile skidded on Denny road near Manchester road and turned over into a ditch, during a rainfall at 6 p. m. yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Deters of 6533 Plymouth avenue, and their four children were in the car.

The accident occurred when Deters' eldest son, Francis, 17, who was driving, tried to stop at a narrow one-way bridge. The machine turned over on its side.

POLITE BURGLAR CHATS WITH PAIR AS HE ROBS HOME

Intruder in Yonkers, N. Y., Residence Trusts Victims Enjoyed Social Affair.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"And how," inquired the burglar of Mr. and Mrs. John Stilwell at their home in North Broadway, Yonkers, as he rested his pistol on the foot of the bed, "did you enjoy the social affair last evening. The opera? Or just an hour or two at bridge with friends? We trust the occasion was enjoyable.

"Your hand, please, madame. Ah, no rings. Well, we can't have everything. Good night."

A neighboring clock tolled the half hour after four in the morning as the burglars stepped out of the window of the bedroom on the second floor. Then Stilwell and his wife counted their losses.

Several details of the robbery puzzled police. The telephone wires were cut inside the house instead of outside. Valuables worth at least $40,000, including a pearl necklace and other articles of jewelry that must have been seen by the intruders, were not taken.

BELGIAN KING EATS BLACK BREAD AND GIVES UP AUTOS

Sets Example in Economy Campaign; Detained for Speeding on His Motor Cycle.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 2.—King Albert, by strict adherence to his own decrees as financial dictator, is setting example in economy. Black bread exclusively is served at the royal table, and none of the King's three motor cars has been seen on the streets since the economy campaign began.

Two gendarmes halting a motor cyclist racing toward Brussels from Laeken nearly fainted when they read the driver's permit, as it was made out to "Albert of Belgium."

The King shook hands with the gendarmes and reassured them, saying, "You did right; it is your duty—but I am a little late for work," and sped away.

HUNT FOR GOLD IN LOUISIANA

Torrents of Rain Fail to Disturb Many Men and Boys.

By the Associated Press.

ABITA SPRINGS, La., Aug. 2.—Torrents of rain failed to dampen the ardor of several hundred men and boys who searched for buried gold yesterday and last night on the old Quave homestead, five miles from here. Picks, hoes and shovels were wielded without success by the treasure hunters.

Reports that nearly $50,000 in gold coined more than half a century ago had been unearthed by Ran Quave on the site of the grave of his grandfather, Peter Quave, caused the excitement. Ran Quave has denied finding more than a few coins.

LONDON 'FLYING COP' A WOMAN

Commandant Mary Allen Uses Airplane Whenever She Can.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Commandant Mary Allen, co-founder of the women's police service in London, ahs become known as Europe's "flying cop" since she is one of the most traveled police officials in the world. When possible she makes her trips by aeroplane.

Commandant Allen, who is credited with knowing more women criminals of all countries than any other woman in the police business, visited the United States two years ago.

She thinks nothing of flying to Paris and Berlin on one day and back to London the next.

VACATION FOR BERLIN HORSES

City Animals Have Three-Week Lay-off; It Pays, Officials Say.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—All truck and delivery horses owned by the city are having a three weeks' vacation this summer on a 200-acre municipal horse "sanitarium," in charge of a corps of veterinarians. Officials say it pays to give horses a rest. The animals get all the oats and hay they can eat and prance around the meadows or loll in the shade under the trees.

Many private business concerns are adopting the idea, sending their horses to the same farm while drivers are on vacation.

Coins Stolen From Museum.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Twenty-four ancient Roman imperial gold coins, said to be priceless since they are the only coins of their kind in existence, have been stolen from the Victoria and Albert Museum. They belonged to the Salting bequest collection and are from 1700 to 2500 years old. Many Scotland Yard men are engaged in an investigation.

HAWES' FRIENDS CONFIDENT; DOUBT AS TO WILLIAMS IN SENATE RACE

Senator's Charge of Proctor-Priest Collusion Adds Perplexing Phase to Republican Contest.

LITTLE INDICATION OF ITS EFFECT

Lack of Time for Adequate Reply May Cause Detriment Instead of Benefit to Incumbent.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

With time too short for mass reaction to become manifest within the Republican party to Senator Williams' last minute charge of collusion between the political organizations of his opponents, tomorrow's outcome of the Williams-Proctor-Priest senatorial campaign can be viewed only as being doubtful, with little surface indication of the result.

The Democratic race of Hawes and Cockrell for the long term and Hawes and Meredith for the short term is in a different situation, with surface signs pointing to the nomination of Hawes in both instances.

It may be that the Williams' charges have completely wrecked the Proctor line-up and dissolved the wet support of Priest, which would have aided Proctor's campaign. Or it might be the that the charges coming at such a late hour that there was no opportunity for adequate reply, would cause a wave of indignation which would operate to Williams' detriment instead of benefit.

No Indication of Effect.

There is nothing to indicate which of the two theories correctly reflects the effect of the statement.

Until the issuance of Senator Williams' statement last Saturday and the making public of the Wilson affidavit, the Republican contest had appeared to be very close, with the result dependent upon the volume in which "the silent vote" in the rural districts appeared at the polls.

This seemed to be due to a strength Blodgett Priest, the "wet" candidate, had developed in St. Louis and in a group of counties in which voters of German descent were in the majority. All of this Priest strength was taken directly from Senator Williams, and, unless it has been dissipated by the disclosures in the Wilson affidavit, will cut Williams' vote materially.

With Williams' strength thus reduced in Republican strongholds, it appeared only necessary for David M. Proctor, the "dry," to get to the polls through the influence of the W. C. T. U. and the Antisaloon League the dry rural vote which could not be controlled by he unusually strong organization supporting Williams.

Some Drys for Williams.

Williams, of course, through the support of former Gov. Hyde, has considerable fellowing among the drys, which discounts to some extent the campaign of his opponent. It appears certain the Republican vote will be light, probably not in excess of 1922, when it was approximately 250,000, low that year because many Republians, interested in the renomination of Senator Reed, voted in the Democratic primary.

As in the Democratic primary more than 75 per cent of the vote is in the State outside of St. Louis, though, of course, that within the city is more easily controlled by organization methods. In St. Louis the Republican vote may be expected to go slightly above 70,000, which, roughly, would leave 180,000 to be cast out in the State.

As has been said, the furface indications in the Democratic primary are for a Hawes' victory over both his opponents, though there is apparent throughout the rural section a strong opposition to Hawes. It would seem that it will be necessary for the Hawes forces to pile up rather large majorities for him in St. Louis and Kansas City, where the Democratic organizations are a unit in his support, to make certain his nomination.

Source of Cockrell's Vote.

There are few signs of pro-Cockrell strength, but the anti-Hawes sentiment amounts to the same thing as there is no other candidate than Cockrell for the long term for it to go to.

The total Democratic vote in the state may reach 275,000, with some 50,000 in St. Louis and slightly less than that in Kansas City and Jack-

MEXICAN TROUBLE PUTS WASHINGTON IN A DILEMMA

With Many Problems Pending Between Two Nations, Church Issue Brings Them to Halt.

AMBASSADOR TO RETURN ON LEAVE

Catholic Sympathizers and K. K. K. Elements Factors Involved in Approaching Campaign.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Mexico's trouble with the Catholic Church has put the American Department of State in a serious dilemma.

All sorts of questions are pending between the two countries over claims by Americans that their property has been confiscated; over the unsettled matter of the retroactive feature of their oil land laws and over the agrarian legislation and it has been common report that a note was about to be sent demanding action on some of these things when the flare-up over the church came.

Now everything is at a standstill, for any drastic message would be construed as appertaining to the present controversy that is disturbing Mexico.

Ambassador Sheffield is coming to Washington shortly on a 60-day leave, during which the legation will be in charge of Counselor Arthur Shoenfeld.

Exchange of Threats.

The explosion that followed Sheffield's last visit to Washington has not yet ceased reverberating. After he had talked to President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg, the Secretary of State issued a formal statement notifying President Calles that "we can not countenance violation of Mexico's obligations and failure to protect American citizens" and in the course of the statement Mexico was specifically warned that our prohibition of the sale of arms and munitions to others than the Government of Mexico might be raised if that country did not behave itself. Secretary Kellogg's language was:

"It should be made clear that this Government will continue to support the Government in Mexico only so long as it protects American lives and American rights and complies with its international engagements and obligations." To this President Calles responded just as fiercely, for he implied that Mr. Kellogg misstated the facts and, taking due note of the threat, announced that Mexico rejected it "with all energy because she does not accord to any foreign country the right to intervene in any way in her domestic affairs, nor is she disposed to subordinate her international relations to the exigencies of another country."

The situation has not changed materially since the exchange of threat and defiance; some more notes have passed between the two countries, but as disclosed by the correspondence made public in response to the demand of the Senate, three months ago, nothing much has happened, though the notes avoided the bellicose tone of these two declarations.

Special Restrictions Altered.

When our Government recently began to lift a corner of the embargo relieving from its operation sulphuric acid and then commercial airplanes—some people interpreted it as having a bearing on the Kellogg warning, but it is more probable that it was simply in response to the complaints of American manufacturers that European dealers in arms and materials that might be used for war purposes were shipping their products into Mexico unhampered and protesting that they should have the same access to a lucrative market.

It was intended to do away with the special restrictions imposed when Charles Evans Hughes was at the head of our foreign affairs. It served then to stop the De la Huerta revolution against Obregon and became the official policy of the United States in the interest of stabilizing existing government in Latin-America.

At the same time we refused to permit De la Huerta to buy arms in this country, we sold the Obregon government rifles, airplanes and machine guns.

Recently it was announced from the President's vacation home that the embargo would not be raised further at this time, which means that the various embryo revolutions which are threatened because of the dissatisfaction over the religious issue are gong to be handicapped as was the De la Huerta venture.

Criticism From Church Side.

Naturally this is bringing criticism from American sympathizers with the church side of the Mexican controversy, but, on the other hand, had the embargo been lifted at this time it would have been regarded as direct encouragement to the potential insurgents to go ahead with Uncle Sam's blessing.

With a political campaign coming on in the United States, the question has become a delicate one. Checking the policy of eliminating the arms restrictions on which we had embarked is bound to be resented by the sympathizers of the church side, and any backwardness in doing it would be even more bitterly resented by the Ku Klux Klan—and both elements have a vital effect on the destinies of various senators and representatives who are to be elected in November.

It is no wonder that Mr. Kellogg is going to the Adirondacks to visit the President.

Text of Church Proposal for Plebiscite on Religious Laws

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2.

THE statement of the Mexican Episcopate, issued yesterday to the Associated Press, expressing willingness to enter into a truce with the Mexican Government, is as follows:

"On its part, the Episcopate is willing to give solution to the conflict, that may save public liberties and at the same time not be unbecoming to the Government. The Episcopate will be willing to enter a truce for a reasonable length of time, during which the new religious regulations and all others, as well as antireligious persecutions, may be suspended, and, after this truce a definite settlement to be reached through a national plebiscite through which the people may express their real feeling.

"Some Latin-American diplomatists and some high Government officials have offered their good offices to mediate. The Episcopate, despite its slight hopes for a successful outcome of this offer, has sincerely accepted it, but without any success yet. However, we are confident, and we desire that President Calles may not be absolutely deaf to the voice of the people.

"The present religious conflict is a needless duel, because as soon as the Government grants the people religious liberty and other rights to which they are entitled, according to the Constitution of the country, the conflict will be settled. It is an uneven duel, because the Government controls the press, can make use of violence through hunger, and of public forces, while the people on their part are defenseless.

"It is a ruinous duel from an economic point of view, as the blockade gives promise of being effective. Finally, it is a glorious duel, because the people will recover their liberties through self-denial.

"The situation is serious. Religious services have been suspended throughout the country, and the people who are profoundly Catholic are deeply grieved at being deprived of them. The days preceding the suspension of religious services were of unusual religious activity; the zeal of the worshipers was even greater than that shown at the eucharistic congress at Chicago. The churches remain open, the people visiting them in large numbers.

"Another evidence of the strength of Catholicism in Mexico is the enthusiasm awakened by the National League for the Defense of Religious Liberty. Within only a few weeks the adherence of the entire country has been secured by an economic blockade, which officially became effective Saturday, but which, in effect, has been going on for days.

"The Government has increased its rigor. Many have been arrested for distributing leaflets which are not seditious. On the other hand, all sorts of anti-Catholic propaganda is being circulated.

"A National League for the Defense of Liberty of Conscience has been organized and is craftily attacking the movement of the League for Religious Liberty, seeking to deceive Catholics by the similarity of its name and the name of the other league.

"The Regional Confederation of Labor's demonstration today was absolutely unpopular. All the members of that organization, a good many of them Catholics, were forced to participate under threat of dismissal, with the loss of salaries and the difficulty of getting work in the future.

"Similar pressure was exerted upon Government employes. Notwithstanding, many individuals, even entire unions, refused to attend, and a large grup of confederation members, signed a manifesto openly opposing the antireligious work of their leaders. The confederation says 50,000 attended, but scarcely 10,000 or 15,000 participated.

"An evidence of the unpopularity of the demonstration was the lack of spectators and the little echo awakened among them by the expressions of some of the paraders. It is lamentable that some of the banners insulted the Pope, the church, the clergy and religious societies, such as the Knights of Columbus."

Pope Devotes Day to Prayers for Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Aug. 2.—By the express desire of Pope Pius, the entire day at the vatican was devoted to meditation and prayer in behalf of Mexico. Thus, there were no ceremonies, all audiences and receptions were cancelled, and the pontiff celebrated mass earlier than usual in his private chapel. He admitted no one, dedicating the service to Mexico.

In the afternoon, the Pope, accompanied by Msgr. Migone, his private chamberlain, entered the Pauline chapel, where he remained for 15 minutes, again praying for Mexico. Afterwards he drove through the vatican grounds, and on his way back, stopped once more at the Pauline chapel and prayed.

Prayers for Mexico were also recited in all the churches of Italy, attended by large crowds, especially here at St. Peters, St. John Lateran, St. Maria Maggiore and St. Peter in Chains, the day being of the festival of the last named church.

Cardinal Capotositi, titular bishop of the church of St. Peter in Chains conducted the service, while Canon Busachi delivered the sermon. The Mexican Government, the Canon declared, had violated the most elementary rights of citizens. He attributed the storm now sweeping over Mexico to "anti-religious, anti-Catholic sects which hate the brave attitude of the Catholic episcopacy and clergy in behalf of the spirit of brotherhood and liberty preached by Christ, which no human force can suffocate."

"In the present persecution of Mexican Catholics, everyone of the faithful must sow the seeds of the sure apotheosis of the Catholic Church, which will succeed in overcoming through prayer the evil maneuvers of petty Neros now ruling Mexico.

"In this hour of grief, Mexico has a great defender in the affectionate Father, in the head of the church, in the Supreme Pontiff. The prayers of the world will break the chain which the enemies of religion are vainly trying to fasten on the conscience of a great nation which we admired during holy year, when, with admirable character and firm faith, it sent an important loyal pilgrimage to the Eternal City."

PRIMARY VOTING TOMORROW FROM 6 A. M. TO 7 P. M.

Nominees for U. S. Senate House of Representatives and Two State Offices to Be Chosen.

The primary, to be held from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. tomorrow, is for the choice of candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties for the United States Senate and House of Representatives, two important State offices, both houses of the Legislature, three full-term Circuit Judgeships and one for a short term, and a list of local offices.

The primary serves also as an election of committeemen and committeewomen of the parties in every ward.

Tomorrow is a holiday by State law and the banks, City Hall offices and State cour's will be closed.

More than 400 persons are candidates in the two parties, but many of these are for district offices and ward committee positions. The number of candidates on whom each voter must pass will be about 80.

Two Minor Party Tickets.

Tickets of the Socialist and Socialist Labor parties have been printed, each bearing a few names, but with no contest for any nomination.

Each voter must announce, on entering the polling place, which party ballot he desires. No voter may vote in the primary of more than one party, and attempts to do so will be useless. For example, if a person voting a Republican ticket were to write upon it the name of Hawes for Senator the vote would count for Hawes only for the Republican nomination for Senator and not for the Democratic nomination, which he is seeking.

No writing is required in voting the primary ballot, but much scratching must be done. For example, three candidates for Circuit Judge, full term, are to be named. If more than three names are left unscratched the vote does not count for any candidate for Circuit Judge. The voter, however, may vote for less than the specified number if he wishes.

Registered Vote Here 269,888.

The registered vote in St. Louis for tomorrow's primary is 269,888. This is about 5000 less than the registration for the primary of August, 1922, when the offices involved were the same, including that of United States Senator.

In the 1922 primary, with a registration of 274,689 in the city, the total vote for all candidates for United States Senator was 131,511, or 47 per cent of the registration. The 1922 primary was one of more than usual interest, because of Senator Reed's candidacy.

Tomorrow's primary is of interest to city voters chiefly because of the lively senatorial contests in both parties, and because of Mayor Miller's fight to gain control of the local Republican organization.

Mayor's Chief Interest.

Mayor Miller is backing Alderman Neumann for Collector against Edmond Koeln, who is backed by Comptroller Nolte and former Mayor Kiel. Koeln's backers are trying to poll a vote for him in excess of that for Neumann and the two other candidates, one of whom, W. E. Fuetterer, claims considerable voting strength. The candidacy of Fuetterer, a former Miller adherent, is recognized as a handicap to the Mayor's efforts, and to nominate Neumann, under these circumstances, would be a notable victory for the Miller forces.

The Mayor is also striving to gain control of the Republican City Committee, and sample ballots, circulated among city employes in the different wards, have apprised them of the Mayor's wishes as to choice of committeemen and committeewomen. In some wards the Mayor has not expressed a preference between committgee candidates.

Mayor Miller's support of Proctor for Senator, and the alignment of some of the Mayor's supporters for Priest for Senator, in wards wet in sentiment, is another enlivening feature in the contest.

The Democratic primary, in comparison, is not so spirited, and the chairman of the city committee, J. J. Mestres, last week deemed it necessary to issue a warning to Democrats to stay in their own primary. Their votes for Hawes may be needed in the State total, he pointed out.

Only a few nominations are uncontested on the Republican ticket. They are those for the Supreme Court, Circuit Clerk, Clerk of Circuit Court for Criminal Causes, and some justices, constables and committee members.

Little Democratic Activity.

A number of the Democratic local nominations are uncontested, and there has been little activity as to those which are contested. The contest for the Democratic Supreme Court nomination, which is of great interest in some parts of the State, has gained little notice here. War service men have organized in behalf of Col. Carl L. Ristine of Lexington, who commanded the 139th Infantry in the Argonne, and who has the support of Senator Reed.

The Bar Association of St. Louis has indorsed, by majority vote of the lawyers of the respective parties who are members of the association, the following candidates for contested judicial nominations in the primary:

Republican: Circuit Judges, Rosskopf, Killoren, Babbitt, short term, Blesse; Pribate Judge, Holtcamp; Court of Criminal Correction, Miller.

Democratic: Supreme Court, Gantt; Circuit Court, McDaniel, O'Malley, Kirkwood; Court of Criminal Correction, Griffin.

In the vote on indorsement of Republican candidates for the Circuit bench, Judges Killoren and Rosskopf led by decisive figures. For the third indorsement, B. F. Babbitt had 74 votes, Charles W. Rutledge 70 and E. C. Luedde 63. Some members of the Bar Association urged that the approximating votes should be shown in the official announcements, but the published advertisements appearing today do not show them.

NOTICE TO ELECTION JUDGES AND CLERKS

THE newspapers of this city have arranged as usual to compile the returns of the election in the rotunda of the City Hall so the public will be furnished with the result without waiting for the official count.

The police officers stationed at all the polling places have been supplied with blanks on which the returns should be copied as soon as they are completed. These blanks should be signed by the judges and turned over to the police officers for prompt delivery.

RETAILERS OPEN CONVENTION HERE; ONLY 2 SESSIONS

General Meeting Wednesday Will Hear Sales Experts—Election of Officers Thursday.

Unlike many conventions, the sixth semiannual gathering of the American Retailers' Association, which opened here today to continue till next Monday, will have just two general sessions. On Wednesday there will be an all-day meeting addressed by six speakers on ways to increase sales, and Thursday evening officers will be elected at a banquet, after which the visitors will go to the performance at the Municipal Theater.

The rest of the time, it is expected, those attending the convention will be renewing acquaintances among St. Louis wholesalers and jobbers in numerous lines. To quote an officer of the Chamber of Commerce, which was interested in organization of the retailer's association here three years ago, "There won't be any lines of policemen to keep these people from buying here."

It is declared to be merely a welcome coincidence that the delegates will be able to attend the Pageant of Fashion at the Garden Theater, which starts tomorrow evening. Their friends in business here will supply them with tickets for the various nights.

About 1500 Expected to Attend.

Out of more than 4000 members in 41 states, about 1500 are expected here, and about 100 had registered in the first hour this morning.

This is the sixth consecutive semiannual convention of the association to be held here. Headquarters are at Hotel Statler, where the sales session and banquet will be held. The association will furnish seats for the opera performance and have busses to carry the delegates there after the banquet. The directors will meet for business at luncheon Friday.

L. G. Boone, a general merchant at Elkton, Ky., who has been president of the association for two years, in a statement today declared: "After a careful survey of all factors affecting general business conditions, I am confident that the closing five months of 1926 will be profitable to the retailer who plays the game safe and hard."

Boone said a leading economist had found recently that business conditions were extra good in one-third of the country, good in one-half and fair in only one-sixth. An abundant yield of major crops, at good prices, is expected for the most part.

Not Dependent on Crops.

However, he asserted, the volume of business no longer is altogether dependent upon the success of major crops, since the farming industry has become diversified, and garden, dairy and poultry products are helping the farmer's income. Boone added that reports of industrial employment, railroad business and construction work were encouraging.

Retailers, Boone said, realize that attendance at the conventions is as essential to growth of their business as special courses are to physicians. There is plenty of business now, he went on, but competition is keen and delegates can learn about successful methods of others.

Speakers and their topics at Wednesday's sales session will be: John B. Garver, who does a general business of almost $1,000,000 annually in Strasburg, O., a town of less than 1000 population, "Future of the Country Stores;" C. B. Partridge, vice president of a department store at Eu Claire, Wis., "How a Well-Organized Sales Force Increases Sales;" H. R. La Towsky of the National Cash Register Co., specialist in surveys, "How to Increase the Average Sale;" Mrs. M. J. Alderman, manager of the Missouri Valley Stores Co., Marshall, Mo., "How to Combat Mail Order House Influence;" E. B. Heller of the Good Will Clothing Co. of St. Louis, former president of the National Retail Credit Men's Association, "How to Organize Against Consumer Credit Abuses;" Mills Wellsford of St. Louis, associate editor of The Dry Goodsman, "Ideas Versus Inertia."

ANDREWS IN PARIS, MAY TAKE UP MINOR LIQUOR PROBLEMS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Brigadier-General Lincoln C. Andrews, American prohibition enforcement chief, said today that his visit to Paris was unofficial, but that he might take up a "minor question" with officials of the French line. This has to do with the allegation that members of the crews of the company's ships have placed cases of liquor in the holds of the vessels and sold them over the side in New York.

Andrews said he had no idea of approaching the French officials regarding smuggling through St. Pierre and Miquelon or other French ports, pointing out that his recent conference in London was held at the invitation of the British, while no invitation had ever been received from the French. Questoned regarding reports that he would resign, Andrews said: "I do not intend to resign until the regulations growing out of the London conferences are in working order—and perhaps not then."

Inquiry Into Mellett Murder in Canton, O., Awaits Finding of P. E. McDermott.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, O., Aug. 2.—While investigators into the murder of D. R. Mallett, publisher, yesterday marked time, awaiting the apprehension of Patrick Eugene McDermott, the informer against him, [illegible] came a storm center of discussion.

"If his story is sufficiently worthy while to warrant a nation-wide search for McDermott," said Detective Joseph D. Cleary, representing Gov. Donahey, "then prominent Masillon bootleggers whom the informer implicated in the same breath as conspirators should be arrested immediately."

Cleary's comment followed his visit to "the informer" in the Stark County jail at Canton. With Cleary in the interview were Col. C. [illegible] Bluem, Cleveland National Guard representative, and A. P. Owen, postal inspector. It was learned that the informer has been in jail since two days after the murder, which occurred July 16. The interviewers said the informer's name is Steve Kascholk, a miner of Minerty Glo., Pa., which is McDermott's native town.

PROCTOR DENIES COALITION WITH BLODGETT PRIEST

Says There Is No 'Wet-Dry' Combination Backed by Dickey to Beat Williams.

Calls "Absurdly False" Williams' Charge of Wet-Dry Combination Backed by Dickey.

David M. Proctor, dry candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, today assailed the charge of common interest and support between his campaign and that of Blodgett Priest, wet candidate, was "absurdly false in its every charge and conclusion."

The accusation was made in a statement issued Saturday by Senator Williams, and was accompanied by an affidavit from Ernest D. Wilson, former secretary of the Proctor Campaign Committee, who cited many alleged instances of common interest and activity in the two campaigns.

Proctor's Telegram.

From Kansas City Proctor telegraphed the Post-Dispatch as follows:

"In reply to your telegram asking for a statement concerning the affidavit of Ernest D. Wilson, I beg to say that it is absurdly false in every charge and conclusion. It is admitted here by Williams men that the statement was purchased. Williams men have used this libel as their last desperate effort to save a lost cause. There is no more connection between my candidacy and that of Blodgett Priest than there is between the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co."

A longer statement was sent out by A. C. Ferris, State manager for Proctor, from his headquarters in Kansas City. Ferris said:

"The campaign of David M. Proctor for the nomination for United States Senator has been conducted according to the rules and ethics of the Republican party. It has not stooped to political calumny and personal slander in the final hours of the campaign.

Calls Charge Slander.

"A fabrication of political lies and slander, an ancient political trick that always has been disapproved by the voters, has been launched against Mr. Proctor in the final hours of the campaign.

"What purported to be an affidavit by Ernest Wilson in Kansas City, printed in the St. Louis newspapers Sunday, was signed by the name 'Worthington,' an alleged notary public. A search was made in Kansas City Sunday, and no such man could be located. He is not registered as a notary public there, and it is doubtful if there is such a man there.

"Ernest Wilson was kicked out of Proctor headquarters a month ago and refused money. Previously he had been kicked out of Priest headquarters.

"Miss Marie Baker, referred to in the story here as the stenographer who prepared the statement, today in Kansas City denied ever having heard of the statement before. She is Wilson's stenographer and declared he never made any statement himself, in her name.

Williams Assailed as Straddler.

"Senator Williams has been referred to in this campaign as a straddler on all questions. In putting such a slanderous and malicious attack before the voters of St. Louis, he again is a straddler; first time a straddler on the virtue of political honesty and decency. I believe the voters of St. Louis will vote their disapproval of such cheap political tactics as are being used by Senator Williams in the final hours of the campaign by voting for Dave Proctor Tuesday.

"A few nights ago in St. Louis Senator Williams was handed a card that is being circulated in the dry counties for his candidacy. The card bore his printed signature, and said Williams favored the dry cause. He refused to reply to the questions asked him, but said the card was printed in a nonunion shop. That was a libel, adding the truth for political purposes. The card was printed in Typographical Union Shop No. 7, owned by Jay Jackson, Kansas City politician, who is supporting Williams.

"The cards still are being circulated and are being handed out to precinct workers in the dry counties of the State for use at the polls tomorrow. Senator Williams has stated he would make his wet and clear on prohibition before the primary. He has not.

"Senator Williams is posing as a wet in the State. In St. Louis his friends have attempted to make him wet. Out State he has courted and won the indorsement of Dr. Hiram Campbell, imperial dragon of the Missouri Ku Klux Klan. In St. Louis he has denounced intolerance.

"And now, in the last hours of the campaign, he has resorted to slander in St. Louis. The story circulated by Senator Williams and his agents out of Kansas City is one of the most contemptible pieces of political falsehood and trickery ever seen in a St. Louis primary, in my opinion."

Dickey Cannot Be Reached.

Continued efforts today to reach Walter S. Dickey for a statement were unsuccessful. It was said at his office Saturday that he was away from Kansas City, and a telegram addressed to him there today has not been answered.

As told in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, Priest characterized the Wilson affidavit as a "damned lie." He said there was no agreement between his managers and those of Proctor, adding that his campaign had not received any financial assistance from Dickey or those interested in Proctor's nomination.

Priest Charges Offer to Quit.

Priest today issued a statement charging that Edward W. Foristel of the Koeln faction, which is supporting Senator Williams, had offered him three jobs if he would withdraw from the race for the senatorship.

On July 26, he said, Foristel, telling him that he was speaking with authority from Senator Williams, said he could have an appointment as an Assistant United States Attorney-General. Previously he said Foristel had offered him a nomination for Circuit Judge, saying the Kiel and Koeln factions could get the nomination for him. The third job was that of President of the Board of Police Commissioners, Foristel telling him, he said, that that matter could be arranged with Gov. Baker.

Priest said he rejected all the offers and told Foristel he would remain a candidate for Senator.

Foristel, when told of Priest's statement, said that he had casually remarked to Priest: "You're crazy to continue in this race. You haven't got a chance. Why don't you see these fellows and see what you can get."

Foristel denied even suggesting that Priest seek the jobs he mentioned.

Mrs. Haight Admits Dickey's Aid, Denies Proctor Deal.

Mrs. W. R. Haight of Brandsville, Mo., vice chairman of the Republican State Committee, today issued a statement regarding the allegations in reference to her in the Wilson affidavit made public Saturday by the Williams-for-Senator leaders.

Although admitting that her activity in organization work among the women of Missouri was financed by Walter S. Dickey, Mrs. Haight denied that it was with any understanding that she was later to support David M. Proctor for Senator, and attempt to carry her organization with her. Mrs. Haight's support of Proctor was announced early last week. Her statement follows:

"In regard to the statements made in an affidavit purporting to be signed by Ernest D. Wilson, pertaining to the senatorial primary campaign in this State insofar as they refer to myself, personally, I wish to state:

"Walter S. Dickey has made contributions to me for organization work among the Republican women of this State this year and in the past. In the present instant his contribution was accepted by me with the full knowledge and consent of the Republican National Committeeman, Dr. E. B. Clements.

"His contribution was made and accepted in the usual way without any conditions or qualifications whatever. There was never at any time any promise either expressed or implied, made by me, that I would either support Mr. Proctor or do anything whatsoever to further his candidacy. Neither was any such promise ever asked. Any statement to the contrary is absolutely false.

"I gladly reiterate that I am for Mr. Proctor and feel that I have the same privilege of being for him as some of the organizations have of being for Mr. Williams. The organization all through the State is very much divided.

"I did not come out publicly for Mr. Proctor as some of the organizations have for Mr. Williams until the unfair and absolutely false statements in literature against Mr. Proctor regarding his wet and dry record and his record regarding other legislation of interest to women appeared and then only after repeated requests from women from all over the State writing me urging me to refute such statements."

28 CANDIDATES HAVE WAR SERVICE RECORDS

List Is Divided Between Both Big Parties in Tomorrow's Primary.

Twenty-eight candidates in tomorrow's primary served as soldiers or officers in the World War, according to a compilation made by a nonpartisan Veterans' Committee. The names of the former service men who are candidates were displayed on the wall of the Hotel Jefferson dining room, at the dinner given Saturday night in honor of Col. Carl Ristine, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Supreme Court Judge. The list may be incomplete, the committee stated, but was made up from the best information available.

At the Ristine dinner, Col. Ristine and other speakers urged support of the service men in their candidacies. The voter in the primary, however, is limited to supporting those who are running for nomination on the ticket of his own party. The service-men candidates are of both parties. The list, as shown, is:

Republicans: Blodgett Priest for Senator; all five candidates for Prosecuting Attorney, namely, W. R. Davis, A. F. Hackman, M. F. Napier, H. H. Richards and A. L. Schweitzer; Alva W. Hurt, for Circuit Judge; William E. Fuetterer, for Collector; William Gray for Congress, Eleventh District; George L. Vaughn for Congress, Twelfth District; J. L. London, for Circuit Judge, short trem; Fred A. Bottger for Judge, Court of Criminal Correction; John J. Hurley, Justice of the Peace, Eighth District.

Democrats: Carl L. Ristine, Supreme Court; Harry B. Hawes, Senate; Irwin Sale, Congress, Tenth District (unopposed); L. G. Waldman, clerk Criminal Court (unopposed); E. A. Byrne, Justice of the Peace, Fourth District (unopposed); Frank X. Reller, State Senator Thirty-fourth District; J. F. Dickman and Neville C. Fisher, for Circuit Judge; J. J. Gallagher, Committeeman, Twentieth Ward; G. D. Fitzgerald, Committeeman Twenty-third Ward; J. P. English, Committeeman Twenty-fourth Ward (unopposed); Jerome F. Duggan, Committeeman Sixteenth Ward; J. J. Noonan, Committeeman Seventeenth Ward; A. J. Deubler and G. O. Wilhite, Representative, First District (unopposed).

PRISON SENTENCE OF FRANK WEEKE UPHELD ON APPEAL

He Must Serve Two Years in U. S. Penitentiary and Pay $2200 Fine for Dry Law Violation.

Frank Weeke's two-year sentence to the penitentiary and his fine of $2200, imposed a year and a half ago on charges of illegal distilling and depriving the Government of revenue, were affirmed today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Weeke is is a brother of "Hank" Weeke, former Republican politician.

The conviction of Frank Weeke was on five counts of violation of the still and mash sections of the revenue act, which was in force before Federal prohibition, and remained in force after prohibition.

Weeke's butcher shop at 2308 Cass avenue was raided Oct. 15, 1923, after issuance of a search warrant. Rudolph Sefert and John Ryan, employes of Weeke, were arrested and indicted with him, but the cases against them were dismissed.

W. C. Goshorn, a Federal prohibition officer, since deceased, directed the raid on Weeke's place. He testified in the trial that Weeke offered him $1000 to drop the case.

Judge Van Valkenburgh of Kansas City, who presided at the trial here, imposed two-year prison sentences on each of the five counts, but it was held that they would run concurrently, all being based on a single offense.

Counts on which Weeke was found guilty and the sentence for each were: Engaging in the business of a distiller without giving bond, two years and $1000; defrauding the United States of taxes on distilled spirits, two years and $1000; possession of 21,000 gallons of mash for a business other than that of a registered distiller, two years and $500; concealing 650 gallons of whisky on which taxes had not been paid, two years and $500; possession of a still not registered with the Collector of Internal Revenue, two years and $100. The maximum fine on each count is $5000, the maximum term two years.

In June, 1925, Judge Faris, acting on the same testimony as that by which Weeke was convicted, ordered the Cass avenue meat shop padlocked for one year, under the nuisance clause of the Volstead act.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS ENTER ON LAST 5 DAYS OF CAMP

With only five days of the Citizens' Military Training Camp schedule remaining, the 1600 students at Jefferson Barracks will be put through an intensive routine during the next few days in preparation for the closing, Friday, when parades, a sham battle and other activities will be featured.

Yesterday was a time of greater activity than the barracks has seen for months. With the C. M. T. C. students at work at their morning routine, which includes formal guard mount and the apportioning of fatigue details, there was an additional bustle caused by the officers of the 370th Field Artillery, who departed by truck during the morning for the artillery range at Arcadia. A contingent of officers from the 342d Infantry arrived at the barracks during the day for a two weeks' course of training.

SAYS POISONOUS LIQUOR KILLED 700 IN NEW YORK IN YEAR

Chief Chemist of Revenue Bureau Issues Warning Against Drinking Bootleg Whisky.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Seven hundred persons died in New York City from poisonous liquors last year, J. W. Quillen, chief chemist of the Bureau of Internal Revenue said today, in issuing a warning against drinking bootleg whisky.

In 1921, when he became chief chemist, 75 per cent of the hard liquor samples received for analysis were "straight" whisky, he added. Samples containing wood alcohol have been coming to the bureau recently, he said.

TWICE ACCUSED MAN FINED FOR DRIVING WHEN DRUNK

A. D. Schumert, Against Whom One Case Is Pending, Penalized $500 on Another.

A $500 fine was assessed against Anthony D. Schumert, 35 years old, of 4549 Arco avenue by Police Judge Beck today when he failed to answer to a charge of driving when intoxicated. Police arrested Schumert at Grand and Delmar boulevards, Saturday.

Two weeks ago Schumert was in Police Court charged with driving on Page boulevard when intoxicated. He said then that he had taken whisky for medicinal purposes and was unaware he was in an automobile. That case was continued and is still pending.

$75,000 Advance Sale for Opera.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—An optimistic report on the popularity of grand opera here, issued by the Civic Opera Co. today, declared that the advance seat sale for the coming season already totaled $75,000.

WOMEN AID IN ROBBING TWO MEN IN STREET HOLDUPS

In One Case, Young Woman Searches Pedestrians' Pockets After He Is Knocked Down.

Women participated in two of the holdups reported to police over the week-end.

A young woman and two men got out of an automobile at Grand boulevard and Easton avenue at 1 a. m. yesterday as Robert Smith, 1809 Belleglade avenue, stood at the corner. The men knocked Smith down and beat him, while the woman went through his pockets, taking a purse and $19.

Three men and a young bobbed-haired woman called "Jennie" left a taxicab in the 2700 block of Howard street at 2 a. m. yesterday, and when Solomon Schaefer of 2825A Russell boulevard, the driver, insisted that they pay $1.80 fare, they attacked Ralph Smith of 2632 Russell, who was riding with Schaefer.

As the men pulled Smith from the cab, the woman shouted, "See what he's got," and the men robbed him of $7. "Let's beat it," the woman cried, and she and her companions ran away.

Visitor Drugged and Robbed.

Eugene T. Burk, 18 years old, of Camden, N. J., visiting here at 4127W Kossuth avenue, met an affable man in a downtown restaurant Saturday night and accepted the stranger's offer to ride him to the Kossuth avenue address. Instead, the man drove him to Southwest St. Louis, pressed a revolver to his ribs and a cloth to his nostrils, and robbed him of $64 and a package containing shirts and trousers. Burk recovered consciousness in a vacant lot on South Kingshighway. He had been drugged.

Mark Podhorzer and his wife, Esther, were held up in their delicatessen at 1139 Hamilton avenue at 12:40 a. m. today by two armed men who escaped with $114.50. Other holdups: Harry C. Miller, manager of oil station at Sarah street and Forest Park place, robbed of $20 by two Negroes; Harry Vogel, 2200 Dickson stret, robbed of $10 by two Negroes; Sarah Barfield, 910A Leonard avenue, robbed of $8 and $60 diamond ring by a Negro; Frank Cron, 6006 Bruno avenue, robbed of $160 by two men.

ELDORADO BANKER LOCKED UP

H. H. Pelhank Jailed After Brothers-in-Law Withdraw From Bond.

HARRISBURG, Ill., Aug. 2.—H. H. Pelhank, president of the First National Bank of Eldorado, which was closed last week following disclosures of discrepancies by a Federal bank examiner, was locked up in Saline County Jail here today after his two bondsmen, Walter Cox and Charles A. Durfee, his brothers-in-law, withdrew from the bonds which he gave after his arrest on a forgery charge.

Violent Earthquake Recorded.

FAENZA, Italy, Aug. 2.—A violent earthquake, lasting three hours, the center estimated to be 9000 kilometres (5592 miles) away, was recorded on the seismograph at Prof. Rahpael Bendandi's observatory here today.

son County. This would leave approximately 275,000 votes to be cast out in the state.

As usual the various candidates and their managers have issued statements of confidence of success for their own campaigns, but of course these can be discounted.

A candidate and his manager rarely receives unfavorable reports, and naturally figures his own strength considerably more than it is.

The "Silent Vote" Angle.

The "silent vote" is one which is difficult of analysis, being uncontrolled by political considerations or political organiaztions. It may amount to much in both primaries, or it may amount to little, or it may amount to much more in one than in the other. Hence until its extent is known, which will be possible only when the votes are counted, there is little real basis from which to estimate the relative strength of the candidates.

MRS. THOMAS J. BRADSHAW FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Alleges Nonsupport and Says Husband Failed to Keep Promsies After Reconciliation.

Suit for divorce, alleging nonsupport, has been filed by Mrs. Maxine Bradshaw of 4914 Argyle place, against Thomas J. Bradshaw, formerly manager of the Coronado Hotel, now a salesman in Chicago.

Mrs. Bradshaw states in her petition that she was reconciled to Brawshaw last September, but he has failed to keep promises to treat her better and provide adequately. The reconciliation took place after Brawshaw dismissed his suit for divorce. They were married Feb. 24, 1923. There are no children.

WIFE OF 2 MEN FLEES AS THEY FIGHT IT OUT

Police Judge Refers Combatants to Circuit Attorney for Bigamy Action.

When Marshall Stewart and Elmer Edward Mayse were arraigned before Police Judge Rosecan today on the charge that they had engaged in a street fight at Eighteenth street and Chouteau avenue yesterday afternoon, the Judge, as his his custom, asked them what the fight was about.

"He said I had his wife," Stewart explained. "I was about to get on a Manchester street car with my wife, Bessie, and her little girl by a former marriage, when this fellow Mayse drove up in an automobile and called out, 'Hey, what are you doing with my wife?' I said, 'Piffle. I haven't got your wife.' So we fought."

"How about it?" the Judge asked Mayse, when he took the stand.

"He did have my wife. I married her in Edwardsville, Oct. 29 last. See, I have her picture."

Stewart objected, saying he had her picture, too, and they both showed the Judge different pictures of the same girl.

"I married her June 28, 1922," Stewart told Judge Rosecan.

The Judge said: "It must be bigamy. You'd better see the Circuit Attorney."

It seems that while Stewart and Mayse were fighting the woman and her child boarded a street car and disappeared. Stewart lives at 2901 Henrietta avenue and Mayse at 3843 Olive street.

BABY STRANGLED IN HIS CRIB

St. Louisans' Son Dies at Grandparents' Home in Ohio.

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 2.—Gerald Duvall, 8-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Duvall of St. Louis, was strangled to death at the home of his grandparents here today when his head became caught between the bars of his crib.

The Duvall family is not listed in the St. Louis city directory.

Freight Rate Cut Disapproved.

Railroads represented in the Southwestern Freight Bureau have voted against a reduction in freight rates on grain for export from Oklahoma and Texas to New Orleans, it was announced today. New Orleans interests had requested the same rate as now in effect from Oklahoma and Texas to Galveston.

MAYOR DRIVES AN OLD-TIME HORSE CAR

Miller's Horse a Mule, However, in Exposition Advertising Stunt.

Mayor Miller, in shirt sleeves and conductor's cap, drove an old-time horse car, Bellefontaine No. 33, from the City Hall to Locust street, on Twelfth boulevard, at noon today to advertise the Greater St. Louis Exposition which will be held in Forest Park in September.

The ceremony marked the beginning of "Tellafriend Week," set aside for intensive word-of-mouth advertising of the exposition. The car was placarded with signs, "Tell a friend about the Greater St. Louis Exposition."

The car, built in 1875 at a cost of $700, was drawn to the east entrance of the City Hall by truck where a United Railways mule renamed "Exposition" for the occasion, was hitched to the chain.

Issuing from his office in a summer suit, the Mayor laid aside his coat, rolled up his sleeves, put on the blue conductor's cap, and started off.

At first he experienced difficulty in the complex job of holding two lines and a handbrake with two hands. The mule, at first, insisted on veering toward the curb, but by the time Chestnut street was reached "Exposition" was under control.

The car was filled with about 12 Exposition and Chamber of Commerce officials, including Carl F. G. Meyer, president of the chamber, Lon Sanders, director of ceremonies, Secretary Findly of the chamber, and some city officials. They were followed by an automobile in which rode the Missouri Pacific Jubilee Quartet singing "Come to St. Louis," the exposition song.

GIRL DROWNED WHEN WADING IN MERAMEC RIVER

Miss Lynita Heberlie and Young Man Companion, Who Is Saved, Carried Away by Swift Current.

ACCIDENT AT CLUB HOUSE NEAR FENTON

Body Comes to Surface and Is Recovered—Mother, Who Is Ill, Not Told of the Tragedy.

The body of Miss Lynita Heberlie, 19 years old, of 4389 West Pine boulevard, who was drowned in the Meramec River below Fenton yesterday, came to the surface at noon today and was brought ashore by two vacationists.

A professional diver and Joseph Heberlie Jr., brother of the girl, were seeking the body a short distance away at the time. The girl's father, Joseph Heberlie, had remained at his home in Perryville, Mo., at the bedside of his wife, who is seriously ill and has not been informed of her daughter's death.

Miss Heberlie, an employe of the commercial department of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., went on a picnic on the west bank of the river, about a mile and a half southeast of Fenton, with Miss Madeline Kuhno, 19 years old, a Delmar exchange telephone operator, of 1244 Aubert avenue; Clifford Herin of 3239 Edgar avenue, Maplewood, and Charles Whalen of 6816 Bleeck avenue.

At noon Miss Heberlie, Miss Kuhno and Herin went wading in the river near the Kingfisher Club, while Whalen stayed at the club. According to Miss Kuhno, the three waders were splashing each other and shouting as they played, and Herin picked up Miss Heberlie in his arms and carried her. The swift current carried the two from shallow water over stepoffs to a spot where the depth is 20 feet or more. Miss Heberlie could not swim; Herin was a fair swimmer.

Three fishermen, hearing cries for help, rowed from the east side of the river, too late to save Miss Heberlie, but in time to catch Herin and take him to shore. He was sinking for the third time when rescued.

OPINION BY ATTORNEY-GENERAL OF STATE ON MALT-NUTRINE

New Anheuser-Busch Product Illegal in Missouri If Considered Beverage, He Holds.

Attorney-General Gentry at Jefferson City today, rendered an opinion that the legality of the sale of Malt-Nutrine, a tonic made by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., depends in Missouri, o nthe question whether it is capable of being used as a beverage, and whether it has more than ½ of 1 per cent alcoholic content.

If it can be considered a beverage, and if it contains more alcohol than one-half of one per cent its sale would be illegal under State law, he said. This is regardless of the issuance of a permit by the Federal Government for such manufacture.

The Attorney-General's opinion was rendered in reply to a request from the prosecuting attorney of Madison County, at Fredericktown.

Anheuser-Busch, Inc. announced last March its plan for resuming the manufacture of Malt-Nutrine. It was stated that it would have 3.75 per cent alcoholic content. At that time, some Anti-Saloon League officials raised the objection that the tonic could be mixed with near-beer to make a potable beer of illegal alcoholic content. The permit for the making of Malt-Nutrine was granted by Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury Department, in charge of prohibition enforcement. He held that the tonic was not a beverage.

REPUDIATES SAMPLE BALLOT

Woman Denies She Indorsed Neumann for Collectorship.

Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham, Republican National Committeewoman, today repudiated the indorsement of two candidates in the Tuesday primaries which have been included on a sample ballot sent out under the letter head of the Twenty-fifth Ward Republican Club, of which she is second vice president. She said she is backing Edmond Koeln for Collector and William J. Blesso for the short term for Circuit Judge, while the sample ballot recommends Charles A. Neumann and J. L. London, respectively, for those jobs.

Mrs. Burlingham declared the organization had not told her of its intention to send out a marked ballot.

Son Born to Dead Flyer's Widow.
By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 2.—A son was born yesterday to Mrs. S. Russell McIlvain, wife of one of the three aviators killed Saturday when their plane crashed at McKeesport. Mrs. McIlvain has not been told of her husband's death. The other men who were killed with McIlvain, who was 27 years old, were James Dom, 22, and Allyn W. Shaffer, 22. All lived in Pittsburg.

Watch Your Breakfast

Eat food that supplies "balanced" ration after night's fast

HOW you feel all morning depends largely on what you eat for breakfast. Thousands have unenergetic forenoons because of wrong breakfast eating.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is hurried, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder; 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning.

Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

RESCUED FROM CHINESE CITY DURING BATTLE

English Missionary and Her Four Children Lowered in Sacks Over City's Walls.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, Aug. 2.—A tale of a perilous escape from a beleaguered city, relating how Mrs. Bryan Brown, an English missionary, and her four children were lowered from the Tatungfu city wall in sacks while the bullets from the two warring factions fell around them, is contained in dispatches from Kalgan.

Tatungfu, a city 229 miles northwest of Pekin, is held by the Shansi forces against the Kuominchun (national armies). The report is taken to indicate that some foreigners, and possibly all of the foreigners in the city have not been permited to leave, in spite of the efforts of American Consul Stanton to obtain safe conducts for them.

Mrs. Brown is a Church of England missionary.

At the request of the English mission, Consul Stanton proceeded to Tatungfu, but was informed by the Shansi defenders that none of the 12 or 15 foreigners would be allowed to depart without the express permission of Gen. Yen Hsi-Shan, Tupin (Governor) of Shansi Province. A 12-hour truce was arranged, however, during which Mrs. Brown and her family, who were caught in a hospital between the inner and outer walls of the city in direct line of fire, were rescued. Notwithstanding the truce, there was much firing from both sides while the rescue was being effected.

English, Scandinavian, German, Dutch and Belgian missionaries were reported safe and with sufficient food but living in dugouts on account of the bombardment. They were out of communication with Pekin for 50 days.

FOUR MEN AND A WOMAN DETAINED IN $8100 HOLDUP

Alleged Accomplice Bilked of Share, Responsible for Arrests in East St. Louis.

Four men and a woman are held at East St. Louis in connection with the holdup of an East St. Louis & Suburban Railway pay car at Nineteenth and State streets last July 19, when $8100 was stolen by six men.

A man arrested Saturday night has confessed, Chief of Detectives Leahy said today, that he got information about the money shipment from a railway employe and turned it over to six other men in an East St. Louis rooming house. He himself did not participate in the robbery and named three men as the only ones of the holdup band whom he knew by name. All have been arrested, as has the landlady of the rooming house where the alleged robbery plot was formed. They deny their guilt.

The man who made the statement is quoted as saying he was to have got 10 per cent of the loot but got instead only $96 in nickels and dimes wrapped in a cement sack and handed to him by one of the alleged robbers.

None of the men named by the informant has been identified by the seven railroad employes on the car at the time of the robbery.

BODY OF MAN FOUND ON TRACKS IN FOREST PARK

The body of Herbert Johnson, 44 years old, a street car welder, was found on the Wabash tracks in Forest Park, near Kingshighway boulevard, at 5:30 a. m. today, cut in two by the wheels of a train.

Apparently he had taken his own life. On a scrap of paper in a coat pocket were the words, "Good-by and God bless you." He was identified by a brother, Orville Johnson, with whom he lived, at 3902 Lafayette avenue, and who could give no reason for suicide. Johnson was a bachelor.

Two Armed Youths Arrested.

Two youths, loitering in front of a drug store at the intersection of Hodiamont avenue and the Suburban street car tracks Saturday night, were arrested by Detective Joseph When and when searched were found to be armed with loaded revolvers. They described themselves as Eugene Philips, 22 years old, 2133 Rosebud avenue, St. Louis County, and Ben Yother, 19, 6405 Curtis avenue, St. Louis County. They said they carried the revolvers for protection.

Sets off Dynamite in Mouth.
By the Associated Press.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 2.—A miner ended his life near here late last night by placing a stick of dynamite in his mouth and lighting the fuse. The man, Frank Sabiray, 33 years old, leaves a widow and three children at Masontown, Pa.

$11 a Ticket for Movie Premier.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A new "note" is to be struck in movie premieres next Friday when John Barrymore opens in "Don Juan." Tickets will cost $11 each, the producers announce, or just twice the most costly first night last season.

3 Killed as Passenger Plane Falls.
By the Associated Press.

PARMA, Italy, Aug. 2.—Three persons were killed and three others injured when a passenger airplane bound from Monfalcone to Spezia crashed at Borgotaro, near here, today while trying to make a forced landing.

FACTS

about Health to help you keep well

THE old family doctor book must stay on the shelf. In the light of recent scientific findings, and consistent with conditions of the times, many of the old rules for health and suggestions for treatment of disease are not only ineffective, but really dangerous. Drugs affect people differently. What may cure one may kill another.

The safest route to health and happiness is the simplest — exercise, fresh air, proper diet, right thinking and absolute cleanliness, inside and outside.

The just-published booklet, "Civilization's Greatest Menace," is in line with the crusade to educate the public in more natural ways of living—for the prevention of disease and unhappiness and inefficiency. It especially discloses startling facts concerning that bane to civilized humanity, Intestinal Disorder (the cause of nearly every known disease), and discusses Nature's greatest ally in the prevention and correction of this condition—Hunt's Internal Bath. BARON ON CRUTCHES UNABLE TO HANG SELF Fails in Attempt to End Life After Wife Kills Herself At Miami, Fla.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 2.—A Coroner's jury today inquired into the chain of events which culminated Friday night in the death of the Baroness Royce-Garrett and the arrest of her husband, Baron Michael Royce-Garrett, formerly of the Russian nobility.

The Baroness leaped from the eighteenth floor of the Everglades Hotel. The Baron was found by police in a thicket north of Miami, where, he said, he was about to hang himself.

They had made an agreement seven years ago to commit suicide together after the Baroness, a noted singer, had lost a $5,000,000 heritage in the bolshevik outbreak in Russia.

The Baron today expressed disappointment that his youthful wife had not died with him, as she had promised.

The Royce-Garretts met in a Russian military hospital, where the Baron was recuperating after the amputation of a leg, lost in the war. They fell in love, went to America, and for several years the Baroness appeared in musical entertainments in the East.

"Friday morning my wife told me the time had come to die," the Baron told police, "and we must die together as we had lived together. I told her to wait until morning and we would go out to Cocoanut Grove, get in a boat together, tie a rope around our necks and die. When this was decided, we were both joyful.

"My wife told me she would not be cross if I went out and stayed late. She said: 'This is the last day on earth for you to smoke and play billiards and have a good time, so you go out. You catch the last car back home, but be sure and buy a newspaper before you come. We will spend our last night together and prepare to die in the morning.'"

The Baron played billiards from shortly after noon until late at night. He learned of his wife's death when he bought the newspaper to take to her.

He purchased a piece of twine and walked on his crutches to the nearest tree, but could not climb. Boarding a bus, he rode to a tangled thicket a few miles north of Miami, where he remained throughout Saturday. Here he attracted attention of residents by his efforts to climb trees, and they called police.

PRINCESS PLAYS FIRST GOLF

Maria de Bourbon Chases Ball Down Fairway in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Princess Marie de Bourbon, cousin of King Alfonso of Spain, has taken up golf. On a Glencoe golf course, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Glaser, the Princess swung her first mashie and chased her first ball down the fairway.

Following the golf game yesterday she paid her first visit in several years to her friend, Lucrezia Bori, Ravinia opera singer; and then she gave an interview on love and marriage in Evanston. "My ideas are very old-fashioned," the Princess said. "I think a man should be very much in love with a woman before marrying her. And then I think when once married they should stay that way."

SAYS STRANGERS STABBED HIM

Clarence Green Tells of Attack at Ramona Park in County.

Clarence Green, 22 years old, of 2401 North Twelfth street, was taken to City Hospital last night with stab wounds in the right thigh, right arm, abdomen and chest. He said he had been attacked by four or five strange young men in an altercation at Ramona Park, in St. Louis County.

Man Falls Into Excavation.

Cooney Wegeschiede, 53 years old, a laborer living at 3016 Lemp avenue, was taken to city hospital at 7 o'clock last night with a fractured right wrist and possibly a fracture of the skull sustained when he well into a sewer excavation 25 feet deep on the east side of Taylor avenue between Vista and Norfolk avenues. Physicans said Wegesciede was suffering from alcoholism.

TO INVESTIGATE DELAY IN HALL-MILLS INQUIRY

Governor Empowers Special Prosecutor to Act on Charge of Previous Hampering.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 2.—Inquiry into the four-year-old murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills passed into new hands today as new evidence was forthcoming in partial support of testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson that she saw the killing of the minister and his pretty choir member.

State Senator Alexander Simpson, appointed by Gov. Moore as special prosecutor, has arranged conferences today with Gov. Moore and Prosecutor Bergen of Somerset County. Gov. Moore said yesterday that in addition to prosecution of the murder charge against Mrs. Hall, widow of the slain pastor, Simpson might act on his own account on reports that a previous investigation had been unduly hindered.

Mrs. Howard Harding, a former resident of this vicinity, telegraphed from Milwaukee Saturday to County Detective Joseph Hanlon that on the night of the crime she was accosted by four men near the scene, and that one of the men warned her, "I'll get you if you tell what you saw here."

Supports Mrs. Gibson's Story.

Mrs. Harding's statement bears out testimony of Mrs. Gibson, although Mrs. Gibson said Mrs. Hall was present at the slaying, while Mrs. Harding did not mention seeing a woman. Mrs. Harding said she was employed at that time in social service work for the Johns-Manville Co., at Manville, N. J., but George Halliday, general manager, said she was merely "a waitress and housekeeper."

William Phillips, night watchman, who was arrested Thursday as a material witness, was still in the Somerset County jail today unable to obtain $2500 bail. Mrs. Hall was released in $15,000 bail.

ACTRESS KILLED IN EFFORT TO PREVENT CHUM'S SUICIDE

Pearl McSherry Victim of Accident at Summer Cottage—Centralia, Ill., Girl Detained.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Aug. 2.—Trying to prevent her chum from committing suicide is believed by county authorities to have been the cause of the shooting and killing last night of Margaret Craig of Des Moines, Ia., 26 years old, an actress, who appeared on the stage under the name of Pearl McSherry. The shooting occurred in a summer cottage at Brown's Mills, near here.

The would-be suicide, according to the police, is Betty Queen, who said her home was in Georgia, and who is said to have tried unsuccessfully to make her way on the New York stage as a chorus girl. Dorine O'Connor of Centralia, Ill., a musical comedy actress, is held with the Queen girl pending investigation of the shooting.

Miss Queen and Miss O'Connor have been so hysterical, according to Ellis Parker, county detective, that he has been unable to get a connected statement from them. From information in hand, he said, th shooting appears to have been an unfortunate accident. Miss Queen was said to have been despondent over her inability to obtain work.

WHEREABOUTS OF W. S. WARD REPORTED KNOWN TO FAMILY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—His family knows the whereabouts of Walter S. Ward, son of the millionaire bakery owner, who disappeared May 6 under mysterious circumstances.

This became known last night, when Sheriff Howe of Suffolk County, L. I., notified the New York police that a bottle had been washed ashore near Riverhead, bearing the following note: "Held on Robin's Island. For God's sake, send help. Walter Ward."

Detective Thomas Williams told the Sheriff that relatives had been in touch with Ward for more than a month and a half, and they had requested that the long search for him be called off.

Ward, who was acquitted of the murder of Clarence Peters in an alleged blackmail plot in 1922, has vanished on previous occasions. Once it took his own detectives more than a week to trail him, and when they found him he was "following the ponies" at a Maryland racetrack.

FOOD CROPS THIS YEAR OF AVERAGE YIELD

Federal Experts Foresee Smaller Production of Principal Grains Than in 1925.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Department of Agriculture foresees little likelihood of more than average production of major food and feed crops this year, partly on account of the unfavorable weather.

Indications point to a corn crop probably somewhat below last year's and below average, the Department's experts reported in their August review of the agricultural situation. The same is true of hay and oats. The total wheat crop also is apparently below average. Even potatoes, contrary to all the predictions of overproduction, were increased only 2 per cent in acreage this season and must do very well to make an average total crop. Latest forecasts on cotton, however, indicate a crop of more than 15,000,000 bales, which might make supplies burdensome.

Effects in Corn Belt.

"One of the most significant effects of this season's developments," the review stated, "is likely to be in the corn belt. A corn crop above average or slightly less will almost certainly be followed by a readjustment in the familiar balance between corn and hogs. If history repeats, pig production will be increased and the relative price effect next year will be in the direction of lower hogs and higher corn. It is precisely in such cases where future developments can be fairly well foreseen that farmers can exert some stabilizing influence upon production."

Wheat producers as a whole stand to make fully as large a gross income from the crop as they did last year, judging from present indications, the review adds. Spring wheat production in this country and Canada will be substantially less than last year from present indications, although the winter wheat crop has been estimated as exceeding last year's short crop by about 172,000,000 bushels, which would place total wheat production about 100,000,000 bushels above last year.

European Prospect Declines.

Stocks of old wheat are less than a year ago. The European prospect, likewise, is below that of last year.

The livestock industries generally are "in relatively strong position," the review says, adding that they "may continue so for some time if production is not overdone."

The general index of purchasing power of farm products in terms of nonagricultural commodities remained at 87, where it has stood for practically 10 months.

NEGRO CONVENTION BREAKS UP IN FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT

Opponents of Marcus Garvey are Set Upon by His Supporters; Two Taken to Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A free-for-all fight marked the opening of the annual convention of the Universal Negro Improvement Association yesterday. The convention, called by opponents of Marcus Garvey, president-general of the organization, now serving a term in Atlanta penitentiary for using the mails to defraud, was raided by Garvey's supporters.

Two persons were taken to a hospital after the melee, and the anti-Garvey faction, led by G. O. Marke, supreme deputy potentate, retained possession of the convention hall. The Garvey supporters retired to another hall a few blocks away and held a meeting presided over by Assistant President-General Fred A. Toot.

Marke announced that his aim is not to dethrone Garvey, but to reconstruct and revitalize the association. Toot announced that a convention approved by Garvey, has been called to meet here Aug. 15.

LEGION TO URGE VOTERS AT 11,000 MEETINGS IN U. S.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 2.—Rallying to a recent warning by John Hays Hammond of the National Civic Federation, that the vote of the private citizen alone can save the United States from becoming a corrupt democracy, 11,000 nonpartisan meetings in as many towns and cities of the nation have been called for Sept. 21 by the American Legion post commanders.

This was made known by Frank C. Cross, chairman of the Americanism division of the Legion, which is working with the Civic Federation to awaken citizens who neglected to vote in the last two national elections, to do their duty Nov. 4.

Among national organizations that have requested their local units to assist the 11,000 Legion posts, Cross named the Daughters of the American Revolution; the General Federation of Women's Clubs; the National League of Women Voters; the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the Junior Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Woman, 60, Girl, 17, Missing.

A missing woman and a girl are sought by police—Mrs. Ida Callahan, 60 years old, who disappeared from her home Wednesday, 1538 Highland avenue, and Miss Lena Young, 17, of 2214 Seventh boulevard, who has not been seen by her relatives since 3 p. m. Tuesday.

NEW HAY FEVER PRESCRIPTION BY ST. LOUIS DOCTOR

A St. Louis physician is now offering to the general public a preparation for Hay Fever which he has been successfully using in his private practice since 1919, and which he guarantees will give positive relief to the most severe cases of Hay Fever, or it costs nothing.

The principal of the Sherman School of this city, says this prescription permanently relieved him of his Hay Fever. Scores of other St. Louis people praise it highly many of them reporting that the sneezing and other distressing symptoms disappear after one day's treatment. Wolff-Wilson, Johnson Bros., Walgreen and all other good druggists are distributing this treatment, under the name of Hay RemO, with an offer to refund the purchase price to anyone who does not get satisfactory results after using half of it.

If possible use Hay RemO daily before the anticipated attack. This preparatory use adds to the benefit. Hay RemO is also very effective for Rose Cold, Summer Catarrh and Nasal Sinus Trouble.

The Liquor Problem in Canada

American Tourists Purchase 80 Per Cent of Liquor Sold In Montreal and Quebec

Shock the Natives With Their Efforts to Gather a Lot of Alcoholic Refreshments in Short Time and Loud Singing and Talking on Street at All Hours of Night; Little Drunkenness Apparent.

(Copyright, 1926.)

THIS is the ninth of a series of articles surveying the liquor problem and its handling in other countries.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—Every day during the summer months the Province of Quebec affords striking illustrations of the social consequences of prohibition in the United States. Within the last few weeks a succession of American conventions held in Montreal have served merely to strengthen the Canadian conviction that a modified form of control is preferable to prohibition.

Americans are fast acquiring the reputation in Canada of being a drunken people, because as soon as they cross the boundary line into Quebec they indulge in concentrated drinking, to make amends for the aridity of their own country and the inferiority of bootleg liquor. They are credited with buying 80 per cent of the total amount sold each year.

A reeling figure, an air too jovial, and without further investigation a man is instantly set down as an American. The Canadian finds it a matter for amusement, sometimes for disgust. His comment is always the same:

"Prohibition!"

It was so recently when one of the largest organizations in America, with representatives from every state in the Union, met in Montreal. Their badges showed that in many instances they came from the fortresses of the drys, including Idaho, Senator William E. Borah's state.

Surprised the Natives.

Even Montreal, accustomed to invasions of this kind, sat up and took notice. From the moment the delegates arrived and went rushing in scores to the nearest liquor commission store until they returned to the land of the dry, large numbers of them wandered about in a state of befuddlement, sometimes noisy, more often dazed.

Groups would burst into song on the sidewalks and in the hotel lobbies. They wandered glassy-eyed through the corridors and out on their sight-seeing expeditions. They shouted and sang, and toasted Quebec and cursed prohibition with equal vehemence.

The quiet and law-abiding citizens of Montreal looked mildly on and meditated on the fruits of prohibition. It was much the same in settlemented Quebec, city of peace and churches. Raucous voices bellowed from the heights of Frontenac and men vied with one another in trying to drink the greatest possible amount of liquor in the shortest possible time. They had only a few days at their disposal before returning to the United States.

Breakfast was none too early to get or dawn too late to end. They were like a lot of school boys released from the rein of too harsh a law of discipline. To the French-Canadian, accustomed to moderation in drink, this was bewildering. Yet it is a sight to which he is rapidly becoming accustomed. Thousands of tourists are streaming into Quebec by road and train, the great majority of them frankly selecting the old French province because it is wet.

Hotels Overcrowded.

The hotels in Montreal are besieged with more tourists than they can accommodate. Long lines wait at the desks, only to be told that perhaps something can be done for them later in the day. Business is booming. Restaurants, hotels and cafes are coining money. Novelty and souvenir shops are springing up like mushrooms. Miniature bottles, flasks and all manner of trick devices for carrying liquor are prominently displayed to catch the eye of the American.

The resident of Quebec is a little amused and a good deal bored with this emphasis on drinking. In the quiet periods of the year he gives a sigh of relief and settles back into a peaceful routine, without having the manifestations of prohibition forever thrust at him from across the border. He finds it tiresome to hear grown men speculating on whether or not they are going to get safely across the border with a falsk on the hip.

So far as he is concerned, drinking is relegated to its proper place in the social scheme. He can have what he wants at moderate prices, both in his home and outside. There is no denial, therefore no acute thirst. He accepts drinks as he does his food. He never discusses the liquor laws except when he encounters an American. They are in force. They work smoothly. They do not interfere with his convenience or his pleasure. Therefore, why fuss about them? Or, for that matter, why abuse them?

Cumulative Buying.

A simple and satisfactory system prevails in the clubs. They are not allowed to serve hard liquor but the club members send in their own private stock of whisky, which is kept in their lockers and served when ordered. In place of liqueurs many of them have taken to having port after meals. There is never any violation of the law in the better class clubs.

One of the commonest evasions of the law in Quebec, and one which rarely brings detection, is the rounding up of several bottles of whisky in the course of a day. This is a trick which the transient has learned and even the native sometimes employs if he wants to collect several bottles in a short time.

The law allows him only one bottle of whisky a day, but with a number of shops operating in Montreal he can easily go from one to another until he has a dozen or more bottles. There is no system of check-up by which his supply can be curtailed. At times a man returns twice in the same day to one shop, sometimes changing his hat or making other efforts to disguise himself. He rarely gets away with this. The clerks have keen eyes.

The Liquor Commission is quite impartial in its operations. Men of political influence and wealth in Montreal have demanded supplies beyond the legal allowance and have been flatly refused any special privileges. One dignitary was particularly aggrieved to think that cases of whisky could not be sent to his home. He was informed that his status, so far as the Liquor Commission was concerned, was precisely the same as that of the working man when it came to getting his bottle of whisky.

Quebec Girls Don't Drink.

The young girls of Quebec have not yet learned to drink as their American sisters do, although they live in a land of plenty. When their parents consider them old enough they are allowed wine at the table or a cocktail. They rarely touch whisky, however, and are strangers to the pocket flask. So far as youth is concerned, things in Quebec are still much the same as they were in this country before prohibition.

"L'Action Catholique," the organ of the Catholic church in the City of Quebec, finds cause for alarm in all the reveling that has invaded the historic walls of the provincial capital.

"One thing is quite certain," it editorializes, "that these revelers of the big hotels will not swell figures of arrests for drunkenness. The police make their hauls of the poor devils who are thrown out into the street from the taverns at closing time, but the others, the satyrs in evening dress and the bacchantes in fashionable attire, have apartments where they can finish their orgies and carriages to take them through the streets without fear of arrest. Are they no less drunken?"

What is overlooked here is the fact that the "revelers of the big hotels" are usually transients and most often Americans. Montreal is a city of homes. So is Quebec. The citizens rarely invade the hotels except the younger set who frequent them for dancing. When a private dance is given there is little of the drunkenness common here. All of the hotels have tea, dinner and supper dancing, which is immensely popular. The music is good and the floors are spacious.

Take Flasks to Table.

Because of the prohibition on hard liquor the variety of cocktails is extremely limited. This does not cramp the style of the tourist who manages to have several in his room before he makes an appearance in the dining room. He is likely to scorn the following mild string of appetizers which appears on the wine list of one of Montreal's best hotels:

	Cents.
Cocktail Dubonnet	30
Vermouth, Noilly Pratt	30
Vermouth, Martini Rossi	30
Sherry and vermouth	30
Ginger wine	40
Raspberry Clover Club	40
Horse's neck	30

Americans cannot quite shake off the habits of home, even in wet Montreal, and sometimes they bring their flasks into the hotel dining room and attempt to mix highballs, to the indignation of the management.

The scale of prices for wines varies according to where one is being served. The hotel prices are more or less standardized and represent quite an advance on the prices of the Liquor Commission. Thus champagne, which is sold for $4 a quart by the commission, costs $6 in the hotel dining room, and haut sauterne jumps from $1.20 to $1.75. Port, which is $2.65 in the Liquor Commission stores, is $4 in hotels. Ports and sherries are immensely popular under the Quebec system of control.

Montreal has practically no counterpart for the night club which is continually falling under the snap of the padlock. It has some cabarets and a number of roadhouses outside the city, but the hotels are the favorite dancing places. The cabarets are large and roomy, with floors four times the size of the average dancing space. They are not considered particularly smart.

Sales Greatly Increased.

A steady development, however, is the growth of "clubs," which are really speakeasies or blind pigs, as they are called in Canada. One in particular has been giving the Liquor Commission a great deal of trouble. Several unsuccessful attempts have been made to get evidence, but so far it has escaped. It is on the outskirts of the city and attracts large parties of motorists. These "clubs" usually operate without a license, sell hard liquor and are distinctly disreputable.

It is not enough to whisper a password through an iron grill or to say that one is a friend of John Jones. They have a system of vigilance that the liquor inspectors find almost impossible to outwit. They frankly admit being at a loss when it comes to wiping out the secret clubs.

This, however, is only an infinitesimal activity when one considers the vast quantities of liquor that are discreetly handled, distributed and drunk. Even forgetting for the moment the statistics, which show Quebec to be well in the forefront in keeping the peace, there are virtually no signs of drunkenness except among the tourists.

The biggest sales the commission makes, particularly in spirits, are in the shops frequented by visitors. There is one, situated conveniently for the three leading hotels in Montreal, which does as much business as any other five put together. During the last year this shop sold 51,130 gallons of spirits and 11,201 gallons of wine to transients, as compared with 3164 gallons of spirits and 2876 gallons of wine sold in a shop in the French quarter to the native trade.

BISHOP M'DOWELL GUEST OF COOLIDGE AT LUNCHEON

Rain Falls at President's Camp, but Does Not Keep Him From Government Affairs.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Rain greeted President Coolidge today, but did not interfere with his program of attending to Government affairs. As guests at luncheon, he and Mrs. Coolidge invited to White Pine Camp the Rev. William F. McDowell, Methodist Episcopal Bishop of Washington, and Mrs. McDowell. They are spending the summer at Lake Placid.

A caller at the executive offices today was Marcus B. Toney of Nashville, Tenn., an 86-year-old Confederate veteran, alert and active, who wished to urge the President to attend the dedication of the Blue and Gray monument at Nashville in September or October.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, accompanied by Frank W. Stearns of Boston, the President's personal friend, motored to Paul Smiths Hotel to say good-by to Everett Sanders, secretary to the President, who departed last night for Boston to enter a hospital for observation and examination. For the last two weeks Sanders has been confined to his room and decided to have the advice of specialists on his ailment, which is said not to be serious. He was accompanied on the train journey by Mrs. Sanders.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge were accompanied to church Sunday morning by Senator Cameron (Rep.) Arizona, who departed last evening after being a guest at the camp for two days.

ALL ITALY HONORS ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI

Observance of 700th Anniversary of His Death Marked by Imposing Ceremonies.

By the Associated Press.

ASSISI, Italy, Aug. 2.—From King to the lowliest peasant, all Italy joined yesterday in ceremonies marking the opening of the observance of the 700th anniversary of the death of St. Francis of Assisi.

King Victor Emmanuel was the central figure in the Tuscan celebration at the famous monastery of Verna, where St. Francis lived. He was accompanied by Cardinal Mistrangelo, Archbishop of Florence, and Prof. Fedele, Fascist Minister of Public Instruction.

The Cardinal expressed gratification over what the Italian Government had done to restore the Franciscan churches and monuments in Assisi to their original beauty and in building a road leading to the monastery in Verna, among other things.

Carry Offerings and Images.

The celebration assumed its most imposing character here. Before the tomb of the great saint, all Bishops of Umbria gathered around Mgr. Luddi, Bishop of Assisi, while the faithful poured in from all parts of the world. Some came by train, others by automobile, but many, like the ancient pilgrims, journeyed on foot, carrying offerings and holy images.

Large numbers of worshipers are sleeping in the arcade around the church square, built about seven centuries ago, to shelter pilgrims.

Cannon Boom, Bands Play.

Despite rain, the city presented a gala appearance, decorated with flowers, flags and tapestries. Last night the brilliantly illuminated slopes of the hill on which Assisi stands appeared in the distance as if ablaze.

The climax of the ceremonies consisted of a pontifical mass in the historical cathedral, where St. Francis of Assisi was baptized. This was followed by a procession which, crossing the city, went to the tomb of the Saint, as bells pealed, cannon boomed and bands played.

St. Francis of Assisi was essentially a preacher of the brotherhood of men and the ideal of service. He was born in 1182, the son of a merchant in Assisi, and his conversion came after a severe illness. Then he freed himself of his possessions, and, with a group of followers, devoted himself to serving his fellow men. Later in life there came to him the vision of Christ, and he wrote his great hymn to the sun when blindness had overtaken him.

After St. Francis' death in 1226, one of his followers used his influence to bring about the building of the magnificent church and monastery of St. Francis of Assisi.

TEST GERMAN AIR AMBULANCE

Soviet Agents Inspect High-Speed Seven-Passenger Plane.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The first commercial air ambulance has been completed for the German air service at the Dornier-Wal plant at Friedrichshafen. It is a seven-passenger, high-speed plane, with the interior enameled to facilitate disinfection. It contains two berths for seriously wounded, four invalid chairs and room for two attendants.

Representatives of the soviet government have taken trial flights in the plane, and it is reported that an order for at least six of the air ambulances will be placed by the soviets.

DAWES IN TRIBUTE TO FARMERS OF WEST

Tells Coloradoans "American" Solution of Economic Problems Will Be Found.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 2.—Vice President Charles G. Dawes predicted that the agricultural west will eventually find a satisfactory and an "American" solution of its economic problems through "energy harnessed by intelligence," in an address here last night before 14,000 Coloradoans gathered in the municipal auditorium to celebrate Colorado's fiftieth year of statehood.

Dawes described the spirit of the West as, "determination of purpose—energy harnessed by intelligence—ambition dominated by high purpose—a universal willingness to work and, underneath all these attributes, an attitude of reverence toward the traditions of the race, the family, the church, and the great American constitutional institutions."

The Vice President ventured the opinion that "in the fundamental attitude of the people of the West toward all American institutions is found one of their greatest safeguards and that upon all fundamental questions concerning property and individual rights, the West will be in the vanguard of defense when they are attacked."

Behind Law and Order.

Turning back to the days of the '90s, when the West went through the "gruelling experience of a temporary collapse of its fondest hopes," Dawes declared that its people, "then, as now, in adversity as well as prosperity, stood solidly behind law and order, American institutions and the American Constitution."

"The West talked some in those days," he said, "but it worked more.

"The West is young, and, being young, it is often impatient. Like the young, it rails quickly at deep-seated abuses. If it sees anything wrong in the administration of the Government, it does not discuss the hopelessness of changing it or the desirability of keeping it because of certain illegitimate benefits to the community. It arises and attacks it.

"The best friends of the Government most strongly insist that its power be not abused. • • • It is this tendency that is so often misinterpreted in the East as being radicalism. So far from being radicalism in its true sense—it is the West's form of conservatism. • • • The West, when it advocates changes in law, advocates them because it wants to make government better and fairer and, therefore, more stable."

Equal Treatment for Agriculture.

The "present unrest in the West," in connection with agricultural conditions, was described by Dawes as not being based on a demand that agriculture have preferential treatment over other industries, but that agriculture have equal treatment with them under the law.

"Farmers in the West," he continued, "maintain an American attitude toward agriculture and expect that industry to maintain an American attitude toward industry. Intelligent business opinion in the East supports them in this expectation. Upon their collaboration, and not upon politicians, depends the best hope for a constructive remedy."

AMERICAN ARMS PLAN BLASTED BY GREAT BRITAIN

Scheme of Coolidge and Kellogg for Sequel to Washington Pact Indefinitely Sidetracked.

JAPAN FAVORED SUGGESTIONS

British Admiralty Flatly Refuses Even to Consider the Limitation of Light Cruisers.

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

GENEVA, Aug. 2.—Great Britain has flatly refused an informal invitation from Washington to promise in advance to attend a tripartite conference for extension of the 5-5-3 ratio to all naval categories. A scheme of President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg, for a sequel to the Harding-Hughes naval treaties, which fixed the 5-5-3 limitation for Britain, America and Japan, thus is sidetracked for an indefinite period.

Month-long conversations of Ambassador Houghton, Admiral Hilary P. Jones, chief of the Navy Board; Allen Bulles, State Department representative, and First Secretary Stirling, with Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, Viscount Cecil, chief of the British disarmament delegation, and Admiralty officials have completely collapsed at a moment when they seemed crowned with success.

Consequently the administration's invitation, which Japan already had signified a willingness to accept and which was to have been issued around July 28 or at least before the Geneva pourparlers were resumed today, remains in Mr. Kellogg's hands and the delegates of 20 nations are reassembling to continue their endless arguments over meaningless technicalities.

These already have required six weeks of hectic debate of the preparatory disarmament delegates to decide that "armaments are armaments."

An Unexpected Reversal.

Although the British at one time inferentially agreed to attend the tripartite conference, designed to end naval competition among the three major sea Powers, their attitude giving every reason for the optimism displayed by the Americans and Japanese at the adjournment of the Geneva discussions early in July, their about-face is now complete.

Informal conversations which were carried on during June at Geneva appeared certain of success, especially after the Latin bloc in the conference mustered to its support the votes of Polish, Belgian, Jugo-Slav and Rumanian generals to defeat the British-Japanese-American naval resolutions. The British openly admitted they were "completely fed up" with the Latin bloc and that immediate progres in naval disarmament was impossible through the comedy at Geneva.

The London conversations proved even more favorable until the unexpected reversal upset all tentative agreements. The Admiralty flatly refused even to consider light cruiser limitation and countered with an unacceptable suggestion that a tripartite agreement might be made whereby the status quo of naval strength of Britain, the United States and Japan might be discussed with a view to knocking off further construction for a specified period.

Washington's Original Plan.

The original suggestions to the British from Washington envisaged an agreement with Japan and the United States for inclusive extension of the 5-5-3 ratio, ignoring completely Italy and France, if necessary, inasmuch as their interests are confined chiefly to the Mediterranean.

The Japanese were favorable; then the British made their status quo proposal, which was summarily rejected by the Americans, inasmuch as it would deprive them of the right to increase the existing naval establishment to equality with the British. They point out that the status quo plan would make the American navy inferior even to Japan's present strength.

Thereupon it was decided to authorize continuation of "informal conversations" at Geneva during the August subcommittee debate with a view to devising a scheme advanced by the Japanese and Americans, whereby the limitation would exclude light cruisers—those between 5000 and 9000 tons—but apply to battle cruisers above 10,000 tonnage aircraft carriers, auxiliaries, etc. The British again unexpectedly rejected this, with the Admiralty opposing any limitation except on capital ships.

Pledge From the White House.

It is understood that representatives of the Foreign Office threatened to hold President Coolidge strictly to the White House spokesman's pledge that America would not launch a rival conference so long as the Geneva discussion continued. Since the Geneva pourparlers could be prolonged as long as the league exists, it appears Washington is helpless until the administration's pledge is changed.

Ironically the White House spokesman's statement, which embarrassed the well meaning Japanese during the early stages of the Geneva pourparlers is now proving a boomerang.

The White House at that time interpreted a Japanese "trial balloon" as an invitation by Tokio to summon a separate naval conference and announced to the world that the Americans were participating wholeheartedly and in good faith with Geneva—which is more than the majority of other delegations are willing to admit—and that America would not in any circumstances consider breaking away or initiating a rival conference.

Tokio Never Sought Parley.

Tokio, fearing League members would regard Sugimura's unofficial interview with the Geneva correspondent of the New York World and Post-Dispatch as a slight against the League, or evidence of lack of faith in the League's ability to obtain disarmament—which only incurable optimists hold at present—hastily ordered Ambassador Matsuda to straighten out the misunderstanding.

The fact remains, however, that the Japanees never had asked Washington to summon a conference, but Sugimura had merely explained that Japan's position had been misstated by the Latin bloc and that she was not committed to a "globular" policy regarding disarmament and would "gladly welcome an opportunity to accept an invitation to enlarge the Washington agreements."

Consequently the White House's profession of faith in Geneva's sincerity—which probably will be reiterated officially by Mr. Kellogg about the middle of August—has given the British a political argument which can be used indefinitely to prolong American participation in the Geneva deliberations and incidentally check the administration's hopes for a political maneuver before elections.

Reasons for British Attitude.

The chief reason for the British hesitancy to limit the navy is reported to be apprehension over the coming imperial conference. Secondly, there is suspicion of a contemplated Canadian-American economic rapprochement which possibly might affect adversely the empire's commercial interests; thirdly, there is the Franco-Italian submarine program for the Mediterranean, and, fourthly, Spain's contemplated $200,000,000 naval construction program.

The Japanese are disconsolate over the developments. They still say they are bringing pressure to bear in hope the British policy will change before the preparatory subcommittees adjourn for the September League of Nations Assembly. They point out that naval disarmament chiefly concerns the Pacific, as the Atlantic is already safe for commerce.

They also fear that unless an agreement is reached, the United States soon will proceed to strengthen its navy to the 5-5-3 standard, necessitating expenditures which the Japanese cannot afford.

Can Prolong Pourparlers.

As the situation stands France can indefinitely proion, Geneva's preparatory pourparlers, so far as land armaments are concerned, and with the recent disclosures of Germany's failure to fulfill the Versailles treaty obligations completely, with Russia's refusal to co-operate with the League, and with the militarism of Poland and Italy, there is little chance for results in that field. Similarly, Britain's outright refusal to limit light cruisers even to the status quo, so long as the Italians and French cling to submarines and Spain has an ambitious building program, will furnish excuse for endless delays in a naval way.

JEWISH PLAYWRIGHT WHO DIED IN LONDON

ISRAEL ZANGWILL.

ISRAEL ZANGWILL, NOTED AUTHOR AND PLAYWRIGHT, DIES

Succumbs to Pneumonia at 42, in London, Where He Had Become a Theater Manager.

LABORED FOR YEARS IN ZIONISM CAUSE

Probably Best Known in U. S. for "The Children of the Ghetto," and "The Melting Pot."

By Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Israel Zangwill, author and playwright, is dead, after a week's illness. The end came at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at a hospital. The direct cause of death was pneumonia. He was 62 years old.

Mr. Zangwill made his first reputation as an author with "The Children of the Ghetto," and other tales of Jewish life. Last September he became a theater manager in London, producing his own plays. He announced he hoped to mix popular with serious drama, "making the popular pay for the highbrow."

Zangwill was a propagandist for Zionism many years, and since the establishment of the Jewish National Home he had continued his efforts for Jews in Palestine with such energy that he used to say jokingly that his enemies believed he intended to make himself king of Jerusalem after the expulsion of the Arabs.

Israel Zangwill was born in London, Feb. 14, 1864, and was virtually self-educated except for instruction received in the English elementary schools, but this fact did not prevent his winning a B. A. degree with honor in London University. He was first a teacher, then a journalist and afterward an author, having written novels, essays, poems and plays, besides lecturing in Great Britain and Ireland, Jerusalem, Holland and the United States.

He was married in 1903 to Miss Edith Ayerton, daughter of the late Prof. W. A. Ayerton, herself an author. They had two sons and one daughter. Mr. Zangwill was president of the Jewish Historical Society of England; ex-president and honorary member of the Playgoers' Club; president of the Jewish Drama League and a member of the Dramatists' Club.

Mr. Zangwill was a prolific writer, but the two works by which he is best known in America are probably "Children of the Ghetto," published in 1892, and "The Melting Pot," brought out in 1908. His last visit to this country was in the fall and winter of 1923-24, when he delivered the opening address to the American Jewish Congress and stayed to criticise everything American except our subway turnstiles and cafeterias.

Fifteen years before, he came here to attend the premiere of "The Melting Pot" at Washington. The play was dedicated to President Roosevelt and the opening was attended by him with his entire cabinet.

Stirred Dissension Among Zionists.

Mr. Zangwill stirred nation-wide comment and controversy on his last visit here both by his critical comments on everything and by his assertion that "political Zionism is dead." He attacked the British mandate in Palestine as "betraying" the Jews and converting Palestine into a homeland for the Arabs rather than a refuge for the long-scattered tribes of Israel.

So great was the dissension stirred in Zionist ranks that it was at one time reported Samuel Untermyer, president of the Palestine Foundation Fund, would resign. Untermyer, Nathan Straus and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise took exception to Zangwill's views.

Mr. Zangwill declared prohibition a joke, America itself a joke and the manner of the people frightful. He criticised Henry Ford, and his audiences rebelled and received his remarks in stony silence or, as at the National Arts Club, cheered the remark of one listener that Zangwill had "gone far enough."

As a result of the storm, Mr. Zangwill suddenly became silent for three weeks. Characteristically he defended his criticisms by saying "One has to be impertinent in America in order to escape the impertinence of everyone else."

Supported Immigration Scheme.

Mr. Zangwill was one of the chief supporters of the late Theodore Herzl, founder of the modern Zionist movement, and helped promote as well, the Galveston Immigration Scheme, financed by by Jacob Schiff, to divert immigration from Eastern ports. He was always an aggressive exponent of unlimited immigration.

The Patient Sun Worshiper.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHAT is happening in Mexico cannot be fully understood unless one knows the history of that blood-stained land. The truth is that Christianity has never conquered Mexico, and it took the revolution to prove it. The revolution placed the Indians in control, and the Indians love their own religion best. There are great tribes of them which never surrendered their own religion, just as there are such tribes in the United States. The ghost dances of the Sioux, which only the army could abate, and the snake dances of the Moki, which not even the Indian Commissioner can prevail against, are the prototypes of the pagan religious beliefs held by the aboriginal people all over Mexico. The pure-blood Indian, now almost a rarity in the United States, is in the majority in Mexico. Of the whole population of 15,000,000, 13,000,000 are Indians, most of them full bloods. Some of the great tribes, among them the Aztecs, remain either intact or virtually so. The Yaqui, who police Mexico City and occupy the barracks just outside of the city limits, are the Swiss Guard of the revolution. It is a saying in Mexico that the revolutionists, who came from Sonora, brought their Indians with them. The devotion of those Indians to the revolution is dog-like. They, and not labor, as one may suppose, are the strength of the Government in its war with the church. Labor may betray the Government, but the Indians will not. They have an old grievance against Christianity, and an Indian never forgets.

When Cortez went to Mexico he found the Indians worshiping the sun. This was true of all the American Indians. The Aztecs, who were the dominant tribe in Mexico, had degraded sun worship with human sacrifice, but in its purer forms it was no such bloody religion and lingers still in the hearts of the Indians everywhere. So it is not true, as we are accustomed to believe, that Mexico is all Catholic, or that the present trouble down there is altogether a war among Catholics. The intellectuals of the revolution are Catholics, but the strength behind them is pagan. You cannot easily displace in the hearts of a people a religious belief which they have held for thousands of years, and Christianity has never been more than skin deep with the pure-blood Indians of Mexico. They have been biding their time since their own temple in Mexico City was razed and the great Christian cathedral was built on the site where it stood. They have been biding their time ever since the idol of Huitzilopochtli, the sun-god, was tumbled from its pedestal upon the great teocalli of the Aztecs and in its stead was raised the cross of Christ. They have been biding their time since the Inquisition was inflicted upon them and brought woe to all that unbelieved.

The Indians believed a time would come when all these things would be righted. All subjugated peoples believe that. Apparently the time has come in Mexico. It is not a flattering commentary upon Christianity that after 400 years it has no more secure place in the hearts of the people than it has in Mexico. Whether one agrees with Bancroft that the Catholic church has not made Christianity the beneficence that it might have been, or sympathizes with the difficulties of the church in an unconquered country, the spectacle of what is happening in Mexico, like that in Russia, is such as to make Christians everywhere wonder if they are as truly Christian as they might be.

It is hardly thinkable that Mexico will renounce Christianity, any more than the Russians have been able to do so. It is more probable that she will merely give it something to think about, which is always good for the church as well as the State. If she went beyond that and we beheld there at last a pagan religion redivivus, something that has been looked for in the world ever since Christianity, with bloody sword, began its victorious march out of the East, then Mexico surely will have set another historical masterpiece beside the Conquest.

For Annexation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AM much inclined to think I will vote for annexation, and it will take more than I have heard as to a real argument or reason from anyone who has said anything yet, to make me go back to the idea I had that we didn't want to come into the city, and believe there are many like myself who are leaning toward the idea who were at first against it.

The prospects for a large, wonderful city, with adequate sewer and water facilities, playgrounds, parks, streets, on a big scale such as this country is fitted for, would make anyone vote for it, providing it was demonstrated it would be worked out on a fair basis, and everyone get a chance to have their say as to what should be done. Now as to the men who run the county, and those who run the city, as near as I can figure, it's 50-50. Some of the finest men I know are in office in Clayton, and some not so fine; also, this can be said of your city.

BILL.

THE PRIMARY CONSPIRACY CHARGE.

It is unfortunate that the affidavit of Ernest D. Wilson, former secretary of the Proctor State campaign organization, charging an under-cover collusion between the managers of the Proctor dry campaign and the Priest wet campaign, comes too late to permit a thorough sifting of the facts before primary election day.

We hold no brief for Senator Williams, the third candidate in the race for the Republican senatorial nomination, with whose approval the Wilson affidavit has been made public. In the light, however, of the manifest belief of Senator Williams in the accuracy of the Wilson charges, which are made with a wealth of circumstantial detail, there can be no doubt that he was justified in seeking for them the widest possible publicity.

Senator Williams, like any other candidate, is entitled to have the primary contest settled on its merits. If what he charges, on the strength of the Wilson affidavit, is true, he has been the victim of a piece of rank political chicanery. Wilson asserts there has been active co-operation between the managers of the ostensibly opposed candidacies of Priest and Proctor; that Priest was brought into the race in an effort to take wet votes away from Senator Williams and thereby increase the chances of the dry Proctor; that the moving spirit behind both the opponents of Williams is Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City; that as part of the conspiracy William O. Atkeson, a dry, was paid $2500 to get out of the contest.

Mr. Priest has denied the charge of collusion and Mr. Atkeson has denied the allegation pertaining to him. Mr. Priest, however, tells of a visit he made to the home of Mr. Dickey in Kansas City, to discuss the issues of the campaign, and Jacob Lieberstein of St. Louis, one of the backers of Mr. Priest, verifies some of the other important supporting points in the Wilson charges. When C. C. Madison, one of the key men of the Proctor forces, was found by a Post-Dispatch reporter seeking a statement on the Wilson affidavit, he was in conference with Priest's St. Louis manager at Priest's headquarters.

What weight is to be attached to the partial corroboration of Wilson's charges by various of the actors in the alleged conspiracy cannot now be determined. Certain it is that the evidence thus far adduced is of a character to warrant a most careful investigation.

In the interest of common decency in politics, to the end that the primary system may be saved from the utter disrepute into which it is now threatening to fall in the eyes of the voters, it is imperative that the Wilson charges and the denials thereof be subjected to an acid test.

Mr. Coolidge is doing well with trout, but nothing like he hooked suckers two years ago.

A VACATION MIGHT HELP.

Senator Borah in his time has played a variety of roles, and we have applauded him in many of them. He is a stout defender of the right of free speech, an implacable foe of corruption in elections and the public service, a fearless assailant of special privilege. He has risen at times to heights of genuine statesmanship. He has brains, industry and the gift of oratory.

It is because of our admiration for so many of the things that Borah has done or attempted to do that we like so little to see him veering close to the role of common scold. On the subject of prohibition he seems to be in a fair way to become just that.

Has the Washington heat got on the Senator's nerves? It might be well for him to emulate the example of the President and get out of town for a while. A vacation in the wide, open spaces of his State of Idaho might do him a world of good.

Richard Washburn Child has informed the President that the campaign is progressing favorably for the administration. Mr. Child is the well-known writer of fiction.

A NEW RICHMOND IN THE FIELD.

Just to prove that minorities, especially hopeless ones, don't get any publicity to speak of, imagine how surprised we were to receive a letter from the Capitol Removal Party in Missouri advising us that it has a candidate in the senatorial race!

This totally unsuspected person is William E. Berry of Kansas City. He has but one plank in his platform, and it is a big one. He wants to move the national capital from Washington to St. Charles County, Mo., where it will approximate the geographical center of the country, be free from foreign attack and not be so much the neighborhood oyster of the vested interests. Mr. Berry thus has three strings to his bow, and in a field otherwise made up of people armed with nothing better than beer openers and lemon squeezers he ought to do well.

We agree with him about Washington, which he would make an addition to Arlington Cemetery. Is there an ill which cannot be traced to Washington? Certainly not. We suppose Mr. Berry will open his campaign in St. Charles County. If so, he will no doubt have the St. Charles Farm Bureau with him. They need the capital, and if he can get it for them they will acclaim him in Boschertown, Peruque, St. Peters, Portage des Sioux, Marais Croche, St. Charles, Orchard Farm, O'Fallon and Femme Osage until his ears tingle.

It used to be thought that Jim Reed broke up the Democratic party in Missouri, but it seems to have been the Republican party that he divided.

WITH MUD ON HIS BOOTS.

The candidacy of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois for the Republican presidential nomination may now be said to be out in the open. Lowden for a long time has been quietly cultivating the good will of the farmers. In many recent meetings of farm organizations he has been mentioned as a possible Moses to lead the hosts of agriculture out of an economic wilderness. Vice President Dawes has received similar attention, but not to the same extent.

Lowden's candidacy for the nomination at the Chicago convention of 1920 was wrecked by the disclosure of payments on his behalf to the "Gold Dust Twins" of Missouri.

Will the mud on the candidate's boots take him farther in 1928 than money did in 1920?

Now that the primaries are ending, some new use will have to be discovered for the back ends of automobiles.

A SANCHO PANZA FOR DON QUIXOTE.

The Constitution of the United States is at once the despair and the refuge of the prohibitionists. First putting their law into it and then trying to wreck it to make that law effective, they are now fearful that the wets are going to nullify it and make it a dead cock in the pit. Eight states are going to vote on prohibition by referendum in November. They are New York, Illinois, Missouri, California, Wisconsin, Colorado, Montana and Nevada. This causes James J. Britt, counsel for the prohibition unit in the Treasury Department, to hail Senator Borah as the champion of the Constitution and indicate to his valiant knight the numbers and position of those who would nullify it. Writing the Senator, Mr. Britt says:

> All who honestly believe that national prohibition is either unwise or unjust and favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment in the way provided by the Constitution itself are entitled to an audience, to a respectful hearing, and to freedom from any questioning of motives; but they who, either for gain or for drink, would make a scrap of paper of the Constitution not only place greed and appetite above national honor, but are plain nullifiers of the Constitution of the United States.

Of course, the prohibitionists, when they were trying to make a dead letter of the Bill of Rights, were not nullifiers of the Constitution. They merely found the Constitution in their way and tried to ignore it. If the antiprohibitionists are trying to do the same thing with the eighteenth amendment they likely got the suggestion from the prohibitionists. In Missouri, for instance, where the so-called nullifiers are seeking to repeal the State dry laws, the prohibitionists undertook to pass a law giving police officers the right to search automobiles for liquor without search warrant. They proposed to have these men congest traffic at bridgeheads while they pawed over the sandwiches of picnic parties with their dirty hands in the quest for liquor. That is a fair example of what the prohibitionists have proposed in every state, and in states like Indiana they have fairly set the Bill of Rights at naught. Nor is it an exaggeration of what the prohibitionists have sought to get from Congress. There is no length to which they have not always been willing to go to make prohibition effective, Constitution or no Constitution. Then they turn around in the august personages of Senator Borah and Counsel Britt to charge that antiprohibitionists, by resort to the democratic appeal of the referendum, which Wayne Wheeler says savors too much of pure democracy for the purposes of good government, are trying to knock the Constitution out!

Great Scott! We thought the prohibitionists had forgotten that there is a Constitution.

August was named for Augustus, who added it to the calendar after somebody asked him if it were hot enough for him.

THE MODERN SCOURGE.

An automobile death roll is now being issued by the United States Department of Commerce. It is a fearsome document. From Jan. 3 to July 17 of this year, 3103 persons in 78 cities were killed by the automobile. In St. Louis the automobile death rate per 100,000 was 23.4 for 1925; for 1924 it was 24.2. Compare this with the toll taken in America per 100,000 population by disease: typhoid fever, 7.5; smallpox, 0.7; scarlet fever, 3.5.

The automobile, with its great contribution to our pleasure and well-being, is exacting terrible tribute. To cross a street is to undertake a perilous adventure. Death lurks at every crossing. Famine and pestilence were the scourges of the Middle Ages; the misuse of the automobile is ours.

It's like threading a needle with a camel for a poor man to enter the Senate from Illinois or Pennsylvania.

MORE DUELS.

In Italy, according to reliable Associated Press dispatches, duels continue to make hideous the dawn. A General criticised an article written by the brother of Mussolini, and as a result he is in receipt of two challenges. Two Fascist officials met at sunrise in a lonely wood near Rome and fought with sabers under rules permitting any kind of a blow, so that one of them received three slashes.

Well, we are not much excited. We have heard of duels in Birmingham, Ala.; Atlanta, Ga.; and Harlem, N. Y., in which the principals were so carved up that expert puzzle solvers were required to help the doctors decide which piece should be sewed in which place. In this day and time three slashes are hardly worth one wound stripe. We repeat what we have said before: if these gentlemen in Europe expect us to blanch and tremble at their manly ferocity they must produce more than slashes and challenges. So bloodthirsty are we that we refuse to be satisfied with anything less than a list of the dead.

A Frenchman has invented the seeing telephone, which we hope will be suppressed. What chance has a man calling his wife up and telling her why he will not be home for dinner if she can see his face?

McKinley spent $350,000 in his unsuccessful campaign, which probably brings him down to his last ten or fifteen million.

ELEVATING THE HEIGHT OF THE RIDICULOUS.

I fell in love once on a time,
Could anything be worse?
My lady so inspired me that
I wrote to her in verse.

My flaming love notes lavished praise
In words that made her cry,
Albeit, in things amorous,
A sober man am I.

But then in time my passion passed
Like dust before a storm,
Perhaps I was most fickle, but
I really meant no harm.

My love soon died, indeed, too true.
Yet notes in black and white
Remain somehow exceeding long;
Mine caused a legal fight.

She carted them into a court
That 12 good men might hear;
The press was there and soon my notes
Were famous far and near.

As I have said, my billets doux
Had made my lady cry.
But who would dream that they could wring
Tears from a jury's eye?

Alas, a verdict soon was read,
(Came now my time for tears);
I could not pay such damages,
I thought, in 20 years.

But still a joker must be found,
Each drama has its jest;
I wrote those notes, as I have said,
In verse—my very best.

I thank the press for my success;
That love-balm debt is paid,
And as a lyric poet, too,
My fortune has been made.

For in each little bookshop now
You'll find my flaming verse,
And royalties are pouring in—
Somehow, it could be worse!

Our idea of the utmost in tactlessness is General Andrews' visit to the French capital at this time to negotiate a rum-running treaty. A person possessed of ordinary horse sense should know the French have sufficient serious domestic trouble, without concerning themselves with our "moral crusade." On the other hand, there may not be even horse sense in prohibition.

Solomon has it easy compared with Judge Rosecan, who, according to the Globe-Democrat, divided a poker pot of $41.25 between four women. As nearly as we can figure, this makes $10.31 apiece. The extra cent was undoubtedly the celebrated "penny for your thoughts," and was divided among the four poker players when the Judge gave his decision.

WE'LL DO WHATEVER WE CAN.

Dear Sir:

For many years we have boasted that one of the advantages of our Union Station was the fact that passengers in going to their trains did not have to thread their way through a maze of baggage trucks and belching locomotives. We maintained that we did it better here; we backed our trains in and kept the locomotives and baggage cars at the far end of the station.

Why is that being changed now? Has it any reference to the Bridge controversy?

Going to one of our prize fast trains this morning one was obliged constantly to dodge baggage trucks engaged in unloading trains that had come in. Judging from the sounds that emerged, one of the baggage cars seemed to have been filled with a large consignment of calves. Why this sudden changing of Union Station into a stockyard?

Won't you do something about it?

We are rash enough to believe that the real definition of poetry—any thought or emotion expressed in rhythmical and metrical language—will one day be accepted. The present definition, which drags in high and ennobling thoughts, prevents a great many people from reading poetry. They class something which should be read for the pure enjoyment of the rhythm with cold baths. The current definition also works a hardship on poets. They assume that unless they drag in Death, Virtue, little children, flowers and God, they are not writing poetry.

In "The Story of Philosophy" Will Durant has done what hitherto has been considered impossible—he has made philosophers and philosophy understandable, entertaining and readable. Beginning with Plato, he takes us down to Santayana, William James and John Dewey in a volume which is clearly, cleverly and humorously written. Philosophy, we predict, will share the dinner table discussion honors with microbes this year.

The MIRROR PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reprint without bias the latest comment by leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

OUR LANGUAGE IN EUROPE.

From the New York Herald Tribune.

ACCORDING to a writer in a popular English weekly, American is the language of the future. Two hundred and thousand Americans, it is pointed out, go to England during the next three months. In March they were in Egypt; in April, Italy and Greece. Such a yearly migration is bound to leave traces, the writer of the article concludes, and how more easily than on language? In Greece a shepherd is reported to greet travelers with "Hello, boy!" following this up with "Say, what's your station?" "Gotta map?" "How many children you got?" and similar questions, all pronounced with an unmistakable American accent, though the speaker wears the traditional dress of Greece and has never been this country. Asked by the traveler if he has any eggs, an innkeeper or cafe proprietor probably responds: "Sure!" It turns out that he came, here as an immigrant, amassed a competence and returned to Greece, taking with him a gramophone and a small stock of American phrases.

From the influence of American tourists in Italy, the surplus population of that country has been emigrating here for years and naturally, the brand of English carried back is that current in America. An audience of cockneys in Whitechapel has no trouble following American "movies" with subtitles in American slang, having learned the meanings through a long course of attendance on previous films. The same cockneys may be heard later incongruously using ditties about Dixie and Carolina in the morning as they roll home from the "pubs." Such phrases as "pussyfoot" and "get on with it" are freely used in England and looks as if the author of the article was right.

TOWN GROWTH.

From the Madison (Wis.) State Journal.

SOME towns, like Topsy, just grow. They concern themselves with no direction nor destination. They accept what comes to them unbidden and unsought. They build without thought of the present or future. If their streets are straight and broad it is only because they just happen to be so. If their commercial, industrial and residential sections encroach upon one another it does not indicate that it is because forces have been working to prevent such encroachment. Such towns of this type grow and prosper only because they enjoy some peculiar natural advantage which forbids community stagnancy. And then there is another type of town. They have both direction and destination. They seek out and bid for that which they otherwise would not have even the privilege of accepting. They plan, like the engineer, giving thought to the unity of the whole and the relationship of the component parts. Their streets are primarily straight and broad. They preserve well-defined boundaries between the residential, commercial and industrial districts. They, without the advantage of natural opportunities towns of this type grow and prosper, behooves every town to make the most of what it has. Established communities, deprived of determining their own boundaries, are the masters of their own destiny.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

OUR LANGUAGE IN EUROPE.

From the New York Herald Tribune.

ACCORDING to a writer in a popular English weekly, American is the language of the future. Two hundred and fifty thousand Americans, it is pointed out, will go to England during the next three months. In March they were in Egypt; in April, in Italy and Greece. Such a yearly migration is bound to leave traces, the writer of the article concludes, and how more easily than in language? In Greece a shepherd is wont to greet travelers with "Hello, boy!" following this up with "Say, what's your Name?" "Gotta map?" "How many children you got?" and similar questions, all pronounced with an unmistakable American accent, though the speaker wears the national dress of Greece and has never seen his country. Asked by the traveler if he has any eggs, an innkeeper or cafe proprietor probably responds: "Sure!" It turns out that he came, here as an immigrant, has passed a competence and returned to Greece, taking with him a gramophone and a small stock of American phrases. Apart from the influence of American tourists lately, the surplus population of that country has been emigrating here for years and naturally, the brand of English carried back is that current in America. An audience of Cockneys in Whitechapel has no trouble in following American "movies" with sub-titles in American slang, having learned the meanings through a long course of attendance on previous films. The same could be may be heard later incongruously bawling ditties about Dixie and Carolina in the morning as they roll home from the "pubs." Such phrases as "pussyfoot" and "got away with it" are freely used in England. It looks as if the author of the article were right.

TOWN GROWTH.

From the Madison (Wis.) State Journal.

SOME towns, like Topsy, just grow up. They concern themselves with neither direction nor destination. They accept that which comes to them unbidden and unsought. They build without thought of present or future. If their streets are wide and broad it is only because they happen to be so. If their commercial, industrial and residential sections do not encroach upon one another it does not because that it is because forces have been working to prevent such encroachment. If towns of this type grow and prosper it is because they enjoy some peculiar natural advantage which forbids community stagnancy. And then there is another type of town. They have both direction and destination. They seek out and bid to come which they otherwise would not be given the privilege of accepting. They build with the engineer, giving thought to the use of the whole and the relationship of the component parts. Their streets are purposeful, straight and broad. They preserve well-defined boundaries betwen the residential, commercial and industrial districts. Everywhere about the advantage of natural opportunities towns of this type grow and prosper. Nature loves every town to make the best use of it it has. Established communities, dedicated of determining their own beginnings and the masters of their own destinies.

PARIS must be a fairly gay sort of a town if they carry on there the way Patsy Ruth Miller, Monte Blue, Andre Beranger and Lilyan Tashman do in "So This Is Paris" at the Grand Central, Lyric Hippodrome and Capitol. It is a pretty light little farce, but it has been skillfully made by Ernest Lubitsch, and his handling of the Artists' Ball is excellent. "So This Is Paris" is pleasing entertainment which is likely to prove a disappointment to those who believe in the advertising which calls it naughty. Oh, for the Life of a Farmer.

A REAL picture for the entire family, however, is "Laddie," at the Missouri. Gene Stratton Porter's charming story of life on a farm has been translated into celluloid in a most entertaining way, and while it is not up to the mark set by "The Old Nest" and "Over the Hill" some years ago, it is a pleasant and pretty screen play. Two children, Gene Stratton and John Fox Jr.—can they be the daughter of the authoress and the son of the late writer?—run away with the piece, furnishing most of the enjoyable comedy. It is a worthwhile picture, and a dance revue on the stage is very pretty.

Ghosts.

LINCOLN J. CARTER is dead, but his spirit is carrying on this week down at Loew's, where "Bigger Than Barnum's" is a replica of the old school with the hero walking across a burning tight rope, which had been conveniently tied to a telegraph pole, to the top of a blazing building to save his father from death and destruction. As the title suggests it is all about circus life and circus people, and Ralph Ince made the picture and plays in it although he wisely permits someone else to do the rope walking stunt. A jazz band, which is no joke, and Rubinoff, the violinist, are also on the bill.

Wuf, Wuf, Wuf.

RALPH INCE doesn't make a very good sea wolf. He hasn't got enough hair on his chest. Have all the Jack London men vanished from earth? What has happened to the adjective "abysmal"? Where are the magnificent brutes who pick their teeth with hobnailed boots and curse adoringly between? Where, oh, where, is the adjective "primal"? We missed it from the subtitles. In the present version of "Sea Wolf," at the St. Louis, all, all are gone—the old familiar mugs. Ralph as Wolf Larsen is jumped by a pack of just ordinary strong men of the Coney Beach or post-primordial era. As unabysmal as they are they are, they seem more than a match for Ince, and when he fights them off and gradually loses his clothes in doing so, it doesn't ring quite true. The craven, Hump, the Cockney cook, the girl, are all well enough cast. But this movie hasn't got the London flavor. It doesn't follow the London story very too closely, either. Has America lost faith in supermen, those terrifying creatures invented by Romancer London, possessed of the physical strength of a stevedore and the intellects of scholars? If this be true, it is is easily traced to its start. It began the day Jack Dempsey got his nose straightened.

Clara Grows Older.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG and Richard Bennett, beloved grandmother and grandfather of the screen are paired with a younger couple in "Lying Wives" at Kings and Rivoli. Clara's art hasn't changed a bit. She still flings her hands before she kisses and remember "Lying Husbands" in the summer of '15?) and when she wants to be forgiven she kneels. She still loves children with a mildly nauseated expression, and when she cheats on her daddy she dies her eyes. We always said that no movie actress ever excelled Clara at dimissing a maid. She dismissed her maid three times in this picture and it is a pleasure to see her do it. She is never as a vamp. When she was in her heyday the approved method of vamping a man was to throw back your head and sight down your nose at him, with a meaning, somewhat cross-eyed look. Clara's aim is just as steady as ever. The story of her current offering casts her in the role of the young wife of an old man who gets another young wife's young husband. After breaking up their home she is softened by one look at their child and goes home to duty. In Clara's prime erring wives were never taken back by injured husbands. They always took from their homes while the Orpheon played "After the Ball." It happens just that way in this picture. Clara hasn't changed a bit.

WOMEN WORK FOR COCKRELL WITHOUT INCURRING EXPENSE

Maintain Headquarters Rent Free and Office Attaches Donate Services.

The Women's Cockrell-for-Senator Committee believes it has established some records unique in a political campaign. Headquarters have been maintained rent free in the private home of Mrs. Vertrees Young, 4275 Cleveland avenue. Some days 800 to 1000 letters have been mailed and not a single office worker has been paid a cent.

Attention has been directed especially to laboring men and their families. Women have gone into the railroad yards, factories, machine shops and into the home in those districts to tell laboring men and their wives of Judge Cockrell's friendship to labor, organized and unorganized, in the cities and on the farms.

Miss Flora Cockrell, daughter of the candidate, has covered the State organizing workers and making speeches. Mrs. Vertrees Young, accompanying the candidate on one tour, spoke in 11 towns each day for two weeks.

1500 DELEGATES AT WORLD CONGRESS OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Dr. John R. Mott of New York Chosen President by Meeting at Helsingfors, Finland.

By the Associated Press.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 2.—The world congress of the Young Men's Christian Association opened yesterday with 50 nations represented by 1500 delegates, among them 250 Americans.

Dr. John R. Mott of New York was elected unanimously to the presidency of the congress, succeeding Dr. Paul Degoutte, who resigned because of advanced age. Dr. Mott declared he would assume responsibility for the general policy, but not for administrative work, and said he would carry out faithfully the principles laid down by the Paris meeting of 1855.

Among the prominent persons attending the congress is Prince Oscar of Sweden. Ceremonies included a civic reception by the president of the City Council. The inaugural meeting of the congress took place in the Johannes Church. It was attended by President Relander of Finland, members of the Government and the diplomatic body.

The opening ceremony was exceedingly impressive, as, for the first time, all the Christian churches, including the Roman Catholic, are represented in the congress.

CROWN PRINCE TO SAIL SOON

Appears at Last Public Reception in San Francisco.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—With their last American public reception a thing of the past, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden and his consort, the Princess Louise, today began a two-day period of relaxation from the almost continuous round of entertainment with which they have been regaled since they arrived in this country two months ago. Wednesday they embark for the Far East, but in the interim they plan to shop, motor, play golf or rest.

Last night's reception, at which the Prince addressed 12,000 of his former fellow countrymen, chiefly in Swedish, was featured by the action of the Prince in discarding formality and assuming the part of an impromptu cheer leader. He led the assemblage in the customary Swedish "four fold" for this country and Sweden.

NEW GATEWAY DEDICATED AT YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

Illinois Girl Christens Entrance to 110-Mile Roadway With Missouri River Water.

By the Associated Press.

THREE FORKS, Mont., Aug. 2.—A new gateway to Yellowstone National Park was formally opened yesterday with impressive ceremonies. Men who made frontier history joined with parties from both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards to dedicate the huge archway erected at the entrance of the Gallatin Gateway to the park.

Miss Jean Dixon of Evanston, Ill., christened the new entrance by breaking a be-ribboned bottle of Yellowstone River water on the archway. Immediately thereafter the first parties motored down the new road 110 miles long into the park from Three Forks, where in 1804 Lewis and Clark discovered the source of the Missouri River.

PRINCE BORN ON STEAMER DIES

Stork Outspeeds Ocean Liner in Voyage to America.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A little Prince, heir to one of the oldest titles in Italy, was born and died aboard the liner Carminia during her voyage from Southampton, England, which ended here yesterday.

The Prince and Princess Guido Pignatelli de Montecalvo were coming to America that their child might be born in his mother's native country. The stork outsped the ocean liner, however, and the Princess gave birth to a boy last Monday. The baby died Wednesday. The Princess was formerly Miss Constance Grenelle Wilcox of New York and Madison, Conn. She married Prince de Montecalvo last August.

MME. DUX TO WED, MACBETH TO SING IN SAN FRANCISCO

West Coast Troupe, Satisfied With Trade, Decides Not to Sue Charles Swift's Fiancee.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—The San Francisco Opera Co. was preparing to throw a legal brickbat at the wedding ceremonies of Claire Dux, prima donna soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera Co., and Charles Swift, millionaire meat packer, but the local troupe decided to make it a bouquet of orange blossoms instead.

Mme. Dux, with the announcement of her engagement, said she was through with opera. Contracts with the San Francisco company were called to her attention, but she insisted that she would not sing here.

Redmond D. Stevens, counsel for the Swift interests, came to San Francisco and made arrangements whereby the Chicago company will send Florence Macbeth to San Francisco to sing in Mme. Dux's place. So the San Francisco company destroyed its contract and sent telegraphic felicitations to the pair who are to be married today.

The Rev. Emil Berdau Dies.

The Rev. Emil Berdau, 69 years old, of Kirkwood, a retired pastor of the Evangelical church, died yesterday. He retired two years ago, due to ill health, after he had been pastor of a church near Marissa, Ill., for many years. He was born in Germany. Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Mr. Berdau is survived by his widow and three children.

FRENCH CABINET O K'S MONOPOLY ON TOBACCO

Also Approves Poincare's Plan for Autonomous Fund to Pay Defense Bonds.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The Cabinet today approved Premier Poincare's proposal for an autonomous repayment fund for national defense bonds and for cession of the tobacco monopoly to a French corporation under Government control.

When Parliament has voted provisions for the autonomous fund, the Government proposes that both chambers shall meet at Versailles in national assembly to make the law part of the Constitution. The Assembly is not expected to meet before Aug. 10.

The debt settlements between France and the United States and between France and Great Britain now appear likely to come up for ratification by Parliament during the present month before the summer recess. Ever growing opposition to shelving the Washington and London agreements until October apparently has caused Poincare to recede from his position of "no immediate ratification."

A communique issued by the semi-official Havas Agency, evidently inspired by the Government, is authority for this statement.

Story of Delay Denied.

The communique reads in part: "Information published in an evening paper attributing to the Premier the intention to adjourn to a very distant date examination of the American and British agreements concerning French debts is groundless.

'On the contrary, Poincare intends, as soon as the financial projects now before Parliament are definitely voted, to have an exchange of views concerning the inter-allied debts with the Finance and Foreign Affairs Committees of the Chamber and Senate, which already had been asked officially by the preceding Governments to study the report on the Berenger-Mellon and Caillaux-Churchill agreements."

The newspaper statement to which the communique refers was an editorial by the Journal des Debats, which said among other things:

"Adjournment of ratification of the debt agreements for a long time is regrettable from all angles, and from the viewpoint of our immediate needs, is useless. The conditions offered by the United States in settlement of our debt will not have changed in a few months; the American Constitution is against it. Nobody, not even President Coolidge, can alter the Berenger-Mellon accord. We hope our Government will be better advised than to postpone consideration of this agreement."

The inclusion of a tax on foreigners in Poincare's bill, voted by the Chamber yesterday caused a surprise. Identity cards and renewals of such cards every two years will now cost foreigners 375 francs, instead of 68 as at present. Students and journalists will pay 40 francs, while foreign volunteers who served in the French army during the war are exempt from any fee whatever.

Passage of this clause was made contingent on abandonment of a bill drawn up by Deputy Falcoz, requiring every foreigner to pay a fee upon entering the country.

The support which the chamber gave Poincare's financial measures had a strong rallying effect today on the franc, which improved steadily during the day's trading.

Opening at 40.13 to the dollar and 195 to the pound, the franc rose without fluctuations and at the official closing hour on the bourse stood at 37.95 to the dollar and 184.50 to the pound.

YOUTH CAPTURED AFTER CHASE GIVES POLICE EXTRA WORK

First Halted by Shots, Alva Sweaze, 19, Attempts to Escape, But Auto Overtakes Him.

A detective and a Sergeant, firing three shots in a chase from Sarah street to Grand boulevard on Washington boulevard, at 1:30 p. m. yesterday, captured Alva Sweaze, 19, of 2305 North Market street, who distracted their attention and fled, when they found him in an alleged stolen automobile in front of 4021 Washington.

When they came upon him Sweaze said the machine belonged to his "pal," who was in the house. Detective Sergeant Verheyen searched No. 4021, while Detective Adams watched the youth. As the Sergeant returned, having found no one, Sweaze cried, "Look, there he goes now!" The detectives looked, and Sweaze ran.

The followed in their department automobile. Sweaze, recaptured, reiterated that the automobile was his friend's.

1600 Sailors Help Fight Fire.

By the Associated Press.

EVERETT, Wash., Aug. 2.—More than 1600 sailors from the United States fleet at anchor here aided in combatting six fires of alleged incendiary origin that menaced the city late last night and early today. Fire departments from three cities also combined to fight the flames, which were under control this morning. The damage was placed at $300,000. A wood and coal company's plant, part of a ball park, a lumber company, several small mills, an oil company warehouse and a laundry were destroyed.

ADMITS HE MURDERED GIRL, 10

Father of Five Confesses Attack on Coshocton (O.) Child.

By the Associated Press.

COSHOCTON, O., Aug. 2.—Robert F. Thompson, 54 years old, a widower and father of five children, arrested at Mount Vernon, has confessed that he assaulted and strangled Gertrude d'Ostrop, 10-year-old Coshocton girl, at a secluded spot along the Walhonding River Friday night.

After killing the girl, Thompson said, he returned to Coshocton. The next day, for some reason he was unable to explain, he went again to the scene of the crime, retrieved the body and placed it in a path where it could be found. Fearing violence from threatening crowds at Coshocton, police took Thompson to Zanesville for safekeeping.

COURTESY — EFFICIENT SERVICE — ALWAYS

Pay for Railway Capital

Railway patrons are getting more for their money nowadays. Railway service is better than it ever was before, and railway rates, by any fair standard of comparison, are far from high. It is true that rates amount to more in dollars and cents than they did ten or twelve years ago, but they have increased considerably less than the cost of living.

Here is an improved condition of undoubted benefit to those who use the railroads. The reason for it is the increased efficiency of the combination of men and money, of labor and capital, which produces railway service. More and better machinery is operated by skillful employes in more effective ways.

With approximately the same number of employes in 1925 as in 1913 and with shorter working hours, the railroads in 1925 performed nearly 40 per cent more freight and nearly 6 per cent more passenger transportation service than in 1913. One reason for the increased production of transportation per employe was the increased skill of the individual employe; another reason was the 45 per cent increase in the railway investment in the same period. Railway employes in 1925 had more and better tools of all kinds with which to work than they had in 1913.

The increased productiveness of railway employes has properly been rewarded by increases in wages exceeding the increase in the cost of living. The increased productiveness of the railway investment, however, has not been commensurately rewarded. The total amount set aside by the railroads in 1925 for interest and dividends—the wages of railway capital—was only 18 per cent greater than in 1913. To maintain their 1913 level in 1925, even with no allowance for the increase in the cost of living, the wages of railway capital should have increased 45 per cent, in accordance with the increased investment of the railroads.

Capital can no more be coerced into continued employment without adequate reward than labor can. Therefore, it is important to keep the wages of railway capital on a basis favorably comparable with the wages earned by capital in other lines of investment. The hope of railway expansion to meet the greater needs of the future lies in the ability of the railroads to attract a ready flow of capital, just as the future of railway employment lies in the ability of the railroads to pay favorable wages and to provide good working conditions for their employes.

In the final analysis, fair wages and working conditions must be provided for both capital and labor. There is no way to separate their interests and still produce railway transportation.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

M'PHERSON INQUIRY IS DISCONTINUED

Expense Too Great to Prosecute Anyone for Perjury, Says District Attorney.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 2.—Inquiry into the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnaping has been discontinued again by District Attorney Asa Keyes, because he declares "it would cost the county thousands of dollars to convict any one of perjury." He also considers new evidence obtained at Carmel, an ocean resort too vague to be of value.

The Angelus Temple evangelist declared she hoped soon to be able to produce conclusive evidence to substantiate her kidnaping story. In a sermon last night Mrs. McPherson recounted experiences from the time she disappeared from Ocean Park Beach, May 18, to appear in Agua Prieta, Mexico., June 23.

Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan who conducted the Carmel investigation, said he found evidence that Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator for Mrs. McPherson and a woman resembling the Carmel evangelist were their during part of the time the evangelist was missing.

Radio Man Names a "Miss X"; Clears Mrs. McPherson.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—"Miss X," who K. G. Ormiston, radio operator, says made a trip through California with him, may yet disclose her identity to prevent harm befalling Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, it was stated in a deposition by Ormiston, formerly employed at the Angelus Temple by Mrs. McPherson, made public today.

Ormiston's deposition exonerated Mrs. McPherson for any connection with his movements following her recent disappearance. Refusing to identify his companion other than "Miss X," a nurse, the radio operator said that he had sufficient confidence in her "to state that I am of the opinion that before any harm should befall Mrs. McPherson, who is entirely innocent of the matter and yet utterly unable to defend herself, Miss X' will make an affidavit supporting mine."

The deposition was disclosed by Edward H. S. Martin, attorney, who said copies had been sent by airmail to District Attorney Asa Keyes at Los Angeles.

Went to Bungalow at Carmel.

Ormiston said that, using the name George McIntire, he arranged May 14 for a three months' rental of a bungalow at Carmel, owned and occupied by a Mr. and Mrs. Benedict. He left San Francisco May 19, he said, in an automobile, accompanied by "Miss X" and arrived at Carmel about 5 o'clock in the morning. Driving into Salinas the next day, he paid a fine for speeding, and, having read of the supposed drowning at Ocean Park of Mrs. McPherson, he telephoned to her mother, Mrs. Kennedy, to express sympathy and inquire whether the body had been found.

His name having been mentioned in connection with the evangelist's disappearance, Ormiston and Miss X left Carmel, stopping the first day at San Luis Obispo, where they registered as Frank Gibson and wife. Just outside Santa Barbara they were stopped by a man who said he was a reporter and had been informed that Ormiston and Mrs. McPherson were on their way to Santa Barbara. The reporter said he knew Mrs. McPherson personally, however, and he could see Miss X was not she.

Left Miss X and Went to Oakland.

After leaving Miss X at a destination she requested, the deposition said Ormiston returned to Oakland, where he stayed until June 5.

"No doctor or nurse visited the Carmel bungalow during my occupancy," Ormiston said. "Miss X went swimming daily and we attended either Carmel or Salinas movies almost nightly.

"Miss X resembles Mrs. McPherson in that she is of the same general build and has brown hair. The reported 'goggles' were in reality a pair of Krux horn-rimmed glasses which were purchased at Monterey. The two aprons found in the bungalow were bought by me at Salinas. She otherwise was well equipped.

"To the best of my knowledge I opened all tin cans and the highly prized finger prints are therefore probably mine."

Ormiston said he introduced Miss X to Mr. and Mrs. Benedict as Mrs. McIntire and at that time there was a standing reward of $25,000 for the safe return of Mrs. McPherson, with pictures of her in all the papers. She was also seen by a garage man at Salinas, the reporter and others, all of whom could not have been uninformed of the case or have failed to see her pictures.

American Prisoner of Chinese.

By the Associated Press.

WOBURN, Mass., Aug. 2.—The Rev. J.

126 DEAD IN STORM ON BAHAMA ISLANDS

400 Missing, 100 Vessels Sunk and Property Loss $8,000,000.

By Wireless to the Associated Press.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 2.—The known death toll of the hurricane last week has been placed unofficially at 126. Four hundred persons are reported missing, a hundred boats sunk and property damage is estimated at $8,000,000.

The sponge fleet did not suffer so great a loss as was at first feared, as only 80 of its 400 boats had gone to the sponge banks when the hurricane struck the islands. All of the 80 vessels are believed to have been lost, with the 350 members of their crews. Of the hundred or more boats lost or unaccounted for, 60 were in Nassau harbor in the storm.

As vessels are made available here they are dispatched to outlying islands with such supplies as can be gathered in an effort to minister to those left homeless by the storm.

Thirty-five persons, half the population, of the town of Adelaide in East New Providence, escaped death by taking refuge in the village church. The islands of Exumu and Eleuthera radioed they suffered heavy losses, but gave no details. Shipping men reported here, however, that 200 persons were homeless on the islands. Twenty-seven refugees arrived here today from Exumu.

Reports were received that the schooner Brontes, bound from Nassau to San Salvador with 22 men, had gone down with all aboard. The Celeste with 12 persons, the Columbia with 15, the Graceful with 8, the Sydney with 6, the Sarah Jane with 6, also are reported lost.

The schooner Raven with five persons aboard dragged her anchor in Nassau harbor and has not been seen since. The schooner Frances E. also was swept out of the harbor, but later was found high and dry on the beach with no one aboard. The schooners Iona, Forward and Venturia were lost, but 12 persons aboard them were rescued.

Fourteen women, seven children and six members of the crew of an unidentified schooner are reported to have been drowned when their boat sank at Exumu Island. An unidentified craft is also reported to have sunk with 22 persons aboard at Cat Island.

SENTENCE OF 17 YEARS FOR SEVEN FILIPINOS SUSTAINED

They Were Convicted of Cutting Off Ears of Teacher Who Opposed President of Senate.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Aug. 2.—The Insular Supreme Court sustained today a lower court decision sentencing David Mutua, Pedro Zauiat and five other Filipinos to 17 years each in prison for having cut off the ears of Popio Montenegro because he expressed himself as opposed to Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate.

The defendants kidnaped Montenegro, a teacher in a high school in Tayabas province, carried him away in an automobile, tied him to a tree, beat him with straps and finally cut off his ears. At the same time, Quezon declared the accused should be punished and expressed sympathy for the teacher.

Keep Your Strength Increase in Vitality In the Hot Weather

Give McCoy's a Chance to Keep You Feeling Fit and Fine in Summertime.

Tens of thousands of busy men and women grow weak and tired and show fatigue in hot weather.

And all because they lack the right kind of vitamin to create strength, produce vigor and revitalize the entire system.

Nowadays, people who keep abreast of the times, are turning to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets because they are so easy to take and do furnish the blood, nerves and glands with such a superb combination of health builders that keeping in fine physical shape this summer is just a matter of asking your druggist for McCoy's and taking two tablets after meals and two at bedtime.

You can get 60 tablets for 60 cents and as they are prime favorites with skinny, underweight men and women who want to fill out the hollows in cheeks and necks and acquire a figure of grace and symmetrical proportions, Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores and druggists everywhere are carrying a larger supply this summer than ever before.

As a matter of record we want to say to all thin underweight men and women who need more flesh to have a perfect form that if these flesh-producing tablets do not cause you to gain in weight at least 5 pounds in 30 days the druggist from whom you bought them is authorized to return the purchase price.

Ask for McCoy's, and don't forget that sunshine and McCoy's are a great combination to build up weak, frail children, and especially where there are any signs of rickets.

Internal Harmony

A statistical report issued recently by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), reveals a remarkable accord between management and employes of the Company. It shows complete agreement in 90% of the matters considered by the Joint General Committees, under the Industrial Relations Plan since its adoption in 1919.

It is noteworthy that in the few cases of disagreement, the differences were not over such vital subjects as wages, hours and working conditions, but related to subjects of minor importance.

This report is conclusive evidence of the internal harmony which manifests itself in many ways.

A feeling of good fellowship prevails among the employes and between the employes and the management.

Wherever a group of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employes are working—at an oil well—in the laboratory—refinery—or service station—an atmosphere of good-will and friendliness is apparent.

This internal harmony is reflected in the attitude of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employes toward the people they serve. The harmony prevailing within, is radiated without the organization. The consuming public receives the benefit in friendly, cheerful, competent service.

The comradeship that exists throughout the entire organization of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been definitely strengthened by such measures as the Industrial Relations and Stock Purchasing Plans.

The human, personal character of the organization is the inspiration back of the various measures which promote internal harmony.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) always has believed that mere magnitude of numbers does not alter the human characteristics and relationships of a group.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) works on the theory that a working force of 29,000 men and women should be bound together by the common ties of sympathy and friendship which unite a small family group. The size of the group heightens, rather than minimizes, the importance of the individual.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a huge organization, whose success depends upon the earnest effort of each of the 29,000 individuals who constitute the whole.

Through this harmonious and co-operative working of the organization as a whole, the management is achieving the goal set for the Company, i.e., to render such a broad and comprehensive service as to merit the respect and esteem of the thirty million people of the Middle West.

INDUSTRIAL BRITAIN POISONED BY A FEUD, ECONOMIST'S EDITOR SAYS

Breaking Down Barriers of Clan One Suggestion by W. T. Layton for Curing Labor's Ills.

THIS is another of a series of articles on the financial problems of Britain and Continental Europe.

By EDWARD PRICE BELL.
Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
(Copyright, 1926.)

LONDON, England, July 8.—Beneath a shelter of deep foliage, at the far end of a garden sloping downward from a two-story brick house, in Wimbledon Park, I found a fair-haired, blue-eyed, clean-shaven, keen-faced, medium-sized man in shirt sleeves, working with a mass of papers. His youthful appearance—I guessed him to be about 35—seemed hard to rightangle with one of the most noted names in contemporaneous British economic thought.

Walter T. Layton, editor of the Economist, first in its class, and director of the economic and financial section of the League of Nations, invited me to a seat on a rustic bench. For some hours we discussed Great Britain's agricultural, manufacturing, commercial and financial conditions and problems.

Layton, in his own phrase, is "not among those, if there be such, who have given way to pessimism." Yet he realizes that Great Britain's position, psychological as well as economic and financial, hardly could call for more wisdom, ability, energy, sympathy, fortitude, than it does. Layton sees clearly that Great Britain, with her problems solved and her industrial peace secure, will be a very different country, mentally and materially, from what she is today.

First of all the nation's problems, as this expert views the situation, is its psychological problem. British citizens, masters and men alike, are in a wrong frame of mind. This frame of mind is one with their deepest emotions. There is mutual suspicion. There is mutual antipathy. Each of the opponents, so far as events yet have progressed, is far too much inclined to pass the sponge over old grudges and start with a clean slate.

"Poisoned by a Feud."

"We are poisoned and made relatively incapable by a feud." In words to this effect Layton describes the well-head of the trouble. Britain's captains of industry are capable. By inheritance and by acquisition their experience is diversified and enormous. Nobody knows world trade problems better, probably no others know these problems so well. British labor forces command almost illimitable reserves of strength and art for high-grade manufacture. But these mutually essential economic teams are doing what they can to stall the British load by refusing to pull together.

"Somehow, soon or late, we must correct this. There is no other salvation for our industry." Not all British industries are plagued by strife between capital and labor. Many are peaceful and prosperous, their prosperity menaced only by quarreling and stagnation in complemental industries. There are restrictive practices in the building unions, for example, while in such trades as those of iron and steel there are payments by results, no bickering and, with one exception, no strike for 50 years.

Menace of Class Consciousness.

Social reform is demanded and comnig. Class stratification must be broken. Imprison a worker in a class and you make him class conscious and class militant. His natural feeling is that he will go up or down, not as he himself casts off restrictions and forges to higher levels of work and life, but as his class goes up or down. Thus do social preoccupations defeat individualism, and by defeating individualism, defeat social and economic progress.

Layton is all for the American idea of striking the chains from the limbs of labor, for abolishing restrictions, for freeing men's minds, for administering universally the incomparable tonic of opportunity. Consider, he suggests, some of the splendidly able labor leaders in Great Britain, men of strong character, stable, broad-minded, nationally loyal. Labor leaders here once, labor leaders always. What would have happened to them in America? Layton fancies them, in that world of social freedom, rising to great positions in politics, business and the professions.

Deep-rooted British prejudices must go, says Layton. He warmly hails every hammer-blow at these prejudices, as in his foreword to that red-letter book on American industry, "The Secret of High Wages," by two young English engineers. Bertram Austin and Francis Lloyd. These clear-headed, unbiased, forcible writers have dropped a big stone into over-placid waters, and wide are the concentric circles it has produced.

Rich and Unhappy.

America, in respect of economic assets, is rich. "Truly the Dives of the modern world!" But Britain also has economic assets. Her empire produces 60 per cent of the world's wool and rubber, 70 per cent of its tea and gold, 89 per cent of its nickel and 99 per cent of its jute, to mention a few only of its products; while Great Britain alone, with but 3 per cent of the world's population, owns more than 30 per cent of its ships and 40 per cent of its cotton spindles.

Measure these resources and then estimate what the nation's "psychological problem" is costing it—a lesson, surely, for all humanity! Even with the conditions of this problem doing their evil work, in varying degrees, ever since the war, Great Britain's productivity in 1925 rose to virtually the figure of the highest prewar year. But the "psychological problem" of 1926 is indefinitely aggravated, with the outlook obscure, while there are nearly 8 per cent more people in the country to feed. This additional 8 per cent of population just about equals the abnormal unemployment.

Britain's debt to America Layton does not regard as doing more than adding a nondecisive weight to the nation's burden. This debt represents only 10 per cent of the national interest charge. If it were removed the effect would be distinctly appreciable, but not at all wholly remedial. That America, with her gigantic turnover, can absorb the British payments without serious economic or financial results to herself seems to Dr. Layton unquestionable. He deems the debt far more important politically than economically.

28 PERSONS ILL IN CHICAGO FROM EATING TAINTED FOOD

20 Suffer After Partaking of Cake at Wedding Celebration; 6 Children Poisoned.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Twenty-eight persons were ill here today as the result of eating tainted food. Twenty were poisoned supposedly after eating a cake at a wedding celebration. Eight others, two women and six children, were poisoned when their curiosity tempted them to taste a curious bean found in the basement of their home. Physicians said all would recover.

The wedding celebration was in the home of Tony Manrillo. Among those stricken were Manrillo, his wife and their five children. The party was in honor of Amico Manrillo and his bride of a week, both of whom were victims.

In the other case, the six children, playing in a basement, found a jar containing large seeds resembling beans. They ate some and then took the remainder to their mothers.

This New Washer does two things at once

Like human hands, the Easy's three Vacuum Cups move up and down, flushing air, soap and water through the clothes and back again. This happens sixty times a minute—without wear on the clothes, but everlastingly taking the dirt out of them.

Washes while it Dries

TWO TUBS—the large tub washes; the small tub dries

NOW for the first time you can get a washing machine that will wash one batch of clothes and dry another the same time—without a wringer.

The new Easy Washer has two tubs—one washing, the other for drying. Each tub ds as many clothes as are equal to eight ble sheets. While the large tub is wash- one batch, the small tub dries another, d as a result of this unique double-capacity ine, washing time is cut in half.

No wrinkles—no broken buttons ons come from the Easy's new dryer rinkled. Buttons simply can't come off. re's no friction or strain on the clothes. you must wash on a cold or rainy day, you run the Easy's dryer a little longer and t ironing without hanging out the clothes.

Nor are these all the remarkable things this washer does. It makes its own soapsuds in forty seconds. It handles all the water for you without wasting a drop. It recovers the soapsuds from the clothes and returns them to the washtub. It sends the rinse and the blue waters back from the dryer to the rinse and bluing tubs. It even empties itself into the sink when you're all through washing.

Gentle and thorough

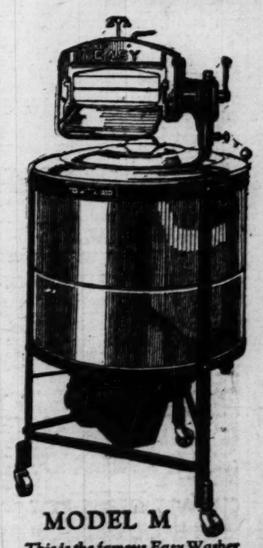
The new Easy will thoroughly clean heavy things like blankets and bath mats; yet it also washes and dries fine, dainty pieces as gently as your own hands.

The new Easy is so simple and easy to operate. All you have to do is press a button and move a lever. Both tubs of the new Easy are made of solid copper, and coated with shiny nickel on the inside. A swish of a cloth keeps the smooth surface clean and sanitary. The new Easy is made of the same fine materials and with the same careful workmanship as a fine automobile.

FREE—A Week's Washing

We have arranged for the new Easy to do your week's washing free. Without the slightest cost or obligation you can learn all about the amazing new washday ease the Easy gives women. Just call up any Easy dealer or write us if you do not know the address of one. The new Easy and a demonstrator will be at your home on your washday.

You can't have any idea of how wonderful the new Easy really is until you see it in action in your own home. And if you wish to keep the Easy you can leave a small deposit and pay the balance monthly.



MODEL M

This is the famous Easy Washer with one-piece metal wringer. With hundreds of thousands of these washers in use today, their tremendous popularity has created a permanent demand for them. We shall therefore continue to make this model, with the same fine workmanship and materials.

Only the new Easy Washer does all these things

See how it washes, rinses, and dries all at the same time . . . Dries for line or immediate ironing without wringer . . . Handles all the water . . . No water to lift or carry; not a drop wasted . . . Makes its own suds in forty seconds . . . See how new water-circulating system returns all soapsuds to wash-tub . . . Returns rinse and blue waters from dryer to rinse and bluing tubs . . . When through washing, empties itself into drain or sink . . . See it do a complete washing faster than any other washer . . . Washes more thoroughly and gently than human hands . . . Dries clothes without wrinkles . . . Saves ironing time . . . Safeguards buttons . . . Special gas heater keeps the water hot . . . KAPLAN-CELLO BOUT TOMORROW NIGHT IS THIS WEEK'S FEATURE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The chief item on the local boxing calendar this week is Louis (Kid) Kaplan's entrance into the lightweight division tomorrow night at the Queensboro Stadium against Tommy Cello, the Coast boxer. The Meriden (Conn.) youth, who recently abdicated the championship in the featherweight class because of difficulty in making the weight requirements, has found the training in the 135-pound rank much to his liking, as he will be able to fight at his natural weight.

Ace Hudkins, Lincoln (Neb.) lightweight, clashes with Stanislaus Loayza, Chile, in 12 rounds at the Coney Island Stadium Friday night.

Roscoe Hall of Nebraska meets Billy White of Jersey City in 12 rounds on the same card.

Pal Moran, New Orleans lightweight, will be pitted against Bobby Burns in 10 rounds at the Dexter Park arena tonight.

ST. PAUL MANAGER AND THREE PLAYERS HANDED SUSPENSIONS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Manager Nick Allen of the St. Paul American Association club and three players, Catcher Hoffman and Pitchers Farquahar and Kolp, went under indefinite suspension yesterday as a result of their part in trouble with Umpire Kuhn at Toledo Saturday.

President Hickey of the league will direct the investigation into the case from his Chicago office. Umpire Kuhn's full report of the affair will be available for Hickey today.

CHICAGO OPENS NEW PUBLIC GOLF COURSE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Breezy Point golf course, newest addition to Chicago's vast collection of golf clubs, lies at the west end of Lake Zurich on the Rand road and offers itself to wielders of the mashie who do not desire to stand in line at crowded city courses. The new pay course, now a year old, is one hour's ride from Chicago and is described as one of the most beautiful courses in the vicinity of the city. Nine holes have been completed and are in excellent condition, with perfect greens and rapidly improving fairways.

2 Stars Added to Davis Cup Squad

White and Chapin to Play Tryout Matches in East, Aug. 9.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The list of candidates for the 1926 American Davis cup team has been increased to 10 with the addition of Alfred H. Chapin Jr., of Springfield, Mass., and Lewis N. White of Austin, Tex.

Chapin and White both have performed sensationally in early season tournaments, the Springfield player registering a victory over William T. Tilden. They will report with the rest of the Davis cup squad at Forest Hills, Long Island, Aug. 9, for trial matches under the direction of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

This squad is dominated by the "big four"—Tilden, William M. Johnston, Vincent Richards and R. Norris Williams, the latter also serving as captain—but a spirited fight for recognition is promised among the remaining candidates. Besides Chapin and White, they include Cranston Holman of Leland Stanford, Ed Chandler of the University of California, the intercollegiate champion of 1925 and 1926, Wray Brown of St. Louis, and George M. Ott Jr. of Chicago.

Since the burden of Davis cup defense undoubtedly will be placed on the shoulders of the veterans, their part in the trials will consist chiefly of tests to determine the order of singles entry and the making up of the doubles team. The six younger candidates will participate in a Round Robin singles tournament besides probably pairing with veterans in several doubles tests.

The Davis cup trials will be followed by the annual East-West matches at Forest Hills, Aug. 13-14.

TWO AMERICANS TO COMPETE IN BRITISH BOYS' GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Two American boys have entered for the boys' golf championship to be competed for at Coombe Hill, Surrey, during the week beginning Aug. 23. They are Charles Sweeney and Robert Sweeney of the Canterbury School, New Milford, Conn. They are also members of the Le Touquet Club, France.

This is the first time that American boys have challenged directly for the British boys' title, though Lyman Wright, an American studying in England, has twice made unsuccessful attempts to win the championship.

Madden to Retire From Race Game

Will Sell His Horses and Breeding Farm Early Next October.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 2.—John E. Madden announced yesterday his retirement from the breeding of thoroughbred horses. He will sell his breeding stock and 1000 acres of his vast Hamburg place on Nov. 8 and 9.

The Hamburg stallions, Playfellow, brother of Man O' War, Runnymede, sire of Morvich, and Star Master, will be offered as well as his brood mares and 35 foals of 1926. Sir Martin, only American horse ever started a favorite in the Epsom Derby, which was leading the field when he stumbled and fell at Tattenham Corner, will not be sold.

After the sale of horses, 1000 acres of the 2500-acre Hamburg place will be offered. Madden and Hamburg place long have been noted in the turf world, and for the last nine years Madden had been the leading American breeder, horses bred by him having won over 3081 races, a record unequaled anywhere, it was said today.

Among the horses he bred are five Kentucky Derby winners, Old Rosebud, Sir Barton, Paul Jones and Flying Ebony.

Many of the mares to be sold are by Imp Star Shoot, leading American sire. Daughters of this great sire are producing stake winning sons and daughters regularly. Crusader, great 3-year-old, is out of a mare by Star Snoot.

Boot to Boot Is Leading Money Winner of Year

Bradley Star Has Taken $111,095 in Purses—Idle Hour Stable Tops List.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Boot to Boot's triumph in the American Derby makes the gallant little Idle Hour campaigner the leading money-winning American thoroughbred of the year.

The $89,000 to the winner of the richest race in the history of the American turf, by a sweeping finish at Washington Park Saturday, puts the colt's earnings since January at $111,095.

Carlaris, W. T. Anderson's winner of the Coffroth, ranks second, with $100,175, and Samuel Riddle's Crusader is third with $98,500.

In winning the fifth Derby of the year for Col. E. R. Bradley, Boot to Boot has brought the Kentucky turfman further distinction as the owner of the year's leading money-winning stable. Purse moneys poured into the Bradley coffers since January total $251,577, ahead of Harry Payne Whitney's earnings by more than $60,000.

$10,000 for Jockey.

Understood to have been given Bradley's check for $10,000 after he piloted Bubbling Over to victory in the Kentucky Derby, it is said Jockey Albert Johnson will find a similar check waiting at Saratoga, for his superb ride of Boot to Boot.

It was Boot to Boot's twelfth start of the year, and never once has he been out of the money.

Illinois Jockey Club officials, who said there were nearly 38,000 paid admissions for the Derby, announced that the race, once a classic of the American turf, would have its nineteenth revival next year. Boot to Boot's victory was in the first running of the event since 1904.

By Herman Wecke.

[T]railing in the 1926 pennant [race] by 16 games with less than [one-]third of the campaign remaining, Clark Griffith and "Bucky" [Ha]rris have given up the chase. [The]y are looking forward to 1927. [It] seems to be the one idea of [the] Washington management. Let [it] go as a bad year and build up [for] the next.

[Afte]r winning two American [Lea]gue flags in a row, Griff and [Ha]rris figured that the veterans [cou]ld stand up for another year. [In f]act, the Senators took Joe Bush [fro]m the Browns, figuring he [wou]ld prove an ace. But the veterans "flopped." And with it went [the] Senators' chances for a third [succ]essive flag.

[W]alter Johnson is just above the [.500] mark. But this 38-year-old [vete]ran is a Washington institution [and] probably will be retained as [long] as he cares to remain with [Griff] and Harris. Nevertheless, [the] fact remains that Johnson has [not] come up to what the Old Fox [expe]cted of him.

[O]nly Ruether Standing Up.

[T]hen there is Coveleskie. The [vete]ran spitball pitcher, 36 years [old], after two brilliant campaigns [with] the Senators, is fading. He's [unde]r the .500 mark. Joe Bush [did] so poorly that he was sent [to t]he Pirates via the waiver route. [...] Dutch Ruether, 33 years of [age], has held up his end. The left [hand]er is one of the leaders with [a ...]-4 record.

[No]w, it is different. Griff and [Har]ris no longer are looking to the [vete]rans. They are getting together a band of young players. Two [new]comers have already been [brough]t up. They are Alvin Crowder and George Murray, pitchers. [More] are to come.

"[W]e'll have a young team in [1927,] one that compares favorably [with] any in the American League," [is the] way the Senator officials put [it].

[The]re is, for instance, the infield. Judge is the veteran. He's 32, [but] he is still quite a first sacker. [Mana]ger Bucky Harris has just [passe]d the 30 mark. Oswald [Bluege], who in 1925 was named as [third] baseman on Babe Ruth's All-[Ame]rica team, is 24. Buddy Myer [is t]he "Baby." He's just 22 and [is play]ing his first full campaign in [the] big tent. Buddy started the [season] only so-so. He did not take [his] baseball seriously. But things [hav]e changed and of late Myer [has] climbed over .300 in hitting [and] has been moved to the clean-[up] position. Which indicates that [Har]ris has a young infield to start [1927].

[Th]e Veteran in the Outfield.

[...] to the outfield. Sam Rice is [...] but Sam is still a speedster and [...] a hitter. Goose Goslin, re[cent]ly set down for indifferent [play]ing has set a fast pace and is [hittin]g better than ever since being [shifte]d to center. He's but 26. Earl [McNe]ely, regular in left field, is [...]. More young talent is to come. [Rig]ht now the Senators have but [two] catchers, Harold Ruel, 30, and [Benn]ett Tate, 25. But Griffith is [look]ing for another mask and pad [man]. The receiving staff is not [...] balanced with old age.

[Acc]ording to Washington critics [...] with the team, Coveleskie has [...] run his string, while they [...]ly expect Ruether to be used [in a] trade of some kind. That [mar]ks off two of the veteran [pitc]hers, as Johnson is regarded as [cert]ain to remain if he cares to. [To] replace the veterans, Harris [has] Marberry, champion relief [pitch]er of the A. L., who is 27, [Crow]der and Murray to start. The [Senat]ors also have a young man [name]d Hadley, who is burning up [the] Southern Association, having [lost] but two clashes this season.

[Hou]se Cleaning Has Started.

[In] addition to Bush, veterans [who] have been given the slip by [Griff]ith already are two other for-

Western Rowing Club took of five events and won the regatta of the Municipal Ro Association yesterday on Coeur Lake, scoring 88 points 48 for the Century Boat Club, nearest competitor.

Capt. August Muckler and brother, F. Muckler, played prominent part in the Western tory. The captain won the one single scull race, took the one double scull even, paired with brother, and was in the bow the winning crews in the six- barge and four-oared shell ra Rough weather hampered smoothness of the program great improvement was shown the handling of the regatta by officials, who got the last started at 5:47 o'clock.

Points scored were: Western Century 48, St. Louis 30, Ce 5 and Baden 4.

addition to Bush, veterans have been given the slip by already are two other former Browns, Hank Severeid and Johnny Tobin. And its certain Roger Peckinpaugh will not be back. Waivers were asked on the player recently, only to be recalled when three clubs claimed him.

Thus it can readily be seen that Griff and Harris were not slow to see their error of sticking to veterans after they had indicated they could no longer win.

Wingard vs. Ruether.

For the third clash of the series with the Browns Harris will likely nominate Ruether to do the twirling. Ernie Wingard is due for the Browns.

Yesterday the Browns broke a losing streak of six with a three-run rally in the eighth. Wallie Schang, pinch-hitting for Ballou, tied the score with a home run and then Williams drove in Rice with the deciding tally. The score was 8-7.

Bucky Harris had a lot of time for thought after that game. He probably loocked back to Myer's fumble of Harry Rice's roller in the third and then the shortstop's failure to cover second quickly enough with a double play in front of him on the very next play. And then there was his own error in the eighth, which would have retired Sisler and the side with the score tied. It was following this boot that Williams clicked his base hit.

Frozen to the Bench?

In spite of the victory, there's something wrong with the Browns. The first three batters hit Tom Zachary for safeties, yet no other pitcher started to warm up. Then Goslin's single drove in a run and still no one moved. Followed Judge's four-bagger and still no action from the "bull pen" brigade. When Myer fouled off one, Ballou started to warm up, only to quit when Myer rolled out to end the round.

Quite different with the Senators. Marberry started to warm up when Murray was being hit in the third and he continued it throughout the Senator's fourth turn at plate. Thus he was ready when he stepped in.

John Boulicault Is Winner of State Bike Meet

He and Chester Nelsen Will Represent Missouri in National Event at Philadelphia.

John Boulicault, St. Louis' leading cyclist, easily outclassed the field and won the senior State bicycle championship yesterday at Fairground. Boulicault, with Chester Nelsen always a short distance behind, won the first three races and had amassed enough points to withdraw from the fourth event.

Boulicault and Nelsen won the right to represent Missouri at the national championship at Philadelphia, Sept. 12, 13 and 14.

Lawrence Murphy and Joe Becker, also St. Louisans, won two events each and tied for the State junior championship. Becker won in a run-off of the tie.

The leading point scorers were as follows: Senior, John Boulicault, 15; Chester Nelsen, 9; Olin Bechtel, 7, and Ward Boulicault, 5. Junior, Joe Becker, 16; Lawrence Murphy, 16; E. Wollman, 5, and H. Riddle, 5.

Rules Governing Babe Ruth All-America Team Contest

Any reader who mails to the Post-Dispatch between Aug. 1 and Aug. 31 a team of 10 players (except Ruth himself) in the National and American Leagues for the season of 1926, with a letter of not more than 200 words, explaining the selection of the team, is eligible to compete.

The reader whose team—two pitchers and eight men in the other positions—is the same or nearest Ruth's selection and is accompanied by the best letter giving reasons for the choice, will be declared the winner.

The contest winner must not only select the same 10 players as Ruth, but must assign them to the same 10 positions on the team.

Players may be placed in positions other than their regular places provided they have played in those places in at least one regular league game in 1926.

Players must be selected on the basis of their playing in 1926, NOT on records made in previous seasons.

In case no team is exactly the same as that selected by Babe Ruth, the one nearest will be named on the merit of his accompanying explanation.

Violation of any rule set forth here will render selections unavailable.

There will be suitable trophies, to be announced later, awarded the winner, runner-up and third best selection and letter.

In addition, Babe Ruth himself offers an autographed bat to the winner of the first prize. The bat will also be inscribed with the winner's name.

First Entry Submitted in the Babe Ruth Contest Is Void; Violates 200-Word Limit Rule

Frank Naggi, 4441 Forest Park Boulevard, Enters Powerful Team but Disregards Regulation and Selection Is Thrown Out; Picks Tony Lazzeri for Second Base.

Contestants who expect to win trophies in the Post-Dispatch's Babe Ruth All-America team contest, which opened yesterday, will benefit by a close examination of the few rules set forth above.

It is the particular misfortune of the first contestant submitting a selection to have violated the regulation setting the maximum length of explanations at 200 words. His selection will therefore be thrown out as unavailable.

May Submit Team Again.

The contestant, Frank Naggi, 4441 Forest Park boulevard, is at liberty to resubmit his choice with an explanation of the proper length, but no further warnings in this regard will be given to individual contestants.

Mr. Naggi's team is as follows:

Burns Cleveland, first base.
Lazzeri, Yankees, second base.
Thevenow, Cardinals, shortstop.
Bell, Cardinals, third base.
Wilson, Cubs, center field.
Waner, Pirates, right field.
Hargrave, Reds, catcher.
Pennock, Yankees, pitcher.
Root, Cubs, pitcher.

Mr. Naggi's team is a powerful nine, dangerous enough to put any pitcher on his mettle. Burns, Lazzeri, Bell, Fothergill, Wilson, Waner and Hargrave are a real Murderers' Row.

Not for Batting Alone.

Prospective contestants are warned, however, that players are not to be selected for batting alone. The team must stack up well defensively as well as offensively.

First and second bases offer interesting possibilities in the way of selections. First, there is the question of Hornsby, the only man in the major league who has made Ruth's team for four consecutive seasons. Will Horpsby make it five straight?

The selection printed today gives no for an answer and substitutes young Lazzeri. Hornsby's batting slump and his physical handicaps were too much for this contestant. Who, if anybody, will take Hornsby's place? Eddie Collins will come in for his share of consideration, but he has not had an especially brilliant year and this year's work is all that counts. The fans will have a chance to show how closely they have followed the game in making the second base choice.

First base is another question mark. Bottomley drew the assignment last year, Joe Judge in 1924, Blue in 1923 and Sisler in 1922. George Burns of Cleveland is one of the leading candidates for the job.

Another Selection.

Here is the selection of Frank Pawloski, 1932 North Ninth street:

Bottomley, Cardinals, first base.
Frisch, Giants, second base.
Thevenow, Cardinals, shortstop.
Dugan, Yankees, third base.
Cuyler, Pirates, left field.
Carey, Pirates, center field.
Waner, Pirates, right field.
Cochrane, Athletics, catcher.
Rhem, Cardinals, pitcher.
Grove, Athletics, pitcher.

Mlle. Lenglen Will Not Visit U. S. This Year

Suzanne Wants to Retain Her Amateur Standing—Will Go to Switzerland.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Suzanne Lenglen will not visit the United States this year. Although no official announcement has been made, it is authoritatively stated that the French tennis star has declined the offer for a tour of the United States, made to her by Charles Pyle, American sports promoter.

It is understood that Pyle failed to convince Suzanne that she could proceed to the United States and retain her amateur standing.

The champion's health is still below normal and she will soon go to Saint Moritz, Switzerland, to spend August. She may resume there her tennis practice, but she has not played since she was forced to withdraw from the Wimbledon tournament by an attack of neuritis.

Roland Locke Ties World Record for Circling the Bases

By the Associated Press.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Aug. 2. ROLAND LOCKE, former University of Nebraska track star, now playing with a Sioux City baseball club, yesterday equalled the world's record for circling the bases by doing the 120 yards in 13 2-5s. The mark was set several years ago by Maurice Archdeacon, then with the Chicago White Sox.

Locke rounded first in 3 1-5s, second in 7 flat, third in 10 1-5 and came home in 13 2-5.

St. Louis Net Stars Busy in Tourney Play

National Junior and Boys' Event at Chicago Heads List —Six to Compete.

By Davison Obear.

There will be plenty of tournament competition for local tennis players during the month of August, according to the events scheduled by the several associations and some of the clubs in the St. Louis district. The list includes four municipal championships, one county tournament and another event for members of a large club.

In addition to the local tournaments a number of St. Louis tennis stars will be participating in events in other cities. This week the attraction is the Western Junior championship at Culver, Ind. The local stars in that tournament are Joe Smith, district junior champion, Charles Sigoloff, holder of the junior doubles with Smith, William Bascon, Vernon Tietjen and Junior Boehmer, other high-ranking youths.

Next week Richard Rosebrough and Proctor Wright of the Kirkwood Country Club may enter the annual Nebraska State event at Omaha. St. Louis will also be represented in the Intersectional championships at Chicago commencing Aug. 18. Wray Brown and Harris Coggeshall, the Des Moines star, will probably compete.

The national junior championships at Chicago next week will be the attraction for at least six St. Louis juniors and boys. In addition to the junior champions, Smith and Sigoloff, the boy champion; Junior Boehmer, will also participate. William Bascom, 1925 boy champion, Vernon Tietjen, Clark Smith and Sol Pollock are also expected to play in the national events.

A list of local events this month and the date of each is as follows:

Aug. 7—St. Louis County championship, men's singles and doubles, Kirkwood County Club.

Aug. 14—Municipal Junior, boys' and girls' championships, Forest Park.

Aug. 21—Triple A Club championships, men's singles and doubles.

Aug. 28—Municipal championships for women, Forest Park.

County Title at Stake.

The thirteenth annual St. Louis County championship already has a splendid entry. Play will begin Saturday afternoon on the six courts of the Kirkwood Country Club. First round singles matches are scheduled to start then. The doubles event will probably start the following day.

Forrest Stuckman, Triple A player, is expected to defend his title in the singles event. There will be new champions in the men's doubles as the present titleholders, Herbert Bryant and Walter Finger, are not paired for this year's championship.

Among the players who will participate in the singles are the following: Richard Rosebrough and Herbert Bryan, former champions; J. B. Greene, Adam Walth, Ray Falzone, Paul Dieckman, Burton Phillips, W. C. Havenor, George Finger, Sidney Smith, Frank McClelland, Jack Gale, George Cameron, L. R. Smith, Lambert Lynn, A. B. Lynn, H. C. McCoy, Ned Harford, Carrington Cabell, Proctor Wright, Carl Harford, Lawrence Miller, H. C. Rhodes, William Cooper, E. Pierce, William Payne, Hunt Albert, Clifford Beutel, W. D. Dalrymple, Richard Dietrich, Claude Martin and R. Deacon.

MICHEL IS VICTOR IN SEINE RIVER SWIM

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 2. — Two of the many aspirants for the honor of swimming across the English Channel fared rather poorly in the annual marathon swim down the Seine River from Corbiele to Paris yesterday.

Mme. Jane Sion, French mermaid, and Omer Perrault, Canada's entry, finished fourth and third, respectively.

Georges Michel, French swimmer, won the race. He swam the 26 miles, assisted by a strong current, in 2h 20m. There were only nine starters.

RUTH NOW FIVE HOME RUNS BEHIND TOTAL ON SAME DAY IN 1921

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2. — Babe Ruth performed his specialty act for the customers three times during the past week to raise his home run total for the season to 33. On July 31, 1921, the year Ruth set his record of 59 circuit clouts, he had 38 home runs, but did not get his thirty-ninth until Aug. 6, which gives him a week in which to do some climbing. His grand total for his career is 342.

Bottomley of St. Louis, whose homer against the Giants yesterday gave him 15, took the lead in the National League over Hack Wilson of the Cubs, with whom he was tied last week with 14.

The American League youngsters lengthened their lead over the National batsmen in the matter of home runs when they poled out 24 for the week for a total of 303 against 16 for the Nationals, which gave them 267 for the season.

Leading home run hitters:

112 Golf Stars Start Play in Park Tournament

Four St. Louis Municipal Course Representatives Are Entered in Event.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 2.—One hundred and twelve of the best public links golfers of the country teed off today in the qualifying round of the fifth annual national public links tournament championship at Grover Cleveland Park. Fifteen states are represented in the entry list. George Rae of Toronto gives the contest an international aspect.

The revised pairings find William F. Serrick of New York, runnerup in last year's title tilt, pitted against Lester Bolstad of Minneapolis.

Four St. Louis golfers, Clark Morse, Reginald Belleville, Chester O'Brien and Lawrence Schuette, are entered.

Tom Cahill Out Of American Soccer League

Refuses Advisory Job and Demands Secretaryship Which Is Refused.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 2.—T. W. Cahill, founder of the American Soccer League, is out. Cahill refused to accept an offer of a $1500 advisory job and $250 back salary at the annual meeting held at Providence Sunday. He insisted upon being returned to the secretaryship and demanded either that position or $500 back salary and leave to withdraw. He was given back salary and leave.

Bill Cunningham, Boston Post sports writer, takes his place as president of the American League. Dave Scott of Boston is to act as Cunningham's adviser.

Cahill's departure from the organization that he founded and has worked so diligently on behalf of is very regrettable and shows a tendency in the East to monopolize the league. Cahill has long been the main factor in the league, but recent turn of affairs evidently has led moguls to believe they could dispense with his services. Reaction will be eagerly awaited in the East.

The league schedule opens Sept. 11. Teams entered are: Fall River, Boston, Springfield, Mass., New Bedford, Providence, Philadelphia, Bethlehem.

Nothing has been heard from the New York clubs, but it is expected there will be at least two teams (Brooklyn Wanderers and New York Giants) from that place.

Tentative schedule calls for 171 games. The suggestion that clubs number players, after St. Louis style, was approved. The American League teams are to enter the national cup competition this year. First round, March 5 and; 6 second round, March 12 and 13. There was a general discussion on the adoption of suggestion of two referees and goal judges, but nothing definited decided.

Odin 10, Centralia 6.

Far from Ordinary

Smoke a LUCKY STRIKE and you'll appreciate its difference from the ordinary cigarette.

Why?

Of course, LUCKY STRIKES are made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Properly aged. Perfectly blended.

Even if we stopped there, LUCKY STRIKES would be superior cigarettes.

But for three results, we add at great expense an elaborate toasting process which (1) removes all "bite" and harshness and (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals these moisture flavors in, keeping LUCKIES ever fresh.

This added process is the difference between the ordinary and the extra-ordinary. It is the reason millions prefer LUCKY STRIKES.

BECAUSE IT'S TOASTED

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

GRAVOIS ROBINS GET 22 HITS OFF 4 PITCHERS TO BEAT S. W. B. M.

LOSERS STILL LEAD LEAGUE BY 1 1-2 GAMES

Season Closes in Two Weeks, Motorbus Nine at Last on Way to Independent League Pennant, Three Others in Flag Fight.

Indications that the race is not yet over in the South Grand League were in evidence yesterday when the Gravois Robins turned to and trounced the leading Southwest Business Men, 20 to 12, batting four pitchers for a total of 22 hits.

The losers still top the circuit by a game and a half and only two weeks of play remain. The Mrazeks, in second place, kept in the fight by beating the Hoffmeisters, 8 to 3.

The race in the Empire League still retains the flavor of a sporting proposition, too. A double-header gave two games to the leading Lacledes, but the Typos and Bly-Moss also won double bills and are tied for second place, a full game behind the leaders.

Patience seems to be nearing its reward in the Independent League where the Motorbus nine, tail-enders all last year, appears to be on the road to a pennant.

Leading by a full game, the bus drivers beat the Polish Falcons yesterday, 6 to 4, but the Shells, in second place, were also victorious over the Morgans, 11 to 3. The Morgans and the Meletios are tied for third and have a long chance.

HORNSBY'S ANSWERS

Two out, runner on third. Runner gets a big lead and steals home just before the delivery reaches the plate. Batter rolls to second baseman and is thrown out at first. Does the run count?—S. A. A.

No. The rule says that when a runner reaches the plate on or during a play in which the last man is forced out or retired before reaching first base, the run does not count.

Can a batter change from left-handed to right-handed after two strikes have been called?—C. F. H.

Yes, provided he does so when the pitcher is not in position.

Mack Discovers His Team Lacks Fighting Spirit

Drastic Changes Certain to Come—Galloway and Simmons Fall Down.

By John B. Foster.

(Copyright, 1926.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Connie Mack is less disappointed than vexed because of the slump of the Athletics. Last year he was a mourning manager as the Philadelphia team made a whopping fight for part of the time and then slowed up—in fact, fiddled away its glory at the finish.

This year the Athletics did not begin like dare devils or even imitation devils. There were men on the team who did not come up to Connie's expectations from the start, and if they thought they were fooling him they were fooled themselves, because Connie frankly admits that it was a glaring lack of player achievement, combined with a lack of purpose that gave him the sours.

Mack couldn't help himself or the team in the spring, because it was too late to do any helping. Other managers feared they were going to be worse off than he, and they did not want to trade or sell.

Blame Falls on Experienced Men.

The players who failed Mack were some of the old-timers, of whom he expected a great deal after the near-winning year of 1925. Hence, when the 1927 season comes around, it is quite certain there will be changes on the Athletics which may defer the winning of the pennant again, but which will get more fight into the team than it has had this year.

Galloway has been criticised sharply at home and abroad, and maybe there will be another shortstop with the Athletics next year. He has been with the Athletics a long time. Two years ago the fans thought he was the best shortstop in the American League. He might have been the best then, but he has not kept the pace. There has been an evident weakness around the territory adjoining second base which has cost the Athletics quite heavily.

If the Athletics had an old-time third baseman who could hit like Baker and field as securely as Baker did in some ways, it would help them. Baker did not cover a great deal of ground and fought the ball in all manner of ways when it did not come to him just right. But where he could get the ball he could handle it well enough and he could always bat sufficiently well to make up for some slight deficiency in fielding. Mack has not got that combination now.

Take the infield of the team and analyze it cruelly and it will become evident that by another season the Athletics will need some hair tonic and a few other exhilarators to pull the boys through.

Simmons has played some good ball for the Athletics, but he has not played with the strength that he had all last season. The fact is that he went uncommonly good in 1925, and it was asking too much to have him come back as well as he played then, or better. Baseball players who hold a very stiff pace from season to season are few. Cobbs grow only one in 50 years.

Gained Little in Ehmke Deal.

The outfield of the Athletics never has given complete satisfaction to Mack and he finally traded Miller away in order that he might get Ehmke. The transfer seemed to be good, because the Athletics were in need of pitching. Ehmke has had but little more success with Philadelphia than he had with Boston. That means Connie gained less than a thimbleful in his effort to bolster his pitching and that he must go farther if he expects to connect with the pennant limited in 1927.

MISS WILLS PLAYS AT TOP FORM IN DEFEATING MISS MARY BROWNE

RICHARDS WINS OVER BIG BILL IN FOUR SETS

U. S. Women's Champion Loses but Five Games in Beating Rival—Sixth Reverse of Year for Tilden.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK., Aug. 2.—Critics who have looked with a dubious eye on William T. Tilden's attempt to link the stage and the tennis courts in one career today had new evidence to support their forecast of a decline in his racquet mastery.

His crushing defeat yesterday at the hands of Vincent Richards in the final round of the Metropolitan championship, 6—3, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2, marked the third and most decisive triumph scored over him that year by the youthful rival who has challenged his supremacy for six successive seasons.

While Tilden was going down to defeat, another national champion about whose title defense tennisdom has been worrying, dispelled the doubts of the skeptics. Helen Wills, whose tour of Europe was halted two months ago by an operation for appendicitis, gave convincing evidence of her complete recovery of strength and form by easily defeating Mary K. Browne, former champion and captain of the Wightman Cup team.

Big Bill's Sixth Defeat.

The Richards match also marked Tilden's sixth reverse of the year, for the Philadelphia star lost indoor singles matches to Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra of France, while several weeks ago he went down to straight set defeat before young Alfred H. Chapin Jr. of Springfield, Mass.

Defeat in itself was not so important, for Richards has frequently upset his former teacher during their long duel on the courts. But never before has the young Olympic champion won in less than five sets and never before has Tilden, during his long reign at the net, been so decisively beaten at the height of a tennis campaign.

The two California girls met in the final round of the Maidstone Club invitation tournament, and Miss Wills triumphed, with the loss of only five games, 6—3, 6—2. For the first time since her return to the courts, the champion carried her battle to the net without hesitation, smashing and volleying with old-time vigor.

The completion of these two tournaments centered interest today on the annual Seabright invitation tournament, in which Miss Wills and Richards are entered. Leading players of the country will be pitted against them, with William H. Johnston and Norris Williams, members of last year's Davis Cup team, making their first tournament appearances of the season. Tilden has announced he will participate only in the doubles.

Dempsey Will Knock Tunney Out in 7 Rounds, Says Gibbons

"If He's in Shape," Tommy Adds—Gene Smarter but Jack Hits Harder Says Man Who Fought Them Both —Hopes Tunney Wins.

By the Associated Press.

OSAKIS, Minn., Aug. 2.—"If Dempsey is as good as when I met him, he'll win from Tunney in about seven rounds."

That was the estimate of Tommy Gibbons, the heavyweight pugilist, who withstood 15 rounds of hard battling at the hands of Dempsey at Shelby, Mont., only to be knocked out by Tunney in New York City.

Gibbons is here at his summer home with his family, fishing and boating, his mind as far as possible from gloves and rosin.

"I think Dempsey will win," Gibbons reasserted, "but I'd rather see Gene beat him," he added as an afterthought. "You know I think the public is getting tired of Dempsey."

Gibbons, despite his declaration that Dempsey will emerge the victor, has wholesome respect for Tunney as a fighter and man. "A fighter all the way," was his estimate of the contender for the world's heavyweight crown.

Just the Sort Dempsey Likes.

"Gene is a nice, clean boy. A snappy fellow. He's the kind of a boy Dempsey likes to meet—fast and aggressive," was Tommy's description of the New York battler.

"Personally I think Tunney is smarter than Dempsey. He's hard. He's aggressive. It's going to be a great fight and I'd like to see it. Yes, I think a fair estimate would be seven rounds," he repeated as an afterthought.

"Dempsey is far the harder hitter of the two. Gene is faster—he's got speed and brains, but Dempsey hits hard."

The St. Paul man's eyes lighted with this. He apparently recalled those 15 rounds July 4, 1923, when he lost a decision to the champion after taking every variety of blow in Dempsey's repertoire—except a knockout.

In those 15 rounds Gibbons learned much of the champion—his hard hitting offensive, his stamina, his ring generalship, but most of all of punches which had the speed and power to penetrate the neat defensive which Gibbons had worked out for months.

Gene Knocked Tommy Out.

In the Tunney fight, a year ago last June, Gibbons took his first knockout—from the new sensation in the heavyweight ranks, Gene Tunney.

"Of course," he said, "one never can tell. I haven't heard anything about Dempsey's condition except what the newspapers say. His retirement from activity may have been hard on him. But, as I say, if Dempsey is as good as he was when I met him—well, about seven rounds."

Robins Launch Another Drive, Win 3 Straight

Brooklyn Only 1 1-2 Games Behind Cardinals—Yanks Win Eleven in Row.

By the Associated Press.

Opposition to Western monopoly of the first division in the National League has broken out anew. The Chicago Cubs have been ditched into the second rank and a Brooklyn menace once again threatens the leaders.

Doug McWeeny came out on top of Charlie Root in a pitching duel yesterday with Brooklyn taking the decision 2 to 1 from the Cubs. The Robins also took fourth place and with three consecutive victories now tucked away rate one and a half games from the third place Cardinals and but six contests from the league leading Pirates.

It was a hard defeat for Root. He allowed but five hits whereas McWeeny yielded seven. Johnny Butler's single drove home Marriott with the deciding run in the fifth.

Behind the steady pitching of McQuillan, the Giants chalked up their third straight triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 2.

Yanks Can't Stop, Now.

The latest winning streak of the Yankees was extended to 11 games when the White Sox were subdued, 8 to 4, on their home diamond in Chicago. The Hugmen have won six struggles of their present tour of the West and have yet to taste defeat. Herb Pennock was victor in the box and it was his seventeenth triumph.

Another Winning Streak.

Cleveland hung the Indian sign on the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 1, stretching the winning streak of Tris Speaker's tribe to seven straight. The clubs battled through eight innings without a score and in the ninth, after the Hose had put over a run, Burns' single permitted Spurgeon and Speaker to come home. Levsen gave four hits and Ruffing five.

Philadelphia's engagement with the Detroit Tigers was postponed on account of rain.

Boonville 6, Clinton 2.

CLINTON, Mo., Aug. 2. — Boonville defeated Clinton here yesterday, 6 to 2, when Hale, Clinton pitcher, suffered a dislocated thumb in the first inning, retiring from the game, and was replaced by Cummings, an outfielder. King, Boonville pitcher, held the Clinton team to five hits and was given perfect support.

Score by innings:

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

JACK.—The Vice President of the United States receives $15,000 a year and the Cabinet members receive $15,000 each. The Judges of the district courts of the United States receive $7500 each.

READER.—Chess is one of the oldest and probably the most scientific game known. Its origin is mysterious. It was mentioned in Oriental literature about 200 B. C. It was originally played in India, Persia and Arabia and subsequently was known in Spain and Western Europe. It is said that it was invented in order to teach the art of war.

INQUIRER.—The stock yards in Chicago, which are the largest in the world, have 20 miles of streets and the same number of miles of water troughs, with 50 miles of feeding troughs and 75 miles of drainage. The yards will accommodate over 20,000 cattle, 20,000 sheep and 120,000 hogs at one time. They cost over $10,000,000. (2) The average person inhales 2600 gallons of air per day.

DAILY READER. — Summer is the season of the year which in the northern hemisphere generally may be said to comprise the months of June, July and August. The astronomical summer lasts in the northern hemisphere from the June solstice to the September equinox, during which time the sun, being north of the equator, shines more directly upon this part of the earth and rises much sooner and sets later, which renders this the hottest period of the year. The period of greatest heat generally takes place in August, since the influence of the sun's rays has then been felt for a long time on the earth, and the wind blowing from the north becomes milder owing to a moderation of the temperature in the polar circle caused by the thawing of the ice. In the southern hemisphere the summer lasts from the December solstice to the March equinox.

G. M. A. — To clean marble a weak solution of oxalic acid should be applied with a sponge or rag, washing quickly and thoroughly with water to minimize injury to the surface of the marble. Rubbing well after this with chalk moistened with water will, in a measure restore the luster. Another method of finishing is to apply a solution of white wax in turpentine (about 1 in 10) rubbing thoroughly with a piece of flannel or soft leather. If the marble has been much exposed, so that its luster has been seriously impaired, it may be necessary to repolish it in a more thorough manner. This may be accomplished by rubbing it first with sand, beginning with a moderately coarse-grained article and changing this twice for finer kinds, after which tripoli or pumice is used. The final polish is given by the so-called putty powder. A plate of iron is generally used in applying the coarse sand; with the fine sand a leaden plate is used, and the pumice is employed in the form of a smooth-surfaced piece of convenient size. For the final polishing coarse linen or bagging is used, wedged tightly into an iron planing tool. During all these applications water is allowed to trickle over the face of the stone.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

MRS. A. B.—You can have the title to the lots placed in your name alone, if you are paying for them. See the real estate firm.

INQUIRER.—If there never was a marriage ceremony performed, then they are not legally married and are free to marry other parties without getting a divorce.

A SUBSCRIBER.—He could be prosecuted for making a false affidavit. If the local prosecuting authorities would not act, there would be nothing that could be done about it.

EX-SOLDIER. — The period of limitations for desertion from the United States Army committed in time of peace is three years. There is no period of limitations for desertion committed in time of war.

P.-D. READER.—If you leave no will, no children, no father and no brothers or sisters, your wife would receive one-half of the estate, and your mother the other one-half.

DUN. — The statute of limitations period for actions against physicians for mal-practice is two years. However, in your case a suit might not be barred because of the circumstances. You should consult a lawyer.

CONFUSED.—The notice would be a legal one. No witness is necessary, but it might be well to have someone else present. The notice should be that the tenant will vacate the premises one month after the next following rent day.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

READER.—Blackheads is a disorder of the sebaceous glands of the skin, characterized by yellowish or whitish pin-head sized elevations, containing in their centers blackish points. Very often the black points appear upon the unchanged skin. The disease is observed on the face, neck, chest and back chiefly. The affection, though comparatively trifling, is often extremely annoying to those affected. It is due in part to idiosyncrasy, in part to a general sluggish performance, not only of the functions of the skin but also those of the whole body. Those affected are apt to suffer from dyspepsia and with constipation, and in young women anemia and menstrual irregularities often exist. It is pre-eminently a disease of puberty, patients being almost invariably young men and women. Local treatment in some cases suffices to relieve the condition. Frequent bathing with hot water will aid in the process of removal. Stimulating ointments, especially those containing sulphur, are useful, as the following: Precipitated sulphur, 1 drachm; rose water ointment, 1 ounce. Make into an ointment and rub into the affected surface at night. Another excellent preparation is as follows: Vinegar, 2 drachms; gycerine, 3 drachms; kalolini, 4 drachms. This forms a soft paste, to be spread on the surface at night, and, if possible, in the morning. If applied to the face the eyes should be kept shut, on account of the pungency of the vinegar. It dislodges the plugs satisfactorily and they should be gently expressed, care being taken not to use too much force for fear of inflaming the skin. In very obstinate cases the X-ray, carefully applied, will cure. A tonic internal treatment is sometimes called for.

MEN, FOR FIRST TIME TO APPEAR AS MODELS IN FASHION SHOW

Annual St. Louis Pageant Will Open Tomorrow Night at the Garden Theater.

For the first time, men are to appear as fashion models in the annual St. Louis Pageant of Fashion, which opens tomorrow evening at the Garden Theater. Bevies of girls have displayed what the women would wear in the 11 previous productions, but mere man has been ignored till now. Ten youths this year will show the latest in modes for males. The performances are to be nightly, except Sundays, up to Aug. 20.

Incidentally, manufacturers, who want to show that St. Louis is a style center for men as well as women, declare that men's fashions for the coming season will be conservative—blues and grays, tweeds and serge. Black will remain the color for evening clothes. The fashions will be moulded to the farms that grace the billboards and magazine advertisements—"that trim American athletic figure"—with broad shoulders and narrow waists emphasized. Topcoats will have narrow "skirts." Oxford bags are "out."

There will be a private dress rehearsal tonight.

KILLS BIG RATTLESNAKE IN COTTAGE ON GASCONADE RIVER

City Attorney of Valley Park Has Thrilling Experience When on Outing in Laclade County, Mo.

Glenn Jones, City Attorney of Valley Park, shot and killed a large diamond rattlesnake in his summer cottage on the Gasconade River, in Laclede County, Mo., last Friday at daybreak. He had arisen to make coffee, while his sons, Glenn Jr. and Billy, and Joe Woods of Valley Park were asleep in adjoining beds.

He discovered the venomous reptile coiled on a canvas chair, with its 12 rattles sounding. He seized a .45-caliber revolver, but was afraid to shoot for fear of striking his companions. He dashed outside while the snake squirmed, and opened a window behind the chair. Returning to the door, he lay on his stomach and aimed up, so that the bullet would go out the window. His shot pierced the snake's head and awakened Woods and the Jones youths. The snake was five feet three inches long.

C. & N. RAILROAD PROGRESSES WITH PLAN TO ENTER ST. LOUIS

The Litchfield & Madison Railroad has acquired a four-mile tract of land from William Hunnicke, papers for which have just been signed at Edwardsville, which will provide right-of-way for six-tenths of a mile of trackage. In connection with this, Judge Woods at Carlinville has ruled that the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad is entitled to invoke the right of eminent domain to obtain a right-of-way across lands of the Camp estate, the heirs of which have resisted efforts of the railroad to build.

The result of these activities is that plans of the Chicago & Northwestern for a three-mile link of trackage which will enable it to enter St. Louis are approaching constructive possibilities. The Northwestern will construct a fraction over two miles of track to connect with the L. & M. spur, and the Court proceedings at Carlinville now will center solely upon the amount to be paid for the right-of-way.

Material for construction of the tracks already is upon the ground.

MAN WHO FELL 3 STORIES SUFFERED FRACTURED SKULL

When Charles Grieser, 46 years old, a tuck pointer, of 1416 South Broadway, fell from the roof of his three-story home Saturday afternoon, while repairing the roof, he refused medical attention and went on with his work.

Late Saturday night he appeared alone at city hospital, where physicians discovered his skull was fractured. His condition is serious.

BOMB AT AUBERT AVE. GARAGE

Shatters Windows in Neighborhood; Suspect Is Arrested.

A dynamite bomb was exploded at 2 a. m. today at the frame garage behind the home of Henry Burley, 764 Aubert avenue, smashing about 12 windows in neighboring houses and damaging the garage about $100.

Police arrested a man who Burley said had threatened to blow up his house because his divorced wife was permitted to room at the Burley home. The prisoner denied the charge.

SHARP DECLINE IN WHEAT FUTURES AT CHICAGO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Wheat prices slumped badly today. It seemed that most all the news was bearish and for this reason it was difficult to inspire buying even after a break of nearly 4c from Saturday's close.

Wheat prices had a further late setback today on selling prompted by Murray's Canadian crop estimate indicating a prospective yield of 390,000,000 bushels. The increase of 8,920,000 bushels in the visible supply also caused selling. Closing prices were 3⅛ to 4⅛c lower. September $1.39¾ to ⅞, December, $1.44 to ⅛. Corn closed ⅛ to 1⅛c higher, September 84⅝ to ¾c, December 88¼ to ⅜c. Oats were ⅝ to ½c lower, September 42¾ to ⅞c, December 45¾c. Lard closed 47½ to 50c; lower bellies 25c lower. Local cash sales were 27,000 bushels of corn, 30,000 of oats, 3000 of barley. Sales of 150,000 bushels of wheat were made to go to store.

There was general selling by commission houses at the start, based on the cooler weather, with good rains over parts of the Canadian West and scattered showers over the Northwest. Values dropped quickly on this selling and later private crop estimates stimulated further pressure and lower prices. Buying against indemnities checked the decline later.

Nat C. Murray, B. W. Snow and R. O. Cromwell issued bearish crop estimates. Their reports ranged from 601,000,000 to 643,000,000 bushels for winter wheat and from 187,000,000 to 213,000,000 for spring wheat. This made a total crop of 788,000,000 to 856,000,000 bushels, compared with 667,000,000 harvested last year.

Cash wheat was weak on heavy arrivals here, the estimate being for 1353 cars. Millers paid September price to 1c over for selections of hard wheat, were not interested in offerings of red winter and selections were quoted September price to half under.

The Southwest continues to have heavy receipts, with arrivals at Kansas City 1580 cars today. Export was quiet, curtailed by a bank holiday in England, which caused the Liverpool market to be closed. Country offerings of wheat were light. Minneapolis stocks decreased 5000 bushels for two days.

Corn started lower with wheat but rallied on bullish crop news.

There was early pressure because of wheat's weakness and because of rains over parts of the belt that were complaining of drouth. Later the three local experts estimated a crop ranging from 2,566,000,000 bushels to 2,648,000,000 bushels, compared with 2,905,000,000 harvested last year. This caused buying and a good rally. Country offerings to arrive were larger. Shipping demand showed no improvement.

Oats were easier in tone, but trade was light. Weakness in wheat caused pressure, but the bullish crop estimates failed to stimulate enough buying to cause a recovery. Private crop estimates range from 1,277,000,000 to 1,302,000,000 bushels, compared with 1,512,000,000 harvested last year. Shipping demand continues light. Country offerings were much heavier.

Provisions were lower under liquidation. At midday lard was 17½ to 37½ lower.

REORGANIZATION

United Railways Company of St. Louis

COMMON STOCK

TO THE HOLDERS OF DEPOSIT RECEIPTS FOR COMMON STOCK OF UNITED RAILWAYS COMPANY OF ST. LOUIS

Notice is herby given that holders of deposit receipts for Common Stock of United Railways Company of St. Louis issued by Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis, the depositary for such stock, are entitled to exercise the right conferred upon them, pursuant and subject to all the provisions of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization dated October 1, 1924, to subscribe for their pro rata amount of New Common Stock (if, as and when issued) of St. Louis Public Service Company (the New Company organized pursuant to said Plan) at $12.50 per share, heretofore offered to but not subscribed for by holders of certificates of deposit for Preferred Stock of United Railways Company of St. Louis. Holders of deposit receipts shall be entitled to subscribe for one-eighteenth of a share of such New Common Stock in respect of each share represented by their respective deposit receipts.

Holders of deposit receipts may signify their desire to subscribe for such New Common Stock only by presenting their respective deposit receipts on or before August 30, 1926, to Mercantile Trust Company, St. Louis Depositary, accompanied by a first payment of $8.50 per share of New Common Stock subscribed for in St. Louis or New York funds. The remainder of said purchase price, or $4.00 per share, will be payable at such date as may be fixed by the Reorganization Committee under said Plan on not less than ten days prior notice given in the manner provided in the Plan.

Any holder of a deposit receipt may elect to pay, within the period fixed for the first payment, the entire amount of any future installment and such payment will be appropriately noted upon the subscription receipt issued in respect thereof.

Upon such first payment of $8.50 per share in respect of such New Common Stock, there will be issued to the holder of the deposit receipts making such payment a subscription receipt showing the payment made, which subscription receipt will be assignable upon surrender thereof, properly endorsed to the Depositary and notation of such assignment on the books of such Depositary. Such subscription receipts will state in substance, among other things that failure to make payment of the future installment when and as payable will forfeit all rights in respect of the prior installment paid thereon; that the holder thereof, will, on notification by the Reorganization Committee upon the consummation of said Plan, and on surrender of said Subscription Receipt, be entitled, if not in default, to receive one or more certificates for the number of share of New Common Stock specified therein; and that, in case the Reorganization Committee should abandon said Plan of Reorganization, the holder of said Subscription Receipt, if not in default, will become entitled, upon surrender therof, to receive back the amount of the installments theretofore paid thereon, with such adjustments for interest and the expenses in connection with this and other subscriptions to the Common Stock of St. Louis Public Service Company by the Common stockholders of United Railways Company of St. Louis, as the Committee may determine, and on payment of such taxes as may be imposed in respect of such surrender and delivery, and to the return of his deposit receipt or receipts for Common Stock with respect to which the above subscription has been excerised, upon payment of such expenses as may be fixed pursuant to the powers conferred upon the Reorganization Committee.

Non-dividend bearing scrip without rights will be issued in respect of any factional share of New Common Stock subscribed for.

GEN. MOTORS ABOVE THE 201 MARK

Motor and Rail Groups Prominent in Day's Activities — Money Rates Advance—French Francs Higher.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"Ignoring the run-up in the money rate, which was regarded as a temporary factor, the stock market resumed its strong upward trend as the new week opened today. Plenty of ammunition was available to constructive forces, in the form of optimistic predictions by leading bankers on the outlook for business in the second half of the year. The sanguine remarks of several leading bankers before going abroad, together with the appearance of a number of favorable railroad and industrial earnings statements, encouraged a broadening out of activities for the rise. Brokerage houses reported a substantial improvement in outside buying based on the current predictions of especially dividend actions in the near future. General Motors, on the statement of his belief by a prominent banker that its recent sharp rise had been fully justified and that much higher prices were warranted by earnings, once more furnished the outstanding movement of the day, soaring sensationally to new record levels. Just before the close the 200 mark was passed, the price going above 201. The turnover, while somewhat short of Friday's huge figure, was nevertheless only short of the two million share mark.

Profit-Taking Readily Absorbed.

"Constructive forces maintained a strong hold on the market situation throughout the day. Rapidity of the upturn in certain directions, notably the motors and the rails, brought some heavy realizing around midday, but selling for profits was easily taken care of by an impressive demand. General Motors, accelerated by bullish predictions appearing as an interview given by a banker close to the company to one of the news agencies had a further spectacular rise in to new record high ground following a temporary setback in the forenoon. Other motors were also heavily bought, including Hudson, Nash, Studebaker and Willys-Overland.

Rails Move Up.

"Rails continued to attract an increasing following particularly the dividend payers, which pushed forward aggressively under the lead of New York Central, Louisville & Nashville, Delaware & Hudson and Baltimore & Ohio. "Katy," New Haven and Missouri Pacific issues were strong among the lower priced issues. Independent steels, the oils, coppers and merchandising issues were in demand. Specialties made further sharp gains.

Expect Return of Easy Money.

"The firm tone in demand money rates was not looked upon with any degree of anxiety in market circles. Several conditions were cited as explaining the present firmness, which is viewed as temporary and likely to pass within a short time. The turnover at the end of the month, it was pointed out, taxed the banks somewhat heavily. That was evident from the reduction in surplus reserves revealed in Saturday's statement of the Clearing House banks. Again the shareholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. who had not as yet exercised their subscription rights to the new big stock issue had to do so before the close of business today and this gave rise to an unusual demand for funds. The result was that calling of loans by banks to make up the loss in reserves and to finance the telephone stock deal depleted the supply available for trading purposes and brought an advance in the call rate to 5 per cent after renewals had been arranged at 4½ per cent, the highest in several weeks.

France Rise Sharply.

"Contrasting sharply with its recent pronounced weakness, was the sudden burst of strength in French francs, which carried exchange on Paris well up above the 2½c level or almost ¾c above the extreme low reached about a fortnight ago. Buying was inspired by the apparent determination of French financiers to obtain early ratification of the debt question. Other continental exchanges were higher generally and demand sterling retraced the ground lost late last week.

Sharp Reaction in Wheat.

"Bearish crop estimates and reports of better weather in Canada, combined with large receipts at Chicago to bring about a sharp reaction in wheat. September delivery dipped almost 4c a bushel and future options recorded almost equal losses. The trend at the new futures pit here followed closely that at Chicago. Coarse grains were also easier. Cotton moved within a narrow range of prices, varying only nominally from the final levels of last week.

Richfield Oil Co. Charter Shows $60,000,000 Capitalization.

By the Associated Press.

DOVER, Del., Aug. 2.—A charter was filed today for the Richfield Oil Co. of California, with capitalization of $60,000,000, to "locate, lease and acquire mineral lands, particularly lands containing petroleum and other oils and gases, springs and deposits." Financial and Industrial Briefs

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.

The North American Co. and its subsidiaries earned $3.40 a share on 3,892,225 shares of common stock during the 12 months ended June 30. During the preceding year earnings were $3.47 on 3,071,461 shares.

Business cycles in the United States are shorter than in any other country, says a survey of 17 countries now nearing completion by the National Bureau of Economic Research. The average duration of an American cycle is four years, as compared with 5.4 years for the 16 other countries, the summary declares. Thus far the investigators have not formulated a definite reason for the difference.

Net earnings of the United Light and Power Co. and its subsidiaries for the 12 months ended June 30 were $6,320,939 after interest, prior preferred and "A" and "B" preferred dividends.

The United Drug Co. in the six months ended June 30 earned $7.35 a share on 353,793 shares of common stock, as compared with $6.17 on 320,020 shares during the first half of last year.

A canvass of several representative commission houses in the financial district indicates that the floating supply of the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation has continued to shrink in the last two months. One house reported that since Steel crossed 135 stock carried for customers has dwindled to about 25 per cent of normal. Another said its holdings of Steel common dropped to 1" per cent of normal but rose again to about half the usual amount. At one brokerage house it was said there had been little change in the total but that virtually all small lots had passed into the hands of larger investors.

Boston Wool Market.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Somewhat better inquiry for wools was evident at the start of the week in the wool market and the moderate movement of medium and low grade continued. Fleeces are limited in quiry with demand fairly firm for territory wools and new clip Texas wool. Prices held within the range that has prevailed for several weeks. Foreign wools are in occasional inquiry but on the whole are inactive.

COTTON PRICES IRREGULAR ON NEW YORK MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The cotton market opened steady today at unchanged prices to a decline of 6 points under a renewal of the realizing movement which developed after the advances of last week and which was probably promoted by talk of better weather in the Western belt. December sold off to 17.61 and March to 17.85 at the opening, but the market was steadied by covering at these figures, while apprehensions of renewed showers in the Southwest probably brought in a little fresh buying.

Prices rallied to 17.71 for December and 17.93 for March, with the active months showing net gains of 3 to 6 points by the end of the first half hour. A private report published this morning made the condition of the crop 66.5, compared with 72.6 a month ago, and pieced the indicated yields at 14,193,000 bales.

The New Orleans figures estimating the world's consumption of American Cotton last season 15,165,000 bales and a carryover 5,362,000 bales attracted some bullish comment and probably promoted the early buying. After selling up to 17.73 for December and 17.94 for March contracts, or about 4 to 8 points net higher, however, the market eased under renewed realizing and liquidation by early buyers who may have been disappointed by the failure of the official forecast to show showers in the Southwest. Otherwise selling was restricted by the outlook for continued showers in the eastern belt and prices held within a point or two of Saturday's closing figures at midday.

The market showed increased firmness during the early afternoon on complaints of low night temperatures in Northern Texas and the detailed weather reports showing too much rain in the Eastern belt. By 2 o'clock prices were up to 17.77c for December, with active months showing net advances of about 10 to 12 points.

Commercial Cotton Crop for Year July 31 Was 15,614,707.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—Secretary H. G. Hester of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, announced today the commercial crop for the year ending July 31, amounting to 15,614,707 bales, an increase over last year of 916,351, an increase over the previous year of 4,324,310, and an increase over 1922-23 of 4,331,901 bales.

Southern consumption, which he stated at 4,778,926 bales, Mr. Hester said, indicates an increase of 398,808 bales, compared with last year, and an increase compared with year before last of 793,598.

The consumption of cotton, including linters in the Southern States is the largest ever known.

Mr. Hester makes the world's consumption of American cotton 15,165,000 bales, and the amount carried over at the close of July 5,362,000 bales. The world's consumption, said the secretary, has never before reached 15,000,000 bales. He ments to Canada, 8,252,163 bales, practically reaching last year's total makes the year's exports, including shipments.

Commenting on the enormous world's consumption, Mr. Hester said that it is largely due to the use of relatively cheap, low grade cotton by the mills and other consuming establishments.

NEW YORK BONDS (COMPLETE)

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—In the following table will be found a list of sales, highest, lowest and closing prices of bonds traded in on the Stock Exchange today, sales being in $1000 lots (000 omitted).

Quotations on all United States Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar, that is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and twenty-four thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Total sales today were $7,532,000, against $3,867,000 yesterday, $6,360,000 a week ago and $7,001,000 a year ago, and $12,209,000 two years ago. From Jan. 1 to date sales were $1,851,654,000 against $2,143,759,000 a year ago and $2,113,420,000 two years ago.

ACCUMULATION OF LEADING OILS FEATURE ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Accumulation of many of the leading oil stocks was the feature of the market at the beginning of the new week. The buying of Standard Oil of New York was of an impressive character, a further substantial advance being made in that stock, making it sell at a new high level for the present issue. There were wide movements in a number of other issues, some specialties moving up 5 points or more and the market broadened in bullish activities to include some new groups.

The improvement in the oil stocks was looked on by observers as natural to the continued heavy consumption of petroleum products adding steadily to the revenues of the important companies. Humble Oil was another of the strong features and a fractional gain was made in Prairie Oil. Tidewater which was in supply toward the end of last week made fractional rally.

Public utilities were fairly active but moved within a comparatively narrow range. Electric Investors was a prominent feature of this group, and there was active trading again in American Gas and Electric. Electric Bond and Share also showed a strong tone.

Pittsburg & Lake Erie which has been in demand during the greater part of last week after making a further advance of 4 points to 159, had a sharp reaction to 153.

Radio stocks in which there has been increasing interest for some time were among the prominent features in the industrial group. Continental Baking "A" after holding firm the past few days was again under pressure and had a fractional decline. Glen Alden Coal maintained a strong tone and made a further gain of about a point.

LEAD PRICE UP $5; ZINC ORE STEADY

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 2.—Lead ore price jumped $5, to $112.50 a ton, in the Tri-State district, in the week just closed. Zinc held firm at $50 a ton.

Advance in the lead prices was a reflection of the two boosts in the New York pig lead quotations of the American and Smelting Co., the first of which came on Monday, and was for $2 a ton; the second came on Friday and was for $3 a ton.

Demand for both lead and zinc was good, buyers taking all that was available at the prices offered. Although the zinc price was firm, buyers were not as insistent for purchases as in the previous week.

Higher prices find a natural stimulation of production. Mills that have been idle for months are again resuming production, the latest and largest addition being the Butte-Kansas mill, in the Waco district.

Shipments for the week were large, as follows:

OKLAHOMA.

	Zinc. Tons.	Lead. Tons.
Totals	10,631	1,120

KANSAS.

	Zinc. Tons.	Lead. Tons.
Totals	4,852	564

Value: Zinc, $242,600; lead, $60,630; total value, $303,230.

MISSOURI.

	Zinc. Tons.	Lead. Tons.
Totals	1,453	107

Value: Zinc, $72,650; lead, $11,502; total value, $84,152.

This week: Zinc, 16,936 tons; value, $846,800; lead, 1791 tons, value $192,532. Total value for the week: $1,039,332.

Thirty-one weeks: Zinc, 488,154 tons, value, $24,060,886; lead 71,737 tons, value $7,634,193; total value for year, $31,695,079.

Issue Authorization Asked.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Hocking Valley Railway applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to issue $6,000,000 in six months' 5 per cent secured gold notes. The issue would be secured by $7,500,000 of general mortgage bonds and would be issued to retire obligations maturing on Sept. 1.

W. K. McIntosh, Esq., President of The Liquid Carbonic Corporation (the new company) and who has been President of The Liquid Carbonic Company (the old company) has summarized his letter as follows:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS: The Liquid Carbonic Company is the largest manufacturer and distributor in the world of soda fountains and carbonic gas, and is a large manufacturer of bottling machinery and bottlers' extracts. The business was started 38 years ago with a capital of $75,000 and has been built up to its present premier position in the industry largely through reinvestment of earnings. The volume of business in 1925 aggregated $9,017,472. The Liquid Carbonic Corporation has been organized under the laws of Delaware to acquire the assets and business of The Liquid Carbonic Company, the predecessor Illinois Corporation, with the exception of the fruit and syrup department, representing only a small part of the business, which is in process of being liquidated.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of sale and exchange of 100,000 shares of Common Stock and sale of $4,000,000 First Mortgage Sinking Fund 6% Gold Bonds, to be presently outstanding, will be used to acquire the entire assets and business of The Liquid Carbonic Company (of Illinois), except the fruit and syrup department, to acquire by leasehold an additional carbonic gas plant, to provide additional working capital and for other corporate purposes.

ASSETS: A pro forma balance sheet of The Liquid Carbonic Corporation (the new company), as of June 30, 1926, after giving effect to the proposed financing and matters incidental thereto, as prepared by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., shows total net assets of $62.18 per share of Common Stock of no par value, presently to be outstanding. Net current assets alone amounted to $4,944,193, equivalent to $49.44 per share, the ratio of current assets to current liabilities being 2.83 to 1. Good will, an asset of which considerable value attaches because of the 38 years of existence of the Illinois Company and its present leadership in the field, is carried in the balance sheet, along with patents, processes, etc., at a nominal figure of $1.

EARNINGS: Earnings of The Liquid Carbonic Company available for dividends and management profit sharing, after eliminating profits and losses of the Fruit and Syrup Department, have been as follows:

		Per Share Equivalent on This Stock
Average 8 years and 9 months ended June 30, 1926	$486,508.23	$4.86
Year ended September 30, 1925	692,819.61	6.92
9 months ended June 30, 1926	641,347.89	6.41

NOTE:—The Fruit and Syrup Department showed a gross profit of $62,585 for 1925 and of $45,515 for 9 months ended June 30, 1926, but an average annual loss of $75,565 for the 8 years and 9 months ended June 30, 1926.

The foregoing earnings are stated on a most conservative basis, as shown by the following deductions, some of which are of a non-recurring nature.

(1) Depreciation charges at rates higher than those actually charged to conform with increased values disclosed by the American Appraisal Company's report as of September 30, 1925:
(2) Interest and discount charges except interest on Indebtedness equal to 6% on amount of new money provided by this financing;
(3) Premiums paid on retirement prior to maturity of 8% ten-year sinking fund gold notes, amounting to $48,724.54 in the year ended September 30, 1925, and to $22,500 in the 9 months ended June 30, 1926;
(4) Amount equivalent to interest and discount on $4,000,000 First Mortgage Convertible Sinking Fund 6% Gold Bonds presently to be outstanding;
(5) Provision for Federal income taxes at the rate of 13½% per annum.

Based on the results of ten months, it is estimated that the combined earnings of the corporation and of the predecessor company for the twelve months ending September 30, 1926, available for dividends and management profit sharing, after deductions, as shown above will amount to $1,040,000.

MANAGEMENT PROFIT SHARING: The certificate of incorporation provides that whenever the net profits of the corporation (after all interest and taxes and as therein defined) for any fiscal year shall exceed the amount of all sinking fund payments due or accrued to the end of such fiscal year on the bonds and an amount equivalent to dividends (whether or not declared or paid) aggregating $4.00 per share on the largest amount of the common stock at any time outstanding during such fiscal year, the board of directors, in its discretion, establish a management profit sharing fund out of surplus or net profits not in excess of 20% of said net profits for the purchase of common stock in the open market or of unissued Common Stock from the corporation, all purchases to be made at the market price prevailing on the last day of the fiscal year preceding the date of any purchase.

MANAGEMENT: The President and First Vice-President of the new company have been associated with the business for over twenty-four years and the eight major executives who will continue in active charge have been connected with the business for 13 to 24 years. The management and chief executives will exchange their holdings of stock of the predecessor corporation for Common Stock of the new company.

DIVIDENDS: The management will inaugurate quarterly dividends on the Common Stock at an early date at the rate of $3.60 per share per annum.

Application has been made to list the Common Stock and Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

Legal details in connection with the issuance of this Stock will be passed upon by Messrs. Beekman, Bogue, Clark & Griscom for the Bankers and by Messrs. Fisher, Boyden, Kales & Bell for the Company. The accounts of the predecessor corporation have been regularly audited by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company. Report on operating methods and management for the Bankers by Miller, Franklin, Basset & Co., Industrial Engineers.

We offer this Stock when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to prior sale and the approval of counsel. It is expected that temporary certificates or interim receipts, exchangeable later for definite certificates, will be ready for delivery on or about August 12, 1926.

13 MONTHS TO LIVE

The Love Story of a Man Pledged to Commit Suicide After His Honeymoon

By OCTAVUS ROY COHEN

(Copyright, 1926.)

CHAPTER 19.

Andrew North at Every Turn.

IN the three months which followed the unusual family life settled somewhat into a groove. To the casual observer the everyday routine of the Beckwiths was that of any young married couple of moderate means. Inclement weather caused Johnny to be with them more than usual; but even so there were two or three days of each week when he reported himself absent.

One bit of news Johnny did bring early in January; he had been given a new partner. "I've got a hunch," said Johnny, "that North must have heard about the affair between Nick and Alan. I ain't sure—but I'm pretty positive. Some one heard Nick say he didn't see what right North had butting into his private affairs. But even if North has passed the word for him to lay off, that ain't any sign that you don't have to keep your eyes peeled, Alan. Nick is nasty medicine."

March was a particularly bitter month. Alan and Beverly took long walks together in the afternoons and at night sat in their cozy living-room chatting. They made the acquaintance of a young couple who occupied an apartment on the same floor of the Avonmount, and there were occasional evenings of bridge, which Alan played exceedingly well, and of mah jong, which he detested.

Daytimes he was with Beverly a good bit more than heretofore, but he was scrupulous in seeing that she had plenty of time to herself. He joined a Y. M. C. A. and took up again a sport of his youth—handball—where his long, flexible frame and keen eye proved of enormous advantage, and he developed rapidly into an excellent player. As for Beverly, she spent her mornings marketing; she delighted in visiting the neighborhood stores and choosing for herself the particular cuts of meat which pleased Alan most, and in selecting choice viands from the grocer's shelves.

Occasionally they took Johnny and Mae Deshler to the theater. The local stock company commanded their admiration, and the quartet attended regularly every Tuesday night. Occasionally Mae and the boy took Sunday dinner with them, and once in a while Martha Garrison was their guest. It was on one such occasion that Garry's observant old eyes verified an instinctive feeling which had troubled her for some time. With characteristic directness she came to the point as she sat alone with them after the evening meal.

"What is wrong with you two children?" she inquired bluntly.

"Wrong? Why, Garry—whatever put such ideas into your head?"

"They aren't ideas, Alan; it's a certainty. You're young and in love with each other and you have everything in the world—but there is an undercurrent that a body can't miss from the minute they enter the front door. Now, what is it?"

They assured her it was nothing, but after she had gone they became very silent and serious. Alan changed to smoking jacket and slippers and Beverly settled herself with embroidery in the big easy chair.

They realized that there was much to be discussed, and they knew, too, that each had been avoiding it for the last three months. It had been such a delicious three months, so long as they did not permit themselves to think—and in each other's society that had been easy. But each had spent sleepless night after sleepless night, staring into the darkness and wondering.

It was a queer situation and apparently an unanswerable one. But most disturbing of all was the knowledge of their mutual love and the insurmountable barrier between them.

Actually, they did not speak of their love, but it showed in every look and word and gesture; it was in the yearning light of her eyes and the tragedy which shone therefrom; in the care and thought of her which dominated his every thought. They had not previously touched upon the Damoclean sword because of the pain that it must bring. But tonight——

"Beverly——" he leaned forward earnestly, "we're thinking of the same thing. Why not thresh it out?"

She did not pretend lack of understanding.

"What is there to thresh out, Alan?"

"A good many things, dear. It's been six months now—the six happiest months of my life. There are seven months remaining."

"Yes. And then——?"

"I'm not kicking," he said softly. "I went into this willingly. I knew what it meant—but I didn't know you. For the first time in my life I have learned the meaning of love and of home. I held cheap the life which I had been living for years—but I cannot hold my present life so cheaply. Do you understand?"

"Yes, Alan. Before, you didn't want to live. Now things are different."

"Exactly. And I used to think that where there was a will—only I quit believing that during the years when I was struggling to keep my body nourished and clothes on my back. But now the will seems stronger—the strongest will in the world."

"Is it possible?"

"I'm stubborn enough to believe that anything is possible. Even this. The thing is unthinkable—I, not quite 27 years of age, doomed to death in exactly seven months! And yet I can't see a way out."

"There isn't. You are dealing with Andrew North."

"He certainly isn't utterly bereft of all human qualities, is he?"

"Yes. God knows I have reason to believe that. I was with Al Conroy one day and the next he was dead—murdered by orders of Andrew North. Do you wonder that I can't regard him as possessed of human emotions, or of the faintest hint of softness?"

"I don't wonder. Mind you, if there was an honorable way out, I wouldn't hesitate to take it. I can't bear the idea of standing by and letting Fate overtake me, particularly when I know just when and how it is coming."

Her eyes narrowed and she spoke slowly, earnestly. "North is a man without ethical standards; your compact is illegal and horrible basically; you would not be blamable for breaking it in any way you could."

"You have an idea?"

"I've had a thousand, any one of which might be good against any other man. The obvious thing is escape. But that is impossible. We're surrounded by spies of this man; if I so much as packed a suitcase Andrew North would know it through Ellen. Every move you make is reported to him by Squint Scoggins; he himself would see a break in your routine almost before you knew that the routine had been broken. This new man who is acting as John's jailer— The thing is monstrous, impossible, in a twentieth-century civilization, but it happens to be a fact. Don't get the idea that North doesn't know what we are thinking and discussing; part of his uncanny power is his very knowledge of human nature."

"He warned me in advance. I didn't believe him. But I had not then met you."

"Being in love with me, Alan, only makes your position harder. But you would have wanted to escape, anyway. Six months ago you were cold and hungry and depressed. Nothing seemed worthwhile. A year of comfort and bodily ease and mental enjoyment—and you'd have wanted life as keenly as you do now. It's a natural instinct—this clinging to life—and North knew it."

"Therefore," Alan spoke quietly, "under his code I'm entitled to no consideration."

"Not a particle. From his viewpoint there can be no argument. And since you know that he must have anticipated any move we can possibly make—and that he is merciless——"

"You surely can't expect me to sit back and do nothing?"

"What else is there to do, Alan?"

"I don't know. I've been living in a dream for the last three or four months. Beverly—ever since I knew that I loved you and that perhaps you love me——"

"You know that I do."

"I've been afraid to wake myself, fearful of facing realities. I've told myself that I had 10 months—then nine—then eight—and I know now that pretty soon I will be counting in smaller figures; three months—two months——" He lighted a cigarette and the fingers which held the match were trembling. "I'm afraid to think farther than that. And yet, Beverly, I wonder if you can understand me when I say that if North will show no mercy, then I must go ahead with my end of the bargain?"

"No! Alan! You don't know what you're saying! Surely, you wouldn't—kill yourself—just because you told North—"

"Yes, dear. He himself argued against it. He invested $25,000 in my honesty; invested it because he believed me—accepted my word. I'm afraid I cannot go back on it."

"But, Alan—it's not reasonable! That you should do this—without an effort to escape——"

"I'm sorry. It isn't North's fault that I have changed my mind. He has done his part."

"I wish to God he hadn't."

"But he has. He has played square. I can do no less."

"And you mean to sit back placidly and let your life run its course; you mean to do nothing?"

"Not exactly. You see, Beverly, I don't entirely agree with your opinion of Andrew North. The man is, after all a human being. There is a brain in his head and a heart in his body; he can experience happiness and misery just as we can; he may be morally twisted and warped—but he is a man. And a man will understand."

"Not North."

"Yes, North. I am going to him tomorrow. I am not going to plead: I am going to state facts. I am going to see if we cannot adjust this thing some other way."

She laughed harshly. "God help you! I might believe that the ocean would turn to nectar and the pavements to gold — but not Andrew North will show mercy."

"Just the same. I shall try. And Beverly—" his voice sank low—"if he should give me a chance—if he should raise the death sentence—would that make things different between us?"

She raised her eyes to his. "Alan," she replied gently, "no matter what North says—I love you and I am your wife."

He bit his lip and turned away. "Knowing that, dear—I shall make North do as I wish. When a man wants something as I want you—" He paused abruptly.

"And even that," she said bitterly "has passed into the hands of Andrew North."

TO BE CONTINUED.

When the mind has brought itself to attention it will be able to cope with difficulties and master them, and then it may go on roundly.—Locke.

A WOMAN PAGEANT DIRECTOR BARES HER WOUNDS

"What! Me as a cave man with nothing on but a leopard skin? Young woman, you surprise and shock me."

Where Everybody Must Be Gorgeous, History or No History, and Prominent Citizens Are Shrinkingly Modest (but Only in Spots), Superhuman Diplomacy Is Required to Get 'Em Into Line.

Aurelie Asten, pageant director, who tells the secrets of h[er] ...

By AURELIE ASTEN.

WHO says Americans would not love a King and a court and all the fuss and feathers and parades? They would go wild over it. I know. For the last few years I have been in the business of getting up all kinds of civic spectacles and grand affairs of color and pomp for citizens of the north, south, east and west. Pageants, you know, for people to look at and strut around in. My job had precisely to do with the fuss and feathers part of it. I have been art director and designer of costumes for pageants.

For 15 years the pageant has been the reigning fashion in the way of civic celebration. If a town has a birthday or some other event to commemorate, a pageant is the right thing. There have been countless pageants all over the country. Cornville, Ia., is making much of the hundreth anniversary of its founding. The leading lights, usually inspired by the suggestions of the cultured society ladies, decide to have a pageant representing various events in Cornville's history. A local dignitary comes to New York, looks up a pageant director, and makes arrangements. It will cost from $500 up, depending on how much money they want to spend. The pageant director, with a large staff, a small one, or no staff at all, takes himself to Cornville, and duly on the festive occasion several hundred of Cornville's citizenry have a chance to march around most gaudily costumed and evoke or think they evoke the admiration of their fellow townsmen.

The arranging of pageants has become quite an industry. A whole profession of pageant directors make an average of good money, and a number of them make big money.

The George Washington Part

YOU should see the way the citizens like to get into the grand regalia at pageants!

There was a great man in one town who was so predominant in everything that there was no question at all about who should play the part of George Washington. The Father of His Country, as you may know, wears a fairly loud uniform. When he got into the colonial swellery the great man felt fine. He thought he looked so good that he imagined he ought to be on public view all the time. American history, unfortunately, has it that George Washington died in the course of events, and was seen no more. That pleased the great man not at all. Would you believe that he insisted on appearing, riding on his white horse, on every scene in that pageant down to the present day? He did. When Lincoln freed the slaves, there was George Washington riding up and taking part in the proceedings. When Roosevelt charged up San Juan Hill, George Washington was very much in the picture. When the Alamo fell, George Washington drew his sword and rallied the troops. It was a scream, but there wasn't anything to do about it. The great man was too important to be ordered around by any mere pageant director.

The Queen in Short Skirt

In one midwestern city I had an inspiration. The Y. W. C. A. gave a grand pageant which illustrated the progress of woman from the earliest time down to her present emancipated state. There were a sequence of historical tableaux. One was to be Egyptian. Now, I had discovered that at one period of Egyptian history the women wore short skirts. The pictures of Queen Hatasu show that. What could be finer than to have a scene with Queen Hatasu in her short skirts? That would present the origin of the shirt skirt, and would prove that the short skirt, far from being shocking and immodest, was sanctioned by the most respectable example of the Egyptians. It was a good idea. I took the greatest pains to design a very handsome and historically correct version of Queen Hatasu's short-skirted costume.

Out in this city was a society woman of unquestionable authority whose face had quite an Egyptian style of beauty. When she saw the sketch that I sent out of Queen Hatasu's magnificent frock she made up her mind. She was Queen Hatasu, and that was all there was to it.

A Rush to Wear Silks

It seemed all right until I saw her in the costume with the very short skirt. She thought she looked simply too fascinating, but you should have seen the legs! They were fat, heaven only knows how fat. She was too funny! If she appeared like that it would set everybody laughing. We couldn't allow it. Still, it was obviously impossible to divorce her from the role of Queen Hatasu. I had to scrap my inspired idea. I had to say I had made a mistake about Queen Hatasu's having worn short skirts, and that it was a grievous historical error which must be corrected at once. I changed Queen Hatasu to long skirts, to skirts that swept the floor, a regular bridal train. Thus was lost the symbolical defense of modern woman and her short skirts.

One feature always rested badly with the ladies. We used cheap materials generally, and a lot of unbleached muslin. They did not like the unbleached muslin. It is true that the pageant was always at a considerable distance from the audience, far enough so that the unbleached muslin looked about the same as any other material. That did not matter. They did not like the idea of unbleached muslin.

Once I put on a Chinese number. There was a rush for parts in it by the women. The beauties of the town insisted on being in it. The reason was this: The scene was concerned with the development of silk in China. I thought it would be a naturalistic sort of thing to have the girls dressed in silk. That was fine. When the feminine of the town heard of it they stormed the Chinese number.

The local great man felt so fine as George Washington that he wanted to be on public view all the time.

Men the More Modest

Often the women were so particular they would drive you mad. I would want, say, a patch of pink to balance off the color ensemble. I would assign a group of women to wear pink. One would come to me in great agitation. Oh no, she could not possibly wear pink. She didn't look well in pink. Of course, with the audience as far away as it was it didn't matter in the least whether her facial coloration matched well with pink or not. She was only a small part of a general mass of pink. That argument meant nothing. The best way out of the difficulty was to tell her that she was wrong about this particular pink. ... simply marvelous in the ...

LEMON JUICE WHITENS THE SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

One may wear a com- of emeralds and diamonds a truly artistic effect, if some of the pieces both stones in their design. en wearing say a diamond and emerald bar pin and ring, don't make the mistake of wearing a rope of pearls around the throat. It is so easy to find, at a reasonable price, some sort of the same stones as the ring and bar pin, and the ensemble will be far more attractive.

When buying paste jewelry I think you'll find smaller stones and settings will work out more attractive and be less flashy than those of larger size.

Artificial diamonds, unless combined with other stones, should be avoided unless one pays a liberal amount for them. The amount of money spent on a paste diamond necklace will frequently purchase a single stone of real value. Of course, the one stone won't make the display that the necklace will, but the display that it does make will be of real merit.

Very little jewelry, whether it be a twenty-five-thousand-dollar diamond necklace or a dollar string of pearls, should be worn during the morning hours. In smart circles the only pieces that are accepted at this time are an engagement ring, a modest barpin and watch.

Reddy Sees a Queer Fellow

Because you've never seen a thing
Don't say it cannot be.
The strangest thing you've ever seen
May common be to me.
—Barker the Seal.

AND that shoe fits the other foot just as well. You'll find it so all through the Great World. A thing that is unbelievably strange to you may be very commonplace to me, and a thing that seems impossible to me may be so familiar to you that you do not give it a thought.

Of course, Reddy Fox knew a whole lot about crabs. He was quite used to seeing these funny fellows scuttling sidewise whenever he came along. He had found out that some of the biggest ones could pinch hard enough to make him yelp. They really are very queer fellows, theses crabs, looking as they do like huge spiders in shells. But Reddy was so accustomed to them that it never occurred to him that they were queer.

But when one night he found on the beach a dead, queer-looking creature that had been cast up by the waves, he was the most surprised fox you ever saw. Never had he seen anything like this. His first thought was that it was some kind of a crab. It had legs very much like the legs of the crabs. But then he discovered that the body was altogether different. The body was long and seemed to be in several parts which were hinged. And then the pinching claws! Never had Reddy seen anything like these. There were two of them, one being a little bigger than the other. One look at them was enough; he certainly didn't want to be pinched by either of those claws. The shell of this fellow was a dark green, which looked almost black, and there were places on the big claws that were red.

Never had he seen anything like this

Reddy to ask what he was staring at so.

"I don't know what it is," replied Reddy.

"What does it look like?" inquired Barker.

"It looks like a crab, yet it doesn't. It's got the biggest claws I ever saw," replied Reddy.

"Bring it over here where I can look at it," said Barker.

Reddy hesitated. He didn't like to admit that he was afraid to pick that thing up. But he was. You see, he wasn't quite sure that it wasn't alive. Finally he got a hold of it by the tail and dragged it over.

Barker merely gave it a glance. "Pooh!" said he, "that's nothing but a lobster. There's nothing queer about that. That one is dead, anyway."

"What's it like when it's alive?" inquired Reddy. "Its funny I've never seen any running around on the beach."

Barker began to laugh. "What are you laughing at?" demanded Reddy.

"The idea of Big Claw running around on the beach," replied Barker.

"Crabs do, and this thing looks something like a crab. Anyway, it has legs like a crab and claws like a crab, only bigger. Why shouldn't it run around the same as the crabs do?" said Reddy.

"Because a lobster lives in the water and not on land; that's why," replied Barker. "If that one was alive, it wouldn't be up there. And let me tell you that if you ever find a live one you want to keep away from those big claws."

"Huh!" replied Reddy. "You don't have to tell me that. I wonder if it's good to eat."

"Good to eat!" exclaimed Barker. "If there is anything better to eat than Big Claw the Lobster, I don't know what it is. But you want to get one when he hasn't any shell."

Reddy looked at Barker suspiciously. "Say that again," said he.

Home Comforts on Hot Day

IT means much to the business folks to come to a comfortable home after a day's struggle against the heat and it really requires no special exertion on the part of the housewife to provide this.

• • •

Exclude the sun from the rooms so the home is comfortable in temperature when the family assembles for dinner. One of those inexpensive electric fans will help along this line.

Have plenty of water on the ice and fruit syrup or lemon juice to quickly prepare a satisfying cold drink.

Delay dinner, if necessary, in order to allow the bread-winners to indulge in a refreshing bath and change of clothing before eating. Having everything ready for the bath would be a forethought the family of workers would appreciate.

• • •

Do not serve heat producing foods. Meat is a good thing to strike from the hot day's menu. Serve eggs sparingly when it is very hot.

Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

By IRENE CASTLE

Copyrighted 1926 by P. O. Beauty Feature

The Folly
Of using just "any good soap" on your face

The kind beauty experts use themselves and how used

A SOAP may be good for any number of things, yet not be at all suited to the skin. The only kind of soap to use on your face is a soap made basically for that purpose. A good complexion is too priceless for experiment.

Before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." All soaps then were judged too harsh.

Then came this famous beauty creation. A soap made by experts in beauty of rare cosmetic oils—and made solely for one purpose: to safeguard the complexion. A soap that changed the beauty methods of the world.

Leading skin authorities urge it. It has brought natural skin loveliness to more women than any other method known. In your own interest, use it according to the following rule for one week. Note the improvement your complexion shows:

Nature's rule to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion"

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge, if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Just do this and keep your skin soft and lovely—wrinkles will be less a problem as the years advance.

Get Real Palmolive

Do not use ordinary soaps for the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

THE PASSING SHOW.

THE Senators are through with Roger Peck
Last year's most valuable and honored hero;
Which goes to show the star today, by heck!
Tomorrow may be nothing but a zero.
But Peck once more may wear the Yankee label,
Though not considered quite so valu-able.

Jack Dempsey, out in Colorado Springs,
Is training for his argument with Tunney;
Besides a punching bag and other things,
He's punching a machine for adding money.
For, whether Dempsey wins or gets a licking,

And few if any fistic gents are wiser.
When, over here he couldn't get a fight,
He went across the sea and fought the Kaiser.
Right on the beezer Brother Tunney socked him,
Then followed through and into Holland knocked him.

GOOD WORK.

We note that the wood blocks on Washington west of Kingshighway are gradually giving way to asphalt. They are taking a couple of blocks at a time.

GOOD EYE!

See where Kansas City has padlocked 52 blind tigers.

It doesn't take more than half an eye to see that blind pigs and blind tigers couldn't operate without the connivance of blind policemen.

The old licensed and regulated saloon has passed out but the unlicensed 24-hours-a-day dive is still batting 1.000 in the Antisaloon League.

We take it that Babe Ruth will be among those present at Yankee Stadium to see if Jack Dempsey can knock Gene Tunney for a loop.

ator over."

We didn't really have any or-ization," Shepherd said. "I got ter Wicks to assist in putting posters and literature."

n't Tell How Many He Hired.
How many people did you e?" Reed asked. "I really could say. After the primary was I wiped the slate."

Yes, but you did not wipe your ollection out."

Shepherd said he and Wicks had ups of 21 precincts out of 61 cincts in East St. Louis as well some of the precincts in the burbs. Workers were hired and d by the day when their servs were required.

Did Mr. Fisher tell you how ch money he had to furnish?" ed asked. "No." Shepherd said gave us $2500, which was d to hire workers in each pre-ct."

Watchers were employed at the e on primary day at from $5 $15 a day.

Brooklyn Mayor Delivered.

Shepherd said he gave $200 to Washington, Mayor of Brook-
, Ill., for campaign work.

Did he deliver?" Reed asked.

of 646 votes cast McKinley
680."

About six went astray?" "Yes,

You don't think there was any ruption in the count that you six votes, or was it an acci-t?" "There was no corruption far as I was concerned."

Shepherd said he gave Washing-the $200 in cash.

After less than half an hour on stand Shepherd was permitted return home.

e recalling of Samuel Insull, ago public utilities executive, was deferred. He may take stand tomorrow. Insull spent $3,735.19 in the campaign, of ich $125,000 was contributed to successful candidacy of Frank Smith, chairman of the Illinois erce Commission, who deed Senator McKinley for the atorial nomination. The com-ee wants to know if he spent other money in the primary.

William H. Thompson Witness.

William Hale Thompson, former or of Chicago, was the second ess of the day. He came from rmania to give his testimony. He s record that Allen F. Moore, e's campaign manager, gave Thompson $25,000 and he in turn ded it to the Crowe-Barrett Relican faction in Cook County.
Thompson said he supported
Smith because of his opposition to World Court and that he ped Smith all he could.
e former Mayor disclosed that
